WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Soblen Improves

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Robert A. Soblen remained dangerously ill in a drug-induced coma today, but doctors reported some signs of improvement.

A medical spokesman said even if the 61-year-old fugitive spy regained consciousness immediately, he could not be moved for at least 48 hours.

A hospital bulletin said:

"Although Dr. Soblen remains unconscious he has shown signs that his coma is becoming less.

"His cardiac condition has improved in the last 24 hours."

Sentenced To Prison

SAN JOSE (AP)—Former San Jose City Treasurer Robert D. Callison was sentenced to prison yesterday for embezzling $80,000 in parking meter funds over a period of 10 years.

He also was sentenced for falsifying his state income tax to hide the embezzlement. He had pleaded guilty to both charges.

Superior Judge William F. James rejected Callison's plea for probation, saying the law did not permit it in embezzlement of public funds. He also refused to specify that the terms be concurrent, saying this was up to the Adult Authority. Maximum penalties are 10 years and 5 years, respectively.

Light Italy Quake

Girls Doing Well

SAN BERNARDINO (AP)—The two girls who survived a plane crash that killed their parents are much improved and sharing the same hospital room.

Julie Clark, 6, heroine of a three-day ordeal without food or water on a nearby mountaintop, is eating heartily and demanding and getting extra rations of soda pop, said attendants at St. Bernardine's Hospital.

Her sister, Laurie, 8, whose left leg was broken so badly in the crash that a piece of bone penetrated her thigh, is in serious condition but much improved, a nurse said. Her leg has been placed in traction preparatory to a second operation for a compound fracture.

School Tax Reforms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Teachers Assn. yesterday proposed an overhaul of the state's school financing program and warned that student "drop-outs" must be lessened—to take the load off homeowners.

Jack Rees, CTA associate executive secretary, suggested these and other steps to improve schools in a report to a subcommittee on school finance of the Assembly Education Committee.

Rees said a "sweeping overhaul" of school financing is needed because "the homeowning taxpayer is paying more than his share."

Rail Fare Hike?

WASHINGTON (AP) — All 23 passenger-carrying railroads in the East asked the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday for authority to increase passenger fares by 10 per cent when the federal transportation tax of that amount expires.

The expiration date, under a tax relief measure for the railroads signed by President John F. Kennedy, is Nov. 15.

FIREMEN BATTLE BLAZE — Firemen on hose-ladders and on the ground tried to check the fire that broke out in St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral in San Francisco last night. Flames shot 50 feet into the air from the 71-year-old building at O'Farrell and Van Ness. (AP Wirephoto)

Five-Alarm Fire Guts Cathedral

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A five-alarm fire flashed through 71-year-old St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cathedral Friday night, destroying the historic church which had survived the 1906 earthquake and fire.

The only reported injuries were cut hands suffered by two firemen and a priest. Archbishop Joseph McGucken estimated damage at 2.5 million dollars.

The fire broke about 10 p.m. as members of the church's Teen Club were holding a dance in a lower hall used for non-religious functions. The 40 teen-agers were moved out safely, with no panic.

Arson investigators went to work immediately checking reports several youngsters had run into and out of the cathedral shortly before the fire was noticed.

Fire Chief William Murray would not comment on whether the fire had been set deliberately, but reported:

"The police . . . picked up some young people but . . . released them. It will be some time before the full facts are established."

As he looked at the red brick walls, all that were left of the church, Archbishop McGucken declared:

"We'll build right here as quickly as we can. This is a snap judgment, but I doubt if the cathedral could be reconstructed even if the walls hold."

Murray, who had worshipped in the cathedral many times, noted that fire had engulfed the interior by the time the first firemen arrived. "It was too far ahead of us—too far ahead of us," he lamented.

Another fire department official said "We've been sitting on this one for years. A church like this, when it goes, it's gone before you can do anything."

Father John Heaney, 33, tried to penetrate the smoke-filled interior to save the Blessed Sacraments on the altar but was driven back. He cut his wrist when the fire blocked his exit and he had to smash a window to get out.

More than 250 firemen and 62 pieces of equipment responded to the five alarms turned in between 10:13 and 10:20. The church occupies almost a half block at Van Ness Avenue and O'Farrell Street in the heart of San Francisco.

Traffic was rerouted from Van Ness as a torrent of water gushed down the street, which is part of heavily traveled Highway 101.

Nikita Urged To Compromise By Poet Frost

'World's Fate Shouldn't Be In Berlin Issue'

MOSCOW (UPI)—American poet Robert Frost said today he told Premier Nikita Khrushchev Berlin was too small a matter to decide the fate of the world and that the East and West should work out some sort of horse trade on the issue.

"He didn't say anything," Frost said.

Frost, 88, dean of American letters, met with Khrushchev yesterday at the premier's vacation retreat near the Black Sea resort of Gagra. Frost returned to Moscow today.

FELT TIRED

Frost said he felt tired when he arrived in Gagra and that Khrushchev sent two doctors to examine him and then called on the poet himself.

"I sat on the edge of the bed and we had a good talk and went at it," Frost said.

Frost said he thought Khrushchev was "just the kind of hero I thought he was."

"He's our enemy, but he's a great man," Frost said. "He constantly comes back to what's natural. He just thinks the Soviet form of government is more natural than ours and he means it.

'HE'S RUFFIAN'

"He's a ruffian. He's ready for a fight. He's not afraid of us and we're not afraid of him."

Frost said the Berlin issue had been one of the things he discussed with Khrushchev.

"I did say I hate it. I hate it that a small matter like that could decide the fate of the world," Frost said.

"I told him there might be something we have that he wants and there might be something they have that we want. We could trade and settle it just like a horse trade."

FOR POLITICS

When the premier sat on a chair near his bed, Frost told him, "You don't know this but the reason I came here was politics." His visit here was arranged under the Soviet-American cultural exchange program and is scheduled to end tomorrow.

"I told Mr. Khrushchev the future of the world for the next hundred years or so lies between the United States and Russia.

"We're laid out for rivalry in sports, science, art and democracy. By courtesy, we call them both democracies." He said that by "democracy"

2 Youths On Paint-Spraying Spree Cause $3,000 Damage

Two 17-year-old Larkspur youths went on a three-hour paint-spraying spree last night, leaving damage estimated by police at $3,000 in San Rafael, Larkspur and Corte Madera.

Police of the three communities said the youths spray-painted — often with obscene words — autos, garage doors, street signs and park restrooms. They also tore radio antennas off cars and stole two fire extinguishers. Their spree lasted from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. today.

Corte Madera Police Inspector Harold Hackett said the youths, one of whom is the son of a San Francisco police lieutenant, admitted the vandalism, saying they "were bored and had nothing to do."

The youths were apprehended shortly after they had returned home at 1 a.m.

Robert Dahl of 696 Hawthorne Drive, Tiburon, stopped Hackett, who was on patrol, shortly before 1 a.m. at the Edgewater Inn off Highway 101 in Corte Madera. Dahl told the officer that a car of three friends of his from Portland, who were staying at the motel, had been painted completely black by two youths.

Dahl said the youths had followed his friends, three girls, in a car from a party held in Larkspur earlier in the evening. Dahl had followed the youths' car to the motel.

Larkspur Police Officers Charles Mattos and James Neubert, through a description of the youths' car furnished by Dahl, traced one of the youths. Police said Dahl identified the car and driver.

Both youths admitted the chain of destruction, Mattos said.

The spray-painting tour ended when one of the youths threw a 15-ounce can of black lacquer off the Bon Air Bridge.

First hitting in San Rafael, the pair sprayed cars belonging to Jan Chielowec of 1404 Fifth Avenue, parked in front of his home, and of Nickolas A. Ortner, 21 West Crescent Drive, parked at Fourth and F streets. Police said Chielowec's car would require a complete new paint job.

Next, police said, the youths appeared in Larkspur and followed the girls to the Edgewater Inn where their car was completely spray-painted. Two fire extinguishers were stolen from the inn.

The youths then parked their car at Madrona Avenue and Bridge Road in Larkspur and proceeded up and down Madrona, West Baltimore and Piedmont Road on foot, according to Larkspur police.

They sprayed paint onto restrooms at the Madrona Play-

Guide Dog Aide Denies Harassing Blind Girl

William Johns, executive director of Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, denied yesterday that he or the organization's workers have been harassing a 33-year-old blind girl who sells pencils in downtown San Francisco.

The girl, Ruth Poittie, was arrested by San Francisco police Thursday for allegedly violating a city code making it unlawful to beg on public streets. Miss Poittie, who appeared in San Francisco Municipal Court yesterday, got a continuance of the case until next Friday, at which time she will enter a plea.

Though she said nothing in court yesterday, she told reporters in the courthouse corridor that her dog, Ginger, given to her by a friend, has been harassed by the Guide Dogs for the Blind. She said people have told her that guide dog trainers come up to her dog and make it bark.

Johns said trainers work with dogs around Union Square where Miss Poittie sells her pencils because the dogs have to get used to heavy traffic.

He said Miss Poittie's dog does not come from a recognized training school.

Johns said that "our blind" are afraid to go downtown because of the possible contact with Miss Poittie's dog. He also said they feel they would be immediately classified as beggers if seen in the vicinity where Miss Poittie is working.

Miss Poittie, however, denied that she is begging. She said she is selling pencils and if people want to make donations, that is up to them. She said she averages about $15 a day.

Johns said there are about 100 blind with his organization's dogs working in San Francisco. He said his primary interest in the case is to prevent them from being classed as mendicants.

Boat Goes Aground At Drake's Beach

A Canadian yachtsman, sailing his 30-foot boat alone from Vancouver, B.C., to San Francisco, ran it aground on Drake's Beach early today after becoming confused in the fog.

The Coast Guard at the Point Reyes Lifeboat Station said Burnet Chalners, owner of the Toloa, was looking for an anchorage shortly before 2 a.m. when he ran his vessel up on the beach.

A beach party from the Point Reyes station attached a line to the sailing boat and swam the other end of the line out to a 36-foot Coast Guard boat which pulled Chalner's vessel off the beach.

Chalners was reported ready to resume his journey to San Francisco this afternoon.

Old Tree Topples, Power Goes Out

A large bay tree in Woodacre that just got tired of standing toppled early today, knocking down a 12,000-volt power line on Park Avenue and temporarily cutting electrical service to about 15 homes.

Mrs. Joe Silva of Railroad Avenue reported to sheriff's deputies that she heard a rifle shot in the vicinity at about 4:48 a.m. Deputy Wade Powell discovered that the sound came, not from a rifle, but from the snapping electrical lines.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. maintenance men said the tree was old and nearly dead and apparently just toppled because there was no wind.

Police Set Up Watch For Masked Men

Novato police today continued intensified watch of the home of Gordon Andersen, owner of Andersen Chevrolet and apparent target of two masked men who bound and gagged an Air Force colonel and his son in a mistaken identity raid Thursday night.

Lt. Col. William James Olsen, 46, of the 28th Air Division at Hamilton Air Force Base, and his son, Billy, 8, were trussed up in their home at 1811 Novato Boulevard on their arrival home at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Their assaulters, both masked and one carrying a sawed-off shotgun and the other a crowbar, disclosed by questions they thought Olsen was Andersen—who formerly resided in the home the Olsen family now occupies.

Police said they still had no clue today to identity of the intruders.

100-MPH Crash At Lucas Valley

Robert Joseph Buckley, 41, 700 Las Colindas Road, San Rafael, took the Lucas Valley northbound off-ramp at approximately 100 miles an hour at 12:35 a.m. today, the California Highway Patrol reported.

His car skidded broadside for 120 feet and slammed into a light pole. Buckley was treated for a bruise on his left ear at Marin General Hospital and then sent to Napa State Hospital for observation.

The CHP reported that he acted irrationally and would not talk about the crash.

Marinite Takes Issue On Incomes

Caroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin Development Assn., took issue today with United Press International's report that families in Stamford, Conn., have the highest average income of any families in the United States.

Snyker said the report, carried in the Independent-Journal yesterday overlooked four Marin County communities. The average income for Stamford families, based on the 1960 census, was put at $8,745 a year.

Based on the same census figures, Snyker said, Belvedere families had an average income of $15,257 a year; Ross, $10,000 plus; Corte Madera, $9,137, and Sausalito, $8,963.

The UPI report was a compilation of "major" United States cities. This was perhaps the key to the issue raised by Snyker.

8,000 Marinites To Help K.O. Polio Drive

About 8,000 Marin residents will serve as volunteers during the K.O. Polio campaign designed to immunize as many persons as possible against the disease, Marin drive coordinator Dr. Eugene P. Shatkin announced today.

Volunteer ranks include youths, senior citizens, members of the medical and business professions, service clubs and social organizations, public employees, law enforcement officials and citizens working as individuals.

The county's 19 K.O. Polio stations will be staffed by some 700 volunteers on Sept. 23, the first of three Sundays when campaign leaders hope to immunize all the 160,000 residents with Sabin drops on lumps of sugar.

Second and third doses will begin Nov. 4 and Dec. 9.

Marin parent-teacher associations, under leadership of Mrs. Bert C. Corona and Mrs. Harry Wall of San Rafael, are recruiting 1,200 volunteers—400 to serve as registrars at the stations and 800 to telephone each of the county's 46,000 residents on the Thursday and Friday preceding Sept. 23.

More than 200 nurses, recruited by Mrs. Vera Watson of Fairfax, chief of the public health section of the Marin District of the California Nurses Assn., will be on duty at the vaccine stations from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Campfire Girls, under direction of Mrs. Gail Adams of Larkspur and Mrs. Albert J. Brinckerhoff of San Rafael, will distribute information folders throughout the county. Boy and Girl Scouts, members of the American Red Cross, Marin Medical Assistants, pharmacists and members of the Marin Medical Society Auxiliary and hospital auxiliaries will work inside stations.

Local police, sheriff's deputies, firemen and highway patrolmen will keep the flow of traffic moving on streets. Officials of the Wells Fargo Bank will collect the deposits of the 25-cent donation fees.

6 Seeking Two Openings On Las Gallinas Sanitary Board

Two incumbents and four challengers seek election to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board Tuesday. Three positions on the board are to be filled.

Mrs. Annie M. Reagan and Arthur B. Carpenter, who have been on the board since formation of the district eight years ago, are running for re-election. The term of Arthur T. Knutson is due to expire, but he is not running because he recently was appointed assistant director of the county public works department and fears a conflict of interest.

Other candidates are Jack Baken, Robert N. Sundquist, Dr. W. Alan Sweeney, and Mrs. Jack N. Crowell.

Here are their biographies in a nutshell:

ANNIE M. REAGAN. Owner of her own real estate and insurance business. Mrs. Reagan lives at 876 Las Pavadas Avenue, Terra Linda. She was born in Fort Worth, Tex., studied a year in business college, and did secretarial work and bookkeeping before going into business for herself in 1951. She has lived in Marin for 16 years.

Mrs. Reagan was one of the organizers of Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, which covers most of the area from Puerto Suello Hill north to Novato.

ARTHUR B. CARPENTER. A retired contractor, Carpenter came to the Bay Area from St. Louis during World War II, working first in San Francisco. He came to Marin County in 1943. A resident of 16 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, he took an active part in that area's community organization, and through that became interested in and assisted with formation of the sanitary district.

Recently Carpenter authored a booklet, "Highlights of Your Garbage and Sanitary Sewage Facilities," for mailing to residents of the sanitary district.

JACK BAKEN. Baken is a former member of the district board, defeated two years ago after serving six years, two of which he served as president. He is seeking return to the board.

Baken is self-employed, dealing in redwood products. He has lived in Marin County more than 30 years, 16 of this in Santa Venetia at 308 North San Pedro Road. He was a fire warden for Terra Linda before the formation of a fire district for the area.

ROBERT N. SUNDQUIST. A resident of Marin County since 1958, Sundquist lives at 842 Greenberry Lane, Lucas Valley. He is an engineer and feels there should be an engineer on the sanitary board. This is Sundquist's first venture into competition for a public office, but he was active in recent bond campaigns and in a movement to put the question of incorporation for Terra Linda and Marinwood on the ballot.

DR. W. ALAN SWEENEY. A native of Canada, Doctor Sweeney is a naturalized citizen and a Marin resident since 1956, living at 705 Bamboo Terrace, Terra Linda. He is a research chemist and chemical engineer for California Research Corp., a Standard Oil subsidiary. Doctor Sweeney says his work has "by chance" taken him into sanitation and he feels he has knowledge which would be of value to the district. He says the district area is growing rapidly and he is not sure that plans for future development are keeping pace.

MRS. JACK U. CROWELL. The wife of a sanitary engineer, Mrs. Crowell also is employed in secretarial work by Corte Madera Sanitary District. But she sees no conflict of interest.

She has lived in Marinwood for six years; her home is at 218 Blackstone Drive.

Because she has worked with her husband on major jobs in the Bay Area for 18 years, Mrs. Crowell believes she has more than the average layman's knowledge of sanitation matters. Her main concern is with maintenance of the system, because it is a growing area "and there will be lots of changes."

Mrs. Crowell is from Portland, Ore., is active in community affairs, and is the mother of four children.

Calendar Sale Set For Tennis Courts

Corte Madera Lions Club decided last night to start selling calendars next week to raise more funds toward two tennis courts to be constructed in the town park.

The club has $4,000 in its tennis court fund and will deposit it with the town. Total cost was estimated at $12,000.

The town council Tuesday night informally accepted the offer but agreed with a recommendation by town Mgr. Arthur T. Brandow that a baseball diamond be laid out ahead of the tennis courts.

Muir Beach Water Worry Over Highway

Alarm was expressed by the board of the Muir Beach Community Services District Wednesday that the proposed shoreline scenic highway may wipe out the district's water storage, secretary William Hunt said today.

The board decided, Hunt said, to protest the present routing of the highway to the State Division of Highways. The route, Hunt said, "would put a freeway across the mouth of Green Gulch, would alter the water table characteristics of the area as well as cover our water site."

Directors also discussed at their meeting plans for an assessment district to provide better water service for Muir Beach residents.

Watson S. Clifford, San Carlos engineer, presented plans for improving the system, including filtering and softening the water and installation of a larger water tank uphill from the present tank as well as a larger water main along part of the system.

No cost was discussed, said Hunt. The subject will be again discussed Oct. 3.

Charged With Welfare Fraud

Joseph W. O'Brien, 79 Cole Drive, Marin City, has been charged by the district attorney with defrauding the Marin Welfare Department.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety said O'Brien failed to report his income from employment while receiving general welfare. Garety said O'Brien owes the county $223.

O'Brien pleaded innocent to the charge Thursday in Marin Municipal Court, and a preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 4.

Novato Groups To Be Asked Pool Bond Aid

All Novato civic groups will be asked to help in passing a $100,000 bond issue in the November election for a community swimming pool, it was decided Thursday night by the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission.

A meeting of club representatives will be held either Thursday or Friday night next week, depending on when Gladys Snyder, state director of recreation, can attend, the commission decided.

City Administrator J. Julien Baget was asked to invite school boards, parent-teachers' associations, and civic groups to send representatives to the meeting.

The commission also voted to ask the city council for a definite statement on the location of the pool—tentatively planned for Novato High School—and whether the council favors the bond issue.

A report on the summer recreation program was received from Marlin Olsen, director. No report was given by Michael Gragg, director of the teen-age program.

Mrs. John (Betty) Machado, former commission member, sent a letter urging the commission to take action to obtain property of Richard Connell on South Novato Boulevard adjacent to Nave Shopping Center, for a city park. The Novato Planning Commission last week approved a zone change from agricultural to commercial for this four-acre area.

Mrs. Machado said the commission had taken action at an early meeting favoring this site for a city park. Referral to the minutes showed the commission had voted in favor of the nearby Glicksberg property.

Novato Advance Sued By Sackett

Oakland publisher Sheldon Sackett filed suit in Marin Superior Court yesterday alleging the publishers of the Novato Advance owe him $35,787.

Sackett states in the suit that he paid George A. Barnwell and Frederick J. Volz, operating under the name of Marin Publishing Co., the money July 27, 1961, for purchase of the company. He says the purchase agreement was never completed and that Barnwell and Volz have refused to return his money.

WRECKING THE RECTORY

Big clamshell chews into the 40-year-old rectory at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Mission Avenue and Court Street, San Rafael, to clear the way for a new wing with 10 church classrooms and a music room. The rectory, viewed here through the arch of the church door, has been used for church classes for the past six years. Construction of the new wing is expected to begin in mid-October. 'In God We Trust' Motto On Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take a look at the dollar bill in your pocket.

"In God We Trust" probably is printed on the reverse side. But it may not be.

In 1955 Congress directed in a law that this motto be printed on all paper currency and coins of the United States.

But, mindful of the expense of retooling money-printing equipment, Congress said the motto could be introduced as new presses were acquired by the Treasury.

Since then all newly printed one dollar bills bear the motto. But none of the larger denomination bills carries it.

In another five years, as the Bureau of Engraving and Printing puts new, high-speed presses into service and cuts new dies and plates, all bills will carry the motto.

If you see a dollar bill with the motto you can be sure it was printed after Oct. 1, 1957. That's when the first plate with the inscription was put on a press at the Bureau of Engraving, according to Henry J. Holtzclaw, the bureau's director. The changeover on all one dollar bill presses was completed early this year.

Since 1957 about four billion one dollar bills bearing the saying have been printed. These bills account for most of the 1.5 billion dollar bills in circulation.

But, according to Holtzclaw, lots of the older bills will circulate for many, many years. "They get stashed away someplace or just passed around and passed around and we don't get them back," he said. The average circulation life of a one dollar bill is about 18 months.

"In God We Trust" first appeared on coins during the Civil War. Treasury Secretary Salmon P. Chase gave the order for inscription of the motto.

Since then, it has been part of the coin design on and off, according to Frederick W. Tate, assistant director of the mint. After 1908 it appeared on all new silver coins—dimes, quarters, half-dollars and silver dollars—except for some dimes. Its use on pennies and nickles was not mandatory until the 1955 act.

Joseph Thomas at 263 Olive; cars of Marvin McCarthy at 68 Madrona, Elmer Utrecht at 249 West Baltimore Avenue, Jack Armstrong at 223 West Baltimore and James Dugan at 58 Piedmont, and a pickup truck at 265 West Baltimore belonging to a San Francisco electric company.

They broke radio antennas from cars of Al Estrada at 101 Madrona and William McConnell at 105 Madrona. The antenna was bent and the hood sprayed on the car of B. W. Grunbaum at 109 Madrona.

The youths were to appear before a probation officer at Marin Juvenile Hall today.

Hospital Board Takes No Action

No action was taken yesterday by the Marin County Hospital District board on a proposal to integrate two auxiliary service groups.

A committee will, however, meet with representatives of the Marin General Hospital Auxiliary and the Marin General Hospital Service League to discuss the proposal. The auxiliary is a fund-raising group, while the service league provides volunteer in-service assistance to the regular hospital staff.

The integration plan was submitted by L. L. Purkey of Larkspur, retired oil company personnel executive, who has taken an interest in hospital affairs.

Missing Novato Man Is Located

A 41-year-old Novato man, reported missing to police Wednesday, was located yesterday by his wife in the Oregon mountains.

Mrs. Constance Bradbury of 1090 Greenwood Drive, Novato, called police yesterday and notified them that her husband had been located. She gave no further details.

Police had issued an all-points bulletin for Bradbury, who had been missing since 8 a.m. Tuesday. The bulletin was cancelled yesterday.

Printer Crashes Into Guard Rail On Bridge

John Fedochak, 39, of 613 Galerita Way, Santa Venetia, a printer, went home with minor injuries after his northbound car veered across the island, crossed the southbound lanes and crashed into the west guard rail 50 feet from the north end of the Golden Gate Bridge at 12:40 a.m. today, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Fedochak probably fell asleep, the CHP said.

The widow and son of Thorpe J. DeLasaux, former Marin director of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, will be the sole recipient of his estate, according to DeLasaux's will filed yesterday for probate in Marin Superior Court.

DeLasaux, 64, died Aug. 31. Under terms of his will, he left all of his property and possessions, including Del's Liquor Stores in Mill Valley, to his wife, Agnes, and his son, Thorpe J. DeLasaux Jr.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Ida Corning Oxtoby Dies

Mrs. Ida Corning Oxtoby, 90, of 26 Kesington Court, San Anselmo, for many years closely identified with San Francisco Theological Seminary, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Oxtoby, a Marin resident for 49 years, was the widow of Rev. William Henry Oxtoby, who was a member of the seminary faculty for 25 years and its president from 1929 to 1937.

Since her husband's death in 1938, she has made her home with a son, Dr. Gurdon C. Oxtoby, present dean of the faculty of San Francisco Theological Seminary.

A native of Saginaw, Mich., Mrs. Oxtoby was the daughter of a banker and lumberman. She traveled widely, visiting Europe and the Middle East several times.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo and held an honorary life membership in the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Survivors include her son in San Anselmo; another son, Prof. John C. Oxtoby of Bryn Mawr College, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Byron E. Morris of Reno, Nevada.; eight grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Private family funeral services will be held under direction of Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

MRS. CLOUETTE

Mrs. Leonora M. Clouette, 51, of San Anselmo, a Marin resident for a quarter century, died last night in a local hospital after a short illness.

She was the wife of Henry F. Clouette of 71 Jordan Avenue, San Anselmo, a construction supervisor for Northwestern Pacific Railroad. She was born in Castroville, Tex.

Besides her husband, she leaves a sister and brother, Mrs. C. Lehmberg of San Antonio, Tex., and R. O. Tschirhart of Castroville, Tex.

Funeral services and burial will be in Castroville, directed by L. M. Tendre and Sons Funeral Home. Friends may call at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael after 7 p.m. tomorrow and until 9 p.m. Monday.

W. E. RUTHERFORD

Funeral services for William E. Rutherford, 86, former Santa Rosa mayor and police court judge and brother of two Marin residents, will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Welti Chapel of the Roses in Santa Rosa.

Rutherford died in a Sonoma hospital Thursday after brief illness. He had resided in Sonoma in recent months.

Rutherford, a pharmacist, was mayor of Santa Rosa in 1920 and police court judge for 14 years ending when police courts were abolished in California in 1953.

He was a member of Masonic bodies in Sonoma County and Aahmes Temple of the Shrine in Oakland.

He is survived by his wife, Marietta, of Sonoma; two daughters, Mrs. Marietta Nelson of Sonoma and Mrs. Ann Enzler of Napa; a son, William E. Rutherford Jr. of Napa; three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. J. C. James of San Luis Obispo, Mrs. Gladys Paul and Mrs. June Haugen of Sacramento, Hugh E. Rutherford of Novato and Sam L. Rutherford of Mill Valley, and by numerous grandchildren.

Burial will be in Santa Rosa Memorial Park.

ONE FOR THE SEE-SAW

It has taken me over 15 years to attain the position I now enjoy; and it would appear such perserverance would insure complete contentment. Contentment breeds relaxation, however, and relaxation is certain suicide in the automobile business.

On occasion, all too rarely unfortunately, one of my way - out promotion ideas strikes the gold button of buyers' acceptance, and the Sales Manager and salesmen beam their pleasure upon me as they pass my office in respectful reverence. The bartenders are happy, too, as they ring up the added commission dollars. Even the cashiers at the super markets gain some measure of increased activity, although in properly expected proportion.

The boss pauses for a brief added moment on the way to the club to nod in silent approval. To speak approval might invite discussion of salaries and bonuses, which in itself is in bad taste, so a nod will do.

The whole world is rosy when an ad clicks. It is the fulfillment of an idea which may have begun from a chance remark, a casual observation, or even a rude jolt in the midst of fitful slumber. To see your brain child appear in print and await the reaction is a sensation difficult to describe, more difficult to understand. Success of the message even brings visions of gray flannel suits and attache cases.

Then, another time, all more frequent, your brain wave never gets off the ground. The message seems just as clever as ever; the bargains are surely just as real; the art work is cute and imaginative. And, yet, nothing. A bomb. A complete bust.

The nods of approval from the Sales Manager and salesmen become shakes of pity, complete with audible clucking to give support to the condolences. The Boss threatens to hang up his clubs forever and come in to show me again how to merchandise automobiles. It is a temptation to seek the answer from an analyst specializing in misfits, or slink into a quiet corner to scan the want ads for a less puzzling position.

It is fortunate, in view of the ups and downs of calling signals for Ames Ford, that I am not susceptable to queesyness. I bruise easily, but rolling with the punches, the blows do no lasting damage. And, success is so sweet, it is worth several disappointments to gain one victory.

Minor Hit-Run Turns Into Major CHP Case

A minor hit-run accident on Tiburon Road last June 22 turned into a major case for California Highway Patrol Officer Donald Greer.

Ever since taking the report, Greer suspected there was something wrong. Indeed there was. The youth who admitted driving the hit-and-run car was not the driver.

Robert Leonard Frank, 18, of Forest Knolls, in saying he was driving the car, was trying to protect a 17-year-old friend who had no license, Greer said today.

The friend, northbound on Tiburon Road near Altena Avenue, struck the rear fender of a southbound car driven by James Francis Grant, 34, of 331 Irwin Street, San Rafael, a life insurance salesman.

Grant got the number of the car and followed it to the 17-year-old's home.

The car was parked when Grant drove up, Greer related. When he asked the boy who had been driving, the boy went into the house and got Frank, who told Grant he was the driver.

Frank was cited for hit-run driving. But Greer was suspicious, and his suspicions grew after he talked with friends of the two youths.

This week, the 17-year-old changed his story, Greer said. Both youths will be cited for filing a false report and conspiracy to conceal a hit-run accident. The 17-year-old will be cited for hit-run.

Frank is now in county jail as a California Youth Authority parole violator.

Jewelry Class Set For Adults

Making metal, stone and wood jewelry will be taught in a new evening adult education class at San Rafael High School this fall.

The class, which will run from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays, will be taught by Farhad Moezzi, arts and crafts teacher at the school during the day. Adults may register, tuition free, during the first class Wednesday. They must pay for all materials used.

Night classes at Hamilton Air Force Base (Building 585) will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday instead of Wednesday as reported in last Saturday's issue of the Independent-Journal.

Santa Rosa Air Tower Fete Set

he meant "a more earnest desire than the world has ever had to take care of everybody.

"To bestow. To bestow what? Bread and butter, yes, but that's not the top thing. The top thing to bestow is character."

Frost said the rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union must rise above "small squabbles."

"We're rivals—rivals in magnanimity and chivalry that rises above partisanship. Magnanimity means knowing how to behave yourself when you win.

"Khrushchev didn't mention God. I did. I told him God wants us to conflict. All progress comes out of conflict."

Frost said he and Khrushchev had agreed on the "large way of looking at things, magnanimity, no blackguarding. I knew he was that way. A real sport."

Frost said Khrushchev gave him a message for President John F. Kennedy but he declined to say what it said.

"He told me to tell him he mustn't do this and that and a few things," Frost chuckled. "That's a message for Mr. Kennedy. But it was not down on the low level of partisanship."

Frost said his only disappointment was Khrushchev's apparent unwillingness to cut the Gordian knot of world problems.

"I told him he ought to be like Alexander the Great who didn't believe in fussing with Gordian knots and untying them. He believed in cutting it. I just hoped a man as mighty as Khrushchev might do something even if we didn't.

"I was like a tramp poet who visits a great monarch. 'I've got just one little request', the tramp asks the monarch. 'Will you grant it to me before I ask it?' Well, I didn't get that far."

Frost presented Khrushchev with a volume of his verses inscribed, "from a rival in friendship."

'Picnic' Donation Performance Set

Pan Players will present a donation performance of their current play, William Inge's "Picnic," at 8:30 p.m. next Friday at the Gate Playhouse, 668 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

Admission will be by donation only, according to director David Kerr. The players will be on hand to acquaint the public with the theater's policies and give out information. The play will be given tonight as well as Friday and Saturday of next week.

"Tea and Sympathy" opens Sept. 21. With this show, the players will offer membership on a subscription basis.

San Rafael Sewer Line Being Replaced

The San Rafael Sewer Sanitation District board today directed that a estimate be made on replacing 700 feet of sewer line in the Bellam Boulevard and Canal Street area of San Rafael.

The trunk sewer line, directors were told, has begun to fall apart after resting for 12 years in the mud.

Notary Commissions

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced today he has issued notary public commissions to Jo Ann Michetti, Box 299, and Louise M. Crain, 1010 B Street, both of San Rafael.

Seminary Names Editorial Aide

An ordained minister has been named editorial assistant for the 1962-63 school year at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry Point, Carl M. Halvarson announced today.

Halvarson, assistant to the president, said James R. Mitchell will take the place of Charles Richardson, who resigned this summer to become a reporter on a Texas newspaper.

Mitchell will handle news releases to secular and denominational publications. He has been a reporter on a bi-weekly newspaper in Los Angeles and on the Inglewood Daily News. The minister has enrolled in the three-year bachelor divinity schedule at the seminary.

Schools Dinner Set In Sausalito

Teachers and administrators of the Sausalito School District will host a spaghetti dinner at 6 p.m. Tuesday to honor new teachers and the board of trustees.

The dinner will be at the Central School cafeteria. Following the dinner the board will meet at 8 p.m. in the district office for its regular business meeting.

Stimulus for the dinner, according to Supt. Marcus F. Davis, is to afford an opportunity for the trustees to meet and talk with new teachers as well as to renew associations with those teachers who have been in the district for some time.

Will Every Soul Be Saved? Some Say God Wills It

By LOUIS CASSELS
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

May a Christian believe that all human souls will eventually be saved?

For Roman Catholics, the answer is unequivocally no. Catholic teaching holds that all who die in a state of mortal sin are condemned to suffer eternal punishment in hell. The idea that men may get a second chance for repentance after death is officially branded a heresy.

Most Protestant fundamentalists view the matter in the same light.

There are many other Protestants, however, for whom the doctrine of universal salvation has a strong appeal. Among them are a number of leading theologians.

They believe that the ultimate redemption of all human souls is the only purpose that can be ascribed to God without detracting either from His sovereignty or from His infinite love for mankind.

"It is God's will, as the New Testament puts it, that all men shall be saved," says the Rev. Dr. W. Norman Pittenger, a prominent Episcopal theologian. "And God's will is in the long run bound to accomplish that for which it sets out. There will be no 'pockets of resistance' left when God has accomplished His final victory over sin, evil and death."

Dr. Pittenger and others note that St. Paul seemed to share this view. In one of his letters to his protege Timothy, the great apostle said that God "will have all men to be saved." And he told the Corinthian Christians that "as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

Christians who regard universalism as a dangerous heresy point to other passages of the New Testament, in which Christ speaks vividly of a final judgment at which the wicked "shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life eternal."

They agree that God desires the salvation of all—so much that He has paid the price of reconciliation Himself in the sacrifice of Christ. But He does not force His grace upon the human creatures whom He has dignified with the gift of free will. He lets them choose light or darkness, and their freedom of choice includes the possibility that they will condemn themselves to eternal separation from Him by finally rejecting His love.

A related question is whether death ends man's opportunity for repentance. The traditional view is that each person is judged in the state in which he dies. But there also are devout Christians who believe, with theologian P. T. Forsyth, that death is "the crisis which opens all eyes" and that "there are more conversions on the other side than on this."

Some church leaders are concerned that popular discussion of universal salvation may give people the impression that it doesn't matter too much how they live since everyone is going to Heaven anyway.

Others say, however, that the urgency of the decisions which men make in this life is not reduced by the possibility that they may get a second chance after death. Believers in universal salvation do not rule out the prospect of judgment and punishment after death. They simply believe that the nature of God precludes His subjecting even the most wayward sinner to any punishment.

Hymns Take On Social Meanings

NEW YORK (UPI)—The hymn has become a sociological message of the church as well as a source of spiritual uplift.

Instead of simply being sentimental or expressing a scriptural thought, hymns today deal with patriotism, city or rural life, youth, education, social welfare and other timely topics.

This trend toward making the words sung in church "count," is the work of the Hymn Society of America, founded 40 years ago by a group of lay people interested in providing better hymns and music. From five members, the society has grown to 1,800 in every state and 20 foreign countries.

Many person mistakenly believe the hymn is both the words and music. This is not the case. The hymn is the words only.

The society, in an official history of its activities, has reported on 16 "quests" for new hymns "appropriate for the new days and conditions in which the Christian church finds itself." The "quests" have produced more than 100 new texts that have been incorporated into recently published hymnals.

Juvenile Hall Chaplain To Talk

Chaplain David Habecker will discuss his work at Marin County Juvenile Hall in a talk at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Faith Lutheran Church, Los Ranchitos and Del Presidio Boulevard, San Rafael.

He will tell how his work ties in with the work being done by county juvenile authorities. The Protestant chaplain is sponsored by the Marin County Council of Churches.

Seminarians Will Be Received In Homes

Tomorrow afternoon, members of the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo will welcome members of the student body of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, Dr. Paul Buchholz, assistant minister, announced today.

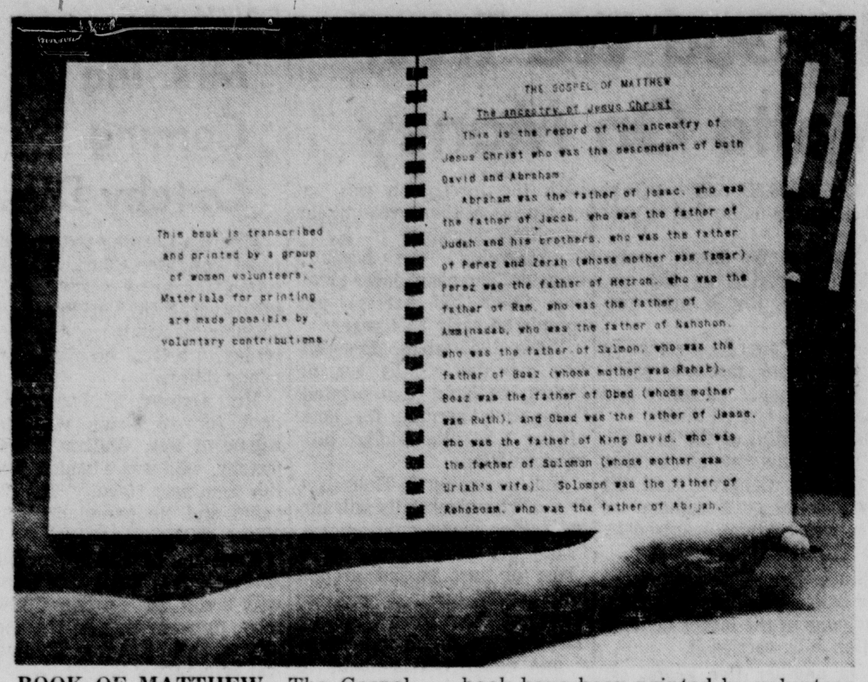
The homes of 20 church parishioners will be opened as reception centers for the students who began classes at the seminary Tuesday.

Presbyterian School

Church school begins tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo with classes at 9:30 and 11 a.m., Mrs. Mary Leigh McCutcheon, church school secretary, announced today. Students may register at Duncan Hall prior to each of the sessions.

Choir Practice Starts

The parish choir of Peace Lutheran Church, Mill Valley, will be in practice at 8:30 p.m., Sept. 13, at the parish hall.



BOOK OF MATTHEW—The Gospel according to St. Matthew, printed in large, sight-saving type, takes 173 pages. Five hundred copies of the book have been printed by volunteer members of the Trinity Lutheran Church, San Rafael. Hand (lower right) gives an idea of the scale.

CHECKS TYPE — Verona Normington, whose interest in helping blind and near blind began 10 years ago, cleans type on a title page for a sight saving edition of a sermon. Her husband, Ray Normington, helps keep press humming.

Lutheran Women Print Book Of Bible, Sermons And Prayers For Near-Blind

San Rafael Home Is Workshop

A book of the Bible printed in headline-size type is the latest product and one of the proudest achievements of a group of dedicated Lutherans in San Rafael.

Five hundred copies of the Gospel according to St. Matthew are about to be offered free to the book hungry horde of near-blind. It is printed in type a quarter-inch high. Persons forced to put away their regular Bibles years ago because of poor vision, find to their vast delight that they can read again.

"We picked Matthew because it is the most complete book of the New Testament," Mrs. Ray Normington of 5 Lido Lane explained.

She and her husband have dedicated themselves for the past 10 years to helping blind and near blind find pleasure, instruction and spiritual help from braile and printed religious matter.

The demand for the material has been so great that their projects, which started as part-time diversions, have become full-time undertakings. Their recently built, waterfront home has a press room in the garage and a special publishing workshop.

As the work grew, volunteer workers, more and more of them, joined the undertaking. Now there are 20, all members of the Trinity Lutheran Church, who put in at least one afternoon a week at the Normington home.

They do brail transcriptions, print sermons and prayer books in the large, sight-saving type and now have turned out a book of the Bible. One of the big jobs is mailing the material to the many persons requesting it.

Many are on a regular mailing list, receiving at no cost, weekly sermons from the Lutheran Hour, a spiritual radio program.

"There's just no end to the demand," Mrs. Normington said.

She said the volunteer church women who dedicate their time to the many projects are not formally organized. There are no officers. But she is obviously the driving force. She is at it every day and many evenings as well.

The Normingtons got interested in helping the blind after their two children were married and moved away. They needed something to do. Through the church, Mrs. Normington learned of the need for braile writers. It was not easy to learn writing braile, but she was soon doing it and distributing her work through the Lutheran Braile Workers.

About three years ago, her mother, Mrs. Nora Rouse of Woodbridge, San Joaquin County, began being troubled with failing sight. She found she could read only large print. Mrs. Normington purchased a special typewriter with the quarter-inch (24 point) type and began typing things for her mother.

Her mother's friends saw it first, then the word spread. Before she knew it, Mrs. Normington found that the demand for the large printing was over-powering. She tried using carbon paper to keep up with the requests, but this was far from adequate. There was only one thing to do, become a printer. The Normingtons now have an offset press and a direct press in their garage shop.

The off-set press is running an average of six hours every day, Mrs. Normington said. Several evenings during the week, Normington, after returning from the city where he is personnel manager for Fibreboard Paper Products Corp., runs the direct printing press.

The offset press was used to print the 173 pages of the Book of Matthew.

Mrs. Fred Braunschweiger, wife of the pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, typed all the offset plates for the job.

This Thursday, all the volunteers in the group will gather at the Normington home. They will have lunch, and then turn to the job of collating the pages and binding the books together with spiral binders. It will complete the project.

SLOW CHORE—Hand setting type is a slow job, but Louise Braunschweiger, wife of Rev. Fred Braunschweiger, pastor of the Lutheran Trinity Church, finds it rewarding. The end product helps the near blind read again.

Episcopal School Set

Tomorrow will be orientation Sunday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael. Parish families will meet with leaders of the church's Christian education program during a social hour following the 10 a.m. service. Church school classes are to resume at St. Paul's on Sept. 16. Classes will be at 9 and 11 a.m.

CHURCH WILL DEDICATE FIRST ORGAN

Faith Lutheran Church's organ, purchased through donations by members and friends and through memorial contributions, will be dedicated in 10:45 a.m. services tomorrow, Rev. Bliss W. Bellinger, pastor, announced today.

The Allen TC-1 electric organ will not be played until after it is formally dedicated. First piece played will be the processional hymn of the morning, "Ein' Fest Burg" (A Mighty Fortress Is Our God).

The church, since its founding six years ago, has used a piano to accompany services.

During the regular morning service, two other pieces will be played. The public is invited to the dedication and the service. The church is located at Los Ranchitos and Del Presidio Boulevard in North San Rafael.

Church Youth Groups Must Take Active Part In Work

By JULES LOH
Associated Press

By whatever name — Luther League, Royal Ambassadors, Westminister Fellowship—the young people's group is a fixture as firmly established in most Protestant denominations as the board of trustees.

Such organizations provide teen-agers with opportunity for wholesome entertainment, as their parents so often say, a chance to meet good Christian boys and girls. The groups also can be useful. The kids wash cars and mow lawns to help out with the church debt, or perhaps serve as baby sitters to help boost attendance at evening services.

But recently the youth organization of the United Church of Christ met and voted itself out of existence.

According to the Rev. Henry Tani of Philadelphia, the denomination's youth work secretary, the young people felt they were being shunted into a neat little compartment with little relationship to the rest of the church.

"The adults give the kids money for a juke box and a youth center and tell them to stay there, don't bother us," Tani said. "Then they wonder why the young people leave the church."

In some cases, said Tani, the youngsters felt they were even competing with the church.

Noted Opera Conductor Feted At Dinner Party In Mill Valley

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Janos Ferencsik, head of the Budapest Conservatory of Music, who will make his San Francisco debut as conductor of the opera Carmen Sept. 20 was honored at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foris of Mill Valley Wednesday night. Accompanied by his secretary, who also was a guest at the dinner, Mr. Ferencsik had flown in the day before from Frankfort. The host and his wife are from Budapest and he studied with Mr. Ferencsik. Tom plays cello in the Marin Symphony Orchestra. The guest is a close friend of Sandor Salgo, conductor of the orchestra. Other dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Tibor Fecskes, Mr. and Mrs. John Foti, Gustaf Berkeny and and Desider Zamborsky, all Hungarians.

MRS. MARGUERITE C. LAYTON, a resident of Marin for 28 years, is leaving the counuty to live in Long Beach. She has been appointed a member of the staff of Hospitality House, just opened on Ocean Boulevard in Long Beach. It is one of several houses established in the United States by the National Retired Teacher Association. The first one was at St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Layton came to San Rafael in 1934 to join the education department at Dominican College. After that she taught in San Rafael public schools. She has traveled extensively and made two European tours. She is a member of Marin Branch, American Association of University Women. Monday Mrs. Layton will be honored at a luncheon at Woodlands Restaurant.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur Edwards and daughter, Anne, of San Anselmo are flying today to Switzerland. The plane will land in Geneva and Anne will study at Le Grande Verger in Lusanne. Her parents will tour Europe for two months, spend some time in France, Spain and Portugal and board a ship in Lisbon to return to the United States. While Mr. and Mrs. Edwards are away, her mother, Mrs. William James Borland of the East Bay, will stay at their home.

THE BEAUTIFUL gardens of the Harold Hansens' home in Kentfield will again be the setnig for the annual barbecue of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, which will take place this evening. Attending will be about 60 members and their husbands.

ALASKA VISITORS who sailed on the Glacier Queen or its sister ship, Yukon Star, will have a reunion at the San Rafael home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Foster Clark who will show their kodachrome slides made on their cruise this year. The Clarks had their first cruise on the Glacier Queen last year. They enjoyed it so much they sailed again in the spring of this year, same ship, same captain. The ship cruises slowly through Tracy Arm, a glacier lined fjord and stops for picture taking and Foster got some good shots of the Mendenhall Glacier and the Sawyer and Denali glaciers.

The Glacier Queen and Yukon Star make 16 cruises each year from May through October. The ships sail from Vancouver, B.C., but most of the passengers are from California.

DR. AND MRS. HAROLD ROSENBLUM of Sausalito are hosting a Bloody Mary brunch and bridge party tomorrow at their home. Among the guests will be Marinites, Messrs. and Mesdames Mervyn Cowen, David Wertheim and Harry Monas. Others attending will be San Francisco friends.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH DEARTH of Greenbrae had quite a thrill at the World's Fair at Seattle. John Klein, who played the carillion at the opening of the Dearths' San Rafael branch of the Northwestern Savings and Loan, plays the carillion at the fair and Esther and Keith had lunch with him. From Seattle the Dearths left for Victoria and Vancover, B. C. They are going to Sun Valley, Idaho to visit relatives before returning home.

Judith Bennet Malone Bride Of Robert Woodward Jr., Of Ross

St. John's Church in Ross was the setting yesterday afternoon for the wedding of Judith Bennet Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Halsey Malone of Big Horn, Wyo., and formerly of San Anselmo, and Robert Lathan Woodward Jr., of Ross. The Rev. Harold Hallett officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Judith wore a full length white gown of mousseline de soie with lace inserts in the skirt, which ended in a chapel length train. She wore her mother's wedding veil and a coronet worn by her grandmother.

Her sister, Sara Garcin Malone, a student at Sarah Lawrence College, was maid of honor, wearing a pale blue linen dress with Irish braid trimmed skirt.

The other attendants, Mrs. Michael Hooker and Barbara Woodward, both sisters of the bridegroom, and Gillian Malone, younger sister of the bride, also wore pale blue linen dresses.

Michael Hooker of San Francisco was best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Woodward of Ross. Escorting guests to seats were Dr. Edward Washburn, Nicholas Malone, the bride's brother, and John Russell and David Donlon.

Following the wedding a reception was given at Monte Alegre, the Ross home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Vernon Skewes-Cox.

Judith attended the Katharine Branson School, Westover School in Connecticut and Briarcliff College, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y. She has been a member of The Spinsters. Her grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. E. Halsey Malone, Mrs. Vernon Skewes-Cox of Ross and the late Mr. Skewes-Cox.

The bridegroom, who with his marriage relinquished membership in The Bachelors, was graduated from Fountain Valley School and Trinity College and is employed by Blyth and Co. in San Francisco. He is the grandson of Mrs. Merrill Federick of Peoria, Ill.

Plans for the fourth California State Convention which will be held in San Francisco Oct. 26-28 will be made. The San Rafael, Mill Valley and Ross Valley groups are among the 21 Bay Area hostess chapters for the convention.

Press Woolens The Expert Way

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Those gauzy, fragile-looking woolens need special care in pressing.

A University of Illinois clothing specialist, Esther Siemen, suggested moist heat and a light hand on the iron. Use a steam iron or a press cloth and press the garment on the wrong side whenever possible.

Smooth the fabric by lifting and lowering the iron rather than running it over the fabric, applying pressure without stretching the wool.

Remember wool never should be pressed completely dry. Place the garment, still steaming, on hanger. Button all buttons and fasten all snaps and hooks.

On Long Drives

A portable head-rest eases the strain of a long motor trip. Filled with foam plastic, the new corduroy-covered headrest comes with plastic tongs that grip and fit all car seats. Available at notion counters.

San Pedro Teachers Honored At Luncheon

A get-acquainted luncheon was given Tuesday on the patio at the home of Mrs. Sol Capper, honoring the teachers of San Pedro School.

Mrs. Dallas Wagner, Parent-Teacher Association president, introduced Mrs. Lee S. Heise, principal, who introduced the 15 teachers and three student teachers.

Mrs. Richard M. Curtis was luncheon chairman.

Deputy To Visit Catholic Society

Mrs. Opal Dado, new deputy for San Rafael for the Catholic Ladies Aid Society, will make her official visit to Branch 24 in San Rafael Tuesday at St. Raphael's Hall.

Luncheon will be served at noon and officers for the year will be elected at the 1:30 p.m. meeting.

At the state convention in Santa Cruz Mrs. Dado was named deputy to San Rafael and Mrs. Helen Johnson was named deputy to Petaluma branch. Mrs. Helen M. Ring of San Rafael branch was elected to the board of grand directors.

Sanford Wins 21st As Giants Close In On Dodgers

Manager Alvin Dark's 1962 strategy for strong-armed pitcher Jack Sanford must be counted one of the key factors in the surge of the San Francisco Giants.

The 33-year-old right-hander captured his 21st victory last night and 15th in a row as the Giants edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5, moving within one-half game of the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

That put San Francisco within striking distance of the top spot today as veteran southpaw Billy Pierce (13-5) faced the Cubs and Don Cardwell (7-14).

"Alvin's idea this year was for me to throw as hard as I could for as long as I could," Sanford explained. "So far it's worked out."

Sanford's string started June 17 when he went the route to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3. More frequently he needs relief in the late innings. Such was the case last night when Stu Miller came on.

"If you get hit in the late innings, you've got to come out," Sanford says philosophically. "I don't want to go out and I think I've got good stuff, but you can't let 'em keep hitting you."

The fast ball is Sanford's stock in trade. He also throws a curve and an occasional slider.

For scowls and growls before each start, Sanford became known as the "angry man" of the Giants staff, but he really discusses his performance after a game—win or lose.

His career must be one of the strange ones in baseball. Jack toiled in the minors from 1948 until 1957 when he won 19 games for Philadelphia and became "rookie of the year" at 28.

After the next season when he went 10-13, the Phillies traded him to San Francisco for pitcher Ruben Gomez and catcher Valmy Thomas, neither of whom did their new club much good.

In his previous three seasons with the Giants he was 15-12, 12-14 and 13-9, and this spring was among the last Giants to sign because of a salary disagreement.

He assured himself a substantial 1963 pay boost when he started the Giants to this week's series victory over Los Angeles with a 7-3 triumph, one of his six complete games during the current winning streak.

Last night Miller recorded his 13th save when he took over in the eighth inning with the Giants hanging onto a 6-3 lead and two Bruins on base.

Stu began rather inauspiciously by giving up a two run single to George Altman, who had powered a home run off Sanford in the first frame with a man aboard. But then Ernie Banks hit a soft liner to first baseman Orlando Cepeda who strolled over to the bag and doubled up Altman to end the inning.

The Giants twice pulled even, with Tom Haller's 14th homer—a bases empty shot—tying the score at 3-3 in the fourth inning.

Then they rallied for two more runs in the fifth off loser Bob Buhl, who now is 10-11.

Jose Pagan, whose two-run homer had given San Francisco a 2-2 deadlock in the third frame, launched things in the fifth by singling. He reached second when center fielder Don Landrum erred on the play, then made it to third as beefy Sanford hustled out a bunt single.

Harvey Kuenn, whose clutch double beat the Dodgers in Los Angeles two nights ago, provided the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly and Willie Mays chased in another tally with his first of two doubles.

Felipe Alou's 23rd homer gave the Giants another run in the seventh and they needed all of them when the Cubs launched their two-run rally in the eighth.

Sanford began to wobble as Laundrum opened up with a single, Ken Hubbs beat out a fielder's choice and Billy Williams hit a single that sent Hubbs to third.

Dark then replaced Sanford with Miller who put out the fire, but only after Altman's single made things look worse.

Sanford, now 21-6, struck out four. He fanned three men in the seventh while pitching his way out of a jam.

Wills Steals N.L. Record

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maury Wills gets to keep second base. But Bill Mazeroski will have to leave the left field bullpen where it is.

Wills, the fleet Los Angeles shortstop, put on a one-man show last night by stealing four bases for a season total of 82, surpassing the modern National League record of 80 set by Cincinnati's Bob Bescher 51 years ago and moving to within 14 of Ty Cobb's all-time standard of 96.

But Mazeroski overshadowed Wills' heroics with a show of power, blasting a grand slam homer that propelled Pittsburgh to a 10-to-1 triumph over the front-running Dodgers and trimmed their edge to a half-game over surging San Francisco, a 6-5 winner over the Chicago Cubs.

Wills started his demonstration of speed and daring in the first inning when he singled and stole second and third. In the third inning, Wills drew a walk and stole second. In the sixth, Wills again singled and promptly proceeded to second with another stolen base.

NEW RECORD

His third inning steal was No. 81, eclipsing Bescher's record. As a symbol of his achievement, Wills was presented with the second base bag.

The Giants, who haven't been this close to the Dodgers since July 8, continued their surge as Jack Sanford posted his 21st victory—his 15th in a row—with home run support from Jose Pagan, Tom Haller and Felipe Alou.

Meanwhile, third-place Cincinnati closed the gap to 3½ games with a 6-5, 11-inning triumph over St. Louis that might prove costly. Reds' first baseman Gordy Coleman, who has hit 27 homers and driven in 84 runs, was spiked during the game and will be lost for an indefinite period.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings and Houston defeated the New York Mets 4-2.

In the American League, the first-place New York Yankees nipped Boston 5-4, second-place Minnesota whipped Detroit 6-4, the third-place Los Angeles Angels squeezed by Baltimore 5-4 in 10 innings, Cleveland beat Kansas City 2-1 and Washington belted the Chicago White Sox 7-2.

DODGER FUMBLES

The Dodgers committed five errors, and collected only four hits off Earl Francis (7-8) while losing their fourth game in the last five.

Wills, who has stolen 22 bases in his last 21 games, has 20 games in which to try for Cobb's record. He is now fourth on the all-time list behind Cobb's 96 for Detroit in 1915, the 88 pilfered by Clyde Milan of Washington in 1912 and Cobb's 83 in 1911.

Stu Miller preserved the triumph for Sanford (21-6). Bob Buhl (10-11) lost it.

The Reds sent their see-saw game with the Cards into extra innings by tying it in the ninth on singles by Jerry Lynch, John Edwards and Leo Cardenas. The Cards moved out front in the 10th, but the Reds again tied it on Frank Robinson's 34th homer. Then, in the 11th, Eddie Kasko led off for the Reds with a single and Pinson followed with the game-winning hit. The victory went to Dave Sisler (3-3) with Curt Simmons (8-9) charged with the defeat.

Ray York Top Jockey At Del Mar Track

DEL MAR (AP) — Jockey Ray York has all but assured himself of being the riding champion of Del Mar for the second time.

He bagged a double yesterday while his closest competitor, Jack Leonard, didn't have one. York now is seven up on Leonard.

George Taniguchi had the winner in Friday's feature, however, bringing in Gallant Host in a 6-furlong sprint.

Gallant Host was clocked in 1:09 3-5 and paid $5.20.

LITTLE SPORT — By Rouson

Terra Linda Comes Of Age

(Sixth in a series)
By RALPH CHATOIAN

The Terra Linda High School Trojans will start their first year in the Marin County Athletic League when the 1962 football season opens for Marin high schools.

Great things cannot be expected from the Terra Linda footballers as this will mark the first year the high school has had seniors. Terra Linda High opened in 1959 and has had no varsity football teams competing in the MCAL.

The Trojans will open their maiden year in the league with a small team which will include 135-pound backs and 140-pound linemen who will be faced with a rough job ahead of them.

The team is lacking in experience and will display quite a few juniors. Although being a small sized team, the Trojans will not be a team of speed, either in the backfield or in the line.

The two top quarterbacks on the Terra Linda squad are both only 135 pounds. Dick Schultze, starting quarterback, stands 5-7, and signal caller Bob Taylor stands 5-10. Head coach Pete Limm calls Schultze a good team leader. Schultze is a senior and Taylor a junior.

DANIELE PRAISED

Limm has praise for halfback Jerry Daniele (5-10, 165), a junior, described as a good, steady back for the Trojan gridders. Daniele will be packing the ball quite a bit this season.

Limm also praised the blocking ability of a pair of fullbacks, Ray Miller (5-10, 175), a senior, and Jack Edwards (6-0, 175), also a senior. Both fullbacks will be used quite a bit.

Top guard on the blue and gold Trojan team, as picked by Limm, is Stan Parreto (5-7, 150), a junior. Another guard who will prove a mighty mite for the Trojans is Stan Lange (5-4, 140), although perhaps the smallest lineman in the league, a real fighter.

Other backs from last year's team (which was junior varsity due to the lack of seniors in the school) are halfbacks Don Dreusike (5-10, 145) and Dave Dohn (5-7, 145), both lettermen.

JV LETTERMEN

Other junior varsity lettermen returning are tackles Mike Congdon (6-1, 185) and David Muelrath (6-1, 175), who will see plenty of action this year; center Rich Congdon (6-0, 195), and guards Chuck Izenour (5-11, 160) and Dave Roscor (5-9, 140).

Other gridders showing promise so far in practice are ends Ed Connell (6-1, 170) and Bob Cooney (6-0, 160), and tackle Al Ruoff (6-0, 180).

The Trojans will be operating from the wing T and should provide quite a bit of passing. Some of their patterns will be option pass-run plays.

Limm picks Tamalpais High (as did many other coaches) to win the conference this season. He picks Drake and Novato to fight for second place with Redwood following.

Limm, a San Francisco State graduate, will be helped this season by assistant coaches Don Lucas, Don Boucher and Brad Squires.

Raiders Open League Play Tomorrow

OAKLAND (AP)—New York's Titans and the Oakland Raiders come off losing pre-season campaigns hoping to start their American Football League campaigning with a victory.

One should do it as they meet each other at Frank Youell Field here tomorrow afternoon.

Oakland won only one pre-season game and New York didn't win any. Yet both clubs are reputedly improved over 1961.

Coach Marty Feldman of the Raiders shuffled his defensive line after last week's 41-12 loss to the Denver Broncos. In one move, he put Dalva Allen, just acquired from the Houston Oilers, in a starting end position.

Coach Clyde "Bulldog" Turner indicated his team has finally jelled after a series of injuries kept the Titans from full strength during the pre-season outings.

"At the first of the season, we felt we had as good a passing team as any with three fine receivers—Art Powell, Don Maynard and Perry Richards," Turner said.

"Then the receivers were hurt and we went with a running game. Now we have both passing and running."

The kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. renewing a rivalry that saw New York win two close ones in 1961—the first by a 14-9 count and the second 22-12.

14 Recalled By Giants

The San Francisco Giants recalled 14 players from their minor league teams yesterday. Three will finish this season with the National League club, and the other 11 will report next spring.

Secretary Eddie Brannick announced the recalled for immediate service are pitchers Gaylord Perry and Dick LeMay from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and shortstop Charles "Cap" Peterson from El Paso.

Right-hander Perry and left-hander LeMay will report in time for Monday's game with Pittsburgh. Peterson will join the Giants at the end of the Texas League play off.

With Tacoma, Perry had a 10-6 record and ERA of 2.44. LeMay was 8-4 and 3.48.

The 11 recalled for 1963 are left-handed pitcher Dan Rivas (13-15); outfielder Jose Cardenal (.216)) and infielders Dick Phillips (.270) and Gil Garrido (.244) from Tacoma; pitcher Roger Sinner (1-2) after Army service, outfielder Manny Mota (.355) in 28 games from El Paso; pitcher Paul Colacecchi (8-4) from Springfield; pitcher Matt Gayeski (14-5) and catcher Dick Deitz (.292) from Eugene, Oregon of the Northwest League; pitcher Dick Holden (9-3) and infielder Harold Lanier (.314) from Fresno of the California League.

Now Pitching For The Old Timers, Sen. John McCarthy

With a State Senator and a City Councilman in the lineup, the San Anselmo Old Timers haul their gloves, spikes and flannels out of the mothballs tomorrow to challenge the champion Ongaro Plumbers in a semi-pro baseball "classic at San Anselmo's Memorial Park.

When the umpires holler "Play Ball" at 1:30 p.m. State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) and San Anselmo Councilman "Woody" Capurro will lead the Hub City's Old Timers into the fray, proceeds of which will be donated to the Sunnyhills Recreation Department.

McCarthy, former pitcher in the New York Yankee farm system, is the probable starting pitcher for the Old Timers. He and Capurro both played for San Anselmo semi-pro teams.

Other "Old Timers" scheduled to play are Inspector Nick Giampoli of the San Rafael Police Department, former football star "Pistol Pete" Arrigoni, Pete Maggi Jr., Jack Parsons, John Coleman, Jack Clahan, Don Ongaro, Lou Campredon, Ralph Boccabella, Stan Gerughty and Rico Petretti.

Dom Boccabella, long-time semi-pro manager, will manage the old timers.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Finesse Will Sometimes Gain, Lose Your Trick

A finesse will sometimes gain a trick for you, but preparing for the finesse may lose the trick right back.

If it then turns out that the finesse fails, you have had all your trouble for nothing.

The finesse gives you either nine tricks or eleven tricks. Rejecting the finesse gives you a safe ten tricks.

Decide for yourself which you'd rather have.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

How should you play this hand at four hearts? Should you or shouldn't you take a finesse in hearts?

WHAT HAPPENS?

Win the first trick with the ace of diamonds and see what happens if you vote in favor of a trump finesse.

You lead a spade to dummy's king and return the queen of hearts for a finesse.

Unfortunately the finesse loses. The defenders take their diamond trick and lead a spade to dummy's ace.

Now when you eventually knock out the ace of clubs, East can defeat the contract by cashing a spade trick.

IN DANGER

You wouldn't be in danger if only that heart finesse had worked.

The opponents wouldn't have time to force out dummy's ace of spades, and you would make eleven tricks instead of only nine.

The safer way to play the hand is to reject the heart finesse. Lead out the ace of hearts at the second trick and then give up a heart to the king.

CASH DIAMOND

The opponents can cash a diamond trick and knock out dummy's king of spades, but dummy's ace of spades is still there. You draw the last trump and start the clubs.

Nothing can stop you from discarding a spade on dummy's long club suit.

Income from all U.S. Forest Service administered lands in 1961 totaled $129,621,785.

Among uncommon pursuits recorded in the 1960 Census occupational index were alligator trapper, snake charmer, tree killer, worm gatherer.

State Fair Proper Place To Put State Youth On Display

Those who attended the beginning days of the State Fair in Sacramento, had an opportunity to see one of the finest and most appropriate evening shows we have ever seen there.

It was not a "professional" show, as was the show later in the Fair's run (the Fair is still on and there's much to see up there). It was a show put on entirely by youths.

It had a youth orchestra and youth singers. There were youth dancers and entertainers, including a choir, and a display of horsemanship. There was a demonstration by a high school physical education class which left the spectators physically tired because of the tremendous effort they had seen displayed. And the crowd felt a little better about the Russians too; if our boys can do such exercises, we're not in such bad physical shape as some would have us believe.

But that isn't the point we wanted to make.

Certainly the show was good entertainment; it was well worth the 50 cent charge.

More than that, it was a showroom for one of California's finest products, its youth.

What could be more appropriate than a display of our youth's abilities at our State Fair?

We think it could be carried even farther. Why not have statewide competitions in all sorts of categories to determine which youths will appear at the evening show at the State Fair? We don't know how this year's acts were selected, but why couldn't it be on a basis of competition throughout the state?

It seems to us this would be good for both the youth and the State Fair. Certainly the State Fair could use some publicity in every city and community in the state. Eliminating competitions, with appearances at the State Fair as the top prize, would attract thousands of youths from every part of California.

It seems to us such a project is worth a try to give an opportunity to the state's youth, to give a welcome boost to the State Fair, and to give fine entertainment to the people who attend the Fair.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the Marin Board of Supervisors for letting by-gones be by-gones and asking Supervisor William D. Fusselman to accept the keys to the Civic Center. And a BOUQUET to Fusselman, too, for reversing his previous stand that he wanted nothing to do with the Civic Center.

A BRICKBAT to Larkspur councilmen for letting three similar motions die for a lack of a second and then, over an hour later, acting on a fourth motion, also similar, offered by their city attorney.

BOUQUETS to the 25 or so apartment managers who offered Negro John Robinson an apartment after he reported having trouble in finding one.

HALLOWED GROUND FOR MILLIONS

THINK OF OTHERS

Cruising along in a bright red car, a woman driver suddenly put out her arm to signal a left turn.

The driver behind jammed on his brakes and four other cars crashed when they attempted to stop.

The lady who had craused the chain reaction changed her mind and didn't make the turn. She went on her way quite unaware that she had caused a five-car pile-up.

Little do most of us realize the inconvenience, trouble and even tragedy that we may cause others by being indecisive, thoughtless or abrupt.

Think and act with careful consideration for the rights of others and you will do much good and cause little harm.

You will likewise be following the standard set by God Himself for peace and order in running a home, conducting a business, fulfilling responsibilities or driving an automobile.

In sort, think before you act, and always act thoughfully.

"Therefore all that you wish men to do to you, even so do you also to them."
(Matthew 7:12)

Help me, O Jesus, to treat others as I wish them to treat me.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By RICHARD LYTTLE

This Column Is Designed To Put A Stop To All This Moon Talk

Stop.

This talk, this idle, irresponsible talk about rockets to the moon, landings on the moon and moon exploration has got to cease. It has gone on long enough.

I think I have been rather tolerant in not bringing it to a stop sooner. Now, however, my patience is at the frayed end.

Did you ever really stop to think about the moon? Have you looked at it lately? Perhaps those among you who are most observant have noticed that it is very bright on one side and very dark on the other. This is the moon's day and night.

Nights on the moon are two weeks long. That we know. Some of you who felt you got up too early and would like to have slept on and on, may think a night two weeks long would be just the thing. Well, listen, it is not that simple.

When the sun does not shine for two weeks, what happens? That's right. It gets cold. On the moon on that dark side it gets cold, cold, cold.

You who think we have had a cold summer in Marin County—you just do not know, and there is no way to explain it to you.

OF COURSE, on the other side of the moon, the side where the sun has been shining for two weeks, you know what happens. That's right—hot, hot, hot. Oh, so hot.

In fact, the could side of the moon is not fit for habitation and the hot side of the moon is not fit for habitation. This leaves a very thin line between the hot side and the cold side. If the rocket taking you to the moon should missed this thin line by a few miles, too bad.

Another thing about the moon that a great many silly people have tried to avoid thinking about is the gravity. There is very little of it.

What this means is that one step can go a long way. A good hefty jump that might take you up in the air three or four feet on earth, will put you up there 15 to 20 feet above the moon's surface.

Don't tell me the moon will not be full of some unpleasant surprises.

ANOTHER THING that is sort of hooked up with the gravity business is the atmosphere. There is none. Anyone expecting to stay up there longer than he can hold his breath is going to have to carry his atmosphere around with him in big tanks.

This breathing problem along with the lack of gravity and the uncomfortable, torrid and frigid areas makes the moon a poor vacation spot to say the least.

Another problem that has been given very little thought is the report that there are no people up there at all, that is no people as we know them on earth. What do you think of that phrase, eh? As we know them on earth—Ah hah!

OF COURSE, there are a great many scientists who assure us that there is no life on the moon. If they are right, then the moon at best will be a very lonely place. If they are wrong— Well, all I can say is, "Happy landings."

There, that should put a stop to it.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

If You're Interested In Social Life Why Not Get In Political Whirl?

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

If you are interested in the social life, may we respectfully suggest that you try politics. From now until Nov. 6 we can about guarantee you three or four social events per week, and even more if you don't insist on one of the top state or local candidates in attendance in person.

It's probably too late now for you to rush up to Las Robles Lodge tonight for the big district-wide banquet they are having there for GOP congressional candidate Don Clausen.

But you still have time to get your tickets for the 50th birthday party for Democratic Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk on Tuesday night at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. Hadden Roth of Mill Valley has the $50 tickets. Mort Sahl is scheduled to be there as master of ceremonies with Harry S. Truman and Willie Mays as special guests. Incidentally, Nancy Strawbridge of Belvedere, who is taking daughter, Dahpne, back to the University of Wisconsin, will pick up former President Truman at Kansas City on the return trip and fly with him to San Francisco.

The following night, the 12th, you can have Irish Coffee with Assembly candidate Robert Carrow after 8 p.m., Ray Brandt and Mrs. Charles Einstein co-hosting at Democratic HQ in San Rafael.

You probably won't get any food, but William Lawlor, the chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Education, is scheduled to talk to the Young Republicans in Bermuda Palms on Sept. 18.

If you're interested merely in a luncheon, drop by the Harold Watkin home in Kent Woodlands on Wednesday, Sept. 19. Don Rose of Los Angeles, the Democratic candidate for secretary of state, is scheduled to be the luncheon guest of Becky Watkin and friends. He's due to be around all day that day.

And don't forget the big dinner for Gov. Edmund G. Brown at the Meadow Club, Fairfax, on Sept. 21. All the big-wig Democrats will be there and so will some sensitive Republicans.

Then for your future book, but not too future at that, mark down Oct. 9. That's the day that Ronald Reagan, motion picture and TV star, is scheduled to arrive for a big Republican fund-raising affair. It's to be a dinner at the Peacock Gap golf clubhouse.

That's enough social stuff for one sitting but only a few of the total number of events.

STATE CAMPAIGN manager for Dr. Wallace W. Hall in his unsuccessful bid for the state superintendency, Richard L. Foster of Greenbrae, has announced he will support Ralph Richardson for the state post.

Dr. Hall of Belvedere won't become involved in the campaign. He is assistant state superintendent and will serve under either Richardson or Max Rafferty, whichever is elected, for at least the three years his contract has yet to run. He's not in a position to do much campaigning for either.

WE HEAR that Frederic D. Kerr of Ross is trying to make up his mind whether to try again for supervisor in 1964 when William D. Fusselman is expected to step down.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

What Is Tam District Thinking?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The Reed Union School District Board of Trustees, of which I am a member, has indeed been urging the Tamalpais High School Board of Trustees to select and purchase a high school site on the Tiburon Peninsula. I have fully supported this position because I believed the following publicly made and well-publicized assurances by the Tam board to the taxpayers of this district:

1. That the 1961 bond election would provide for the purchase of two new sites, irrespective of where the fourth school would finally be developed. That one of those sites would be on the Tiburon Peninsula.

2. That, because of this commitment to the voters and subsequent reconfirmation of it at public meetings within the last three months, there can be no question of "if" a site on the Tiburon Peninsula will be purchased.

3. That, in answer to the question "where," the Tam board, recognizing that no ideal, ready-made site exists on the peninsula, is making a sincere effort to select one which offers the best compromise.

4. That the question of "when" is being realistically evaluated in the light of the planning staff's firm statement that there must be a high school on the peninsula and that the limited number of possible sites are rising in cost and even disappearing.

If all these things are taken to be true, then it makes perfectly good sense to urge that "when" is now! However, the Aug. 29 issue of the Independent-Journal quotes Supt. Chester Carlisle of the Tam district as presenting a slightly different picture. He now tells us that the bond money was to provide for only one site. That site will be in the north at Lagunitas because it is "good, low-priced, available and in the area of greatest population expansion."

That the site is "good" and "available" is very convenient for the Tam board and the people of Lagunitas, but does it mean that we are to do without a local high school because we can't offer what the Tam board might call a "good and available" site?

That the site is low-priced, I can't judge since the Tam board has not seen fit to divulge that information to the people whose money it is spending.

Finally, even if that site is in the "area of greatest population expansion" (where are the statistics to support this astounding conclusion?), we are not talking about building a school, only purchasing land while we still have the opportunity.

Supt. Carlisle also is quoted as saying that the Tam board might not favor our hilltop site as shown on the master plan. This is no surprise. What is surprising is the lack of objectivity from which this whole ill-fated project has suffered.

Two of the sites which the Tam board has directed the planning staff to study are admittedly too expensive; two possible sites were not even included in the study on the recommendation of one architect whose opinion is not supported by others in his profession.

The question is, what is it that we are now being asked to believe? Were all these assurances made by the Tam board not really true in the first place? Have we been naive to believe them and to insist upon the urgency of purchasing a peninsula site since that was never their intention?

I suggest that it is time for some straight talking.

FBI Editorial Inspirational

EDITOR,
Indepedent-Journal:

It was indeed thoughtful of you to reprint my recent message to all law enforcement officials in the Aug. 11 edition of the Independent-Journal.

This gesture and the editorial comments you made concerning my administration of the FBI serve as a great source of inspiration to my associates and me, and we want to take this opportunity to extend our sincere thanks for your efforts on our behalf.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

An avid fisherman was dragged away from his beloved Minnesota lakes and taken on a tour of Europe by his determined wife. Back home he announced that the summer had been pretty much wasted, but that Venice at least had proved tolerable. "What attracted you most there?" he was asked. "The Lido or St. Marks?" "Neither," said the great traveler. "What tickled me most was that I could sit in my hotel room and fish right out of the window."

I like the story about an indomitable old lady of ninety-odd years who obviously was not going to recover from her latest serious illness. Members of the family told her as tactfully as possible. "You have never indicated where you'd like to be buried after you die: in the East where you were born or here where you've lived for years?"

The old lady cut them short, regarded them with a twinkle in her eyes, and said, "Surprise me!"

RAFFERTY-RICHARDSON—V

How About Teachers, Unification, Leadership

By ROBERT FAIRBANKS

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Ralph Richardson and Max Rafferty generally support higher salaries for some teachers, school district unification and leadership from the superintendent of public instruction.

The two candidates for superintendent explained their positions in answers to identical questions from United Press International.

1. Are teachers' salaries generally too high, too low, or about right?

RAFFERTY — Salaries for able, inspirational teachers are not high enough. Salaries for mediocre teachers are high enough. Salaries for poor teachers are too high.

RICHARDSON — Teachers' salaries are not "generally too high." For the beginning teacher, I believe they are, in most districts, about where they should be. The problem is to improve salaries at the middle and upper reaches of the salary brackets and lengths of service in order that teaching may be a rewarding professional career for an entire lifetime.

2. Should the state continue to encourage school district unification?

RAFFERTY—Yes, but not make it compulsory against the wishes of the local communities.

RICHARDSON — Yes, the state should urge school district unification, as is being done by the legislation requiring county committees on school district reorganization to present plans for local consideration. In this connection, I believe it is necessary to point out that the current law requires only study and, if recommended, elections.

It does not permit the establishment of unified districts against the expressed will of the majority of the electorate in the districts involved.

3. How would you effect whatever plans you have since the board of education, the regents, the state college board, the legislative and local districts have final responsibility for school policy?

RAFFERTY—Through leadership. The state superintendent serves as ex officio member of several of the above agencies. He works closely with the curriculum commission, which alone can give our children better, more understanding things to study.

His department is in charge of teacher credentialing. He should supply most of the educational research which state and local agencies use constantly in developing their programs and policies. He embodies the "educational climate" which permeates all levels of the state educational system.

He has unequalied opportunities through the press and through frequent speeches throughout the state to spell out his philosophy.

RICHARDSON—The superintendent must be a moving force for research, for new ideas; in short, leadership. This leadership he must exercise in the context of legislative debate, public discussion, professional organizations, and the state board of education. He has no absolute or ex cathedra power by which overnight he can revolutionize the educational system nor should he.

'Peace Treaty' And War?

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures writer

In a more rational time, a peace treaty would hardly seem a step towards more acute hostility.

But it is in the days of the cold war.

For several years the Russians have been threatening to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and it is this threat that is the sizzling fuse to the Berlin powder keg.

None of the World War II allies has signed a pact with the divided Germanies although 17 years have passed since the war's end. The French, British and American troops stationed in Berlin are therefore under agreements made with the Russians at the Yalta Conference during the war.

Should Russia unilaterally sign a treaty with East Germany, it would mean the Western powers could stay in Berlin, or have access to it, only at the whim of the East Germans.

This the West is not prepared to tolerate. It claims its rights can't be infringed by a treaty it had no part in between Russia and East Germany, a nation it doesn't even recognize officially.

But Russia may move towards a treaty anyway. The Communists feel it would strengthen the weak Red regime of Walter Ulbricht in East Germany, giving it a certain added prestige among its subjects as well as diminishing, outwardly at least, the specter of Russian control. And it would put pressure on the West.

That's where the problem lies. How much more pressure can Khrushchev put on the West before the pot blows up?

The Western powers have steadfastly maintained their right to access to West Berlin and their right to station troops there. The 1948 airlift during the Russian blockade of Berlin echoed this determination. So did the convoys of troops the United States sent to West Berlin after the Berlin wall went up a year ago (see map). The troops were sent and arrived without incident despite warnings from the East Germans.

Military movements of Allied troops to Berlin are under Russian jurisdiction. But if a treaty were signed, these movements would be controlled by East Germany.

What would happen, then, if after a treaty were signed, the East Germans closed the West's links with Berlin? Presumably, the Western powers would use force if necessary to protect their rights. To give in would be a disastrous setback and would imperil the alliance with West Germany, long a major goal of Soviet policy.

On the other hand, Russia could hardly stand aside and see her East German satellite pushed around by the West.

Thus, as the years pass and the Russians slowly chip away at the Western powers in Berlin, there is increasingly little room for diplomatic maneuver.

The erection of the wall in August, 1961, made Western rights of access to East Berlin all but a formality. The withdrawal of the Russian army commander from East Berlin and his replacement by an East German put another squeeze on the West.

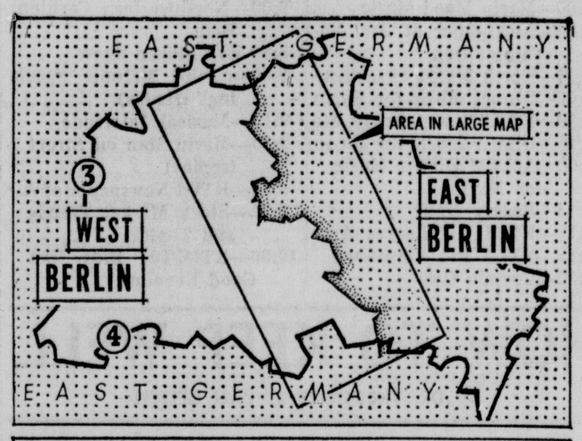
Whether Khrushchev intends to push the Western powers in Berlin into such a tight corner that they can do naught but fight back, is problematical.

But circumstance sometimes has ways of dealing its own hands, and not always choice cards.

The uproar after Communist guards shot a fleeing East German youth and left him to die by the wall near the U. S. Checkpoint Charley (see map) was spontaneous. West Germans skimmed stones and hooted at American and Russian soldiers alike.

They particularly vented their feelings against the Russian guard that regularly patrols the Soviet War Memorial in West Berlin, injuring several of them with rocks.

Rocks don't start wars. But incidents can. And along the highly charged length of the Berlin wall, who can say when there will finally be one incident too many?



1. Work begins on wall Aug 13, 1961
2. U S and Russian tanks face each other over wall Oct 26, 1961

U.S. NEUTRALITY DATES TO 1793

Laws Recently Back In News When Young Raiders Hit Cuba

By DONALD MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In April, 1793, a Yankee schooner scudded into New York harbor, bringing the first news of a new war in Europe.

The fact that a series of ocean gales had cut off the United States from all news of the Continent for three months—including France's declaration of war on Great Britain and Spain—could help to explain the policy the United States subsequently adopted.

President George Washington issued his famous proclamation of neutrality. He said it was the "disposition" of this country to "pursue a conduct friendly and impartial toward the belligerent powers." He warned Americans against "aiding or abetting hostilities."

Congress followed by passing a series of "neutrality laws" making it a crime to aid belligerent states or to mount military expeditions from U. S. shores against a friendly state.

The laws came into the news on Aug. 24 when two boatloads of young Cuban exiles, based in Miami, slipped into Havana harbor, shot up a hotel housing Russian technicians.

The incident posed a moral dilemma for U. S. officials. On one hand, if the gunboats had left on their mission from Florida, or even if the expedition was organized there, it probably was a violation of U. S. law.

On the other hand the raiders, mainly youths, were on the "right" side, and everyone had to admit they put on quite a show.

The key provision of the series of U. S. "neutrality laws" is contained in Section 960. It says:

"Whoever, within the United States, knowingly begins or sets on foot, or provides or prepares a means for, or furnishes the money for or takes part in, any military or naval expedition or enterprise to be carried on from thence against the territory or dominion of any foreign prince or state, or any colony, district, or people with whom the United States is at peace, shall be fined not more than $3,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

The law was not invoked when Cuban exiles made their ill-fated invasion attempt at the Bay of Pigs in 1961.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy ruled they had not departed on an invasion but had gone as individuals to "join an insurgent group," which courts have said is not against the law.

The most recent Justice Department prosecution under the "military expedition" was at the time of the Bay of Pigs incident. Rolando Masferri Rojas was indicted in Miami on charges of having participated in an earlier expedition.

He was a supporter of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista, and it was later charged that the reason the prosecution was started was to show this country was not backing Cuban exiles who supported Batista. The indictment later was dismissed.

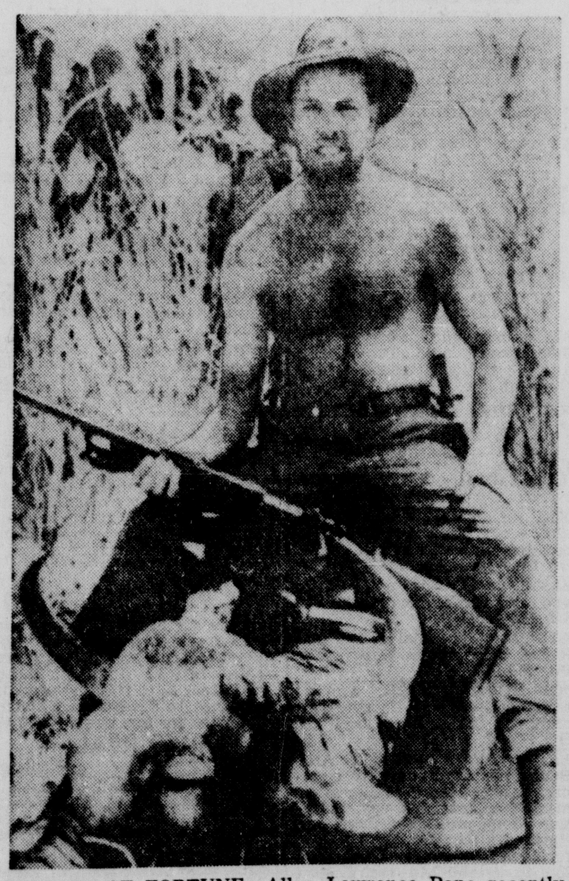
Then there is the diplomatic problem of American citizens who go off to join in another country's battles.

When United Nations forces rounded up mercenaries fighting for Katanga President Moise Tshombe in The Congo recently they found that one of Tshombe's pilots was Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, a soldier of fortune from Harlem, N. Y.

Another case, Alan L. Pope, 33, was shot down in 1958 while flying a B26 bomber for Indonesian rebels. He was sentenced to death by an Indonesian court, but the State Department, after years of efforts, recently won his release.

If it can catch them at the right time, the U. S. government can sometimes ground soldiers of fortune by withholding their passports. The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that passports may not be withheld on grounds of political beliefs or activities.

However, the court has given the State Department power to invalidate passports for traveling in certain parts of the world, including Red China and a few other Communist countries.



SOLDIER OF FORTUNE—Allen Lawrence Pope recently was released by the Indonesian government after he had been sentenced to death for flying for the rebels. He is pictured here during a hunting trip in India prior to going to Indonesia.

EVEN SEWERS HAVE BARS

Divided City Is Like Two Worlds

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP)—The two Berlins, East and West, are hewn from one city but they are virtually separate countries so far as utilities are concerned.

Sewerage is an exception. Ninety per cent of West Berlin's sewage flows toward East Berlin despite the wall dividing the city.

West Berlin has 2.2 million people, East Berlin 1.2 million.

When the wall came, Aug. 13, 1961, West Berlin's bus and streetcar systems were independent.

The elevated trains, operated by the East German railways and ringing the entire city, stopped running between East and West, except for one line ending in East Berlin's Friedrichstrasse station.

The elevated in West Berlin, boycotted by many West Berliners, runs on power from the East. The station platforms are illuminated by West Berlin power.

The wall also severed subway links between East and West Berlin. The subway used to be a common route for East Germans escaping to the West.

Two West Berlin subway lines still traverse East Berlin, but only one makes a stop—at Friedrichstrasse. Persons authorized to enter East Berlin may leave the train there.

When the train crosses the border the lights go off for a fraction of a second, then go on again, somewhat dimmed. That's when the train switches from west to east current, officials explain.

Each half on the city has its own water and gas supply.

You cannot telephone a friend in the East from West Berlin. Nor can East Berliners call friends in West Berlin.

The division didn't start with the wall. It dates back to the blockade 1948-49. Since then the Western part of Berlin has striven to make itself independent of the East.

A small part of West Berlin's power consumption is supplied from the East and is paid for under a general trade agreement. A small fraction of the gas consumed by West Berliners comes from the East, to illuminate some border streets.

Not a drop of the 100 million gallons of water West Berlin uses daily is supplied by the East nor do West Berliners sell their water to the Red-ruled part of the city.

In 1952, the East Berlin postal authorities overnight cut telephone communications with West Berlin.

West Berlin telephone officials say they have only one service line into East Berlin—not for public use.

The three Western Allies have a line to the Soviet Embassy, and the Soviets have line to the Berlin Air Safety Center and the Spandau war crimes prison in the West.

Mail is restricted to a few deliveries by truck and rail each day.

Trucks may cross only at the Heinrich Heine checkpoint for West Germans, on the border between the American sector and East Berlin.

An intricate network of sewer pipes criss-crosses the city. Many people made their escape through the sewers soon after the wall came.

Now, all sewer pipes between the halves of Berlin are blocked by steel bars.

Soblen Not Deserving Of Sympathy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The picket signs read: "Don't kick a dying man" and "Brooke for Siberia."

It happened in London while Dr. Robert A. Soblen, wanted in the United States to serve a life term for spying for the Russians, was in a self-induced coma.

Brooke was the British home secretary who denied Soblen's last appeal against deportation to the country he betrayed.

The Soblen scene might have been a pathetic one, truly deserving of sympathy, were it not for the circumstances.

He collapsed from an overdose of barbiturates only a short time before he was to be put aboard a U. S.-bound plane Thursday morning.

Khrushchev once said he would bury the United States. Later he qualified this boast to define it as a figurative, rather than literal, burial.

Literally or figuratively, Khrushchev needs gravediggers. He had one in Dr. Robert A. Soblen.

Khrushchev Mild On U-2 Flight

Khrushchev is a difficult fellow to understand, anyway. A tirade was expected this week when the Soviets charged a U-2 had violated Soviet air space over Sakhalin Island north of Japan.

The United States admitted it was quite possible the high-flying reconnaissance plane had been blown off its course by strong winds but any intrusion was unintentional.

Soviet newspapers rejected this explanation and called the U-2 incident another act of aggression.

It was, therefore, expected that Khrushchev would take advantage of this event to blast the United States.

Instead, he invited U. S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, the highest-ranking American now in Russia, to pay him a visit at his vacation retreat on the Black Sea.

Udall would not tell newsmen what Khrushchev said about the U-2 over Sakhalin. He said he would make his report in Washington Monday.

Space — The U. S.-launched Mariner II was maneuvered into position to approach within 9,000 miles of Venus in December. And U. S. space chief James E. Webb told Congress Russia had failed in five attempts to send similar probes to Venus and Mars.

Algeria—Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella won another power struggle, this time with dissident military district leaders who opposed the newly established political bureau's plan to deemphasize the army.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Too Many People Are Overly Concerned About Cholesterol

Van Dellen

Many persons are cholesterol cripples because they associate high levels with heart attacks. They are frustrated because the level varies every time a blood test is done and they feel no different whether the reading is high or low.

A cholesterol level above 260 mg per cent is said to contribute to hardening of the arteries and to increase the chance of developing coronary thrombosis. On the other hand, many people have lived to a ripe old age with levels higher than this. I suspect that worrying about these fatty molecules and the anxieties resulting from trying to lower the level do more harm than the cholesterol.

INCREASING AGE is associated with increasing cholesterol levels. The amount in the blood varies considerably with changes in weight, diet, stress, and exercise. Furthermore, there are wide, unexplained fluctuations in levels when people are tested periodically even though they are not on a diet and do not receive medicine.

In addition, the test is difficult to do and readings vary in different laboratories. If you don't believe this, ask the technician to draw twice as much blood as is needed the next time the test is made. Let her keep one sample and you take the other to another laboratory or hospital. Compare the results.

THESE POINTS are mentioned because too many people are overly concerned about this problem. Gluttonous eating and overweight can be corrected and the individual can eat sparingly of animal fats, exercise daily, and avoid excesses.

The use of drugs, vitamins, hormones, or what have you will help lower the level, provided the physician thinks it is necessary. It is well to remember that it is a thankless job, however, because the level goes up when these medications are stopped. Above all, do not take anything that might do more harm than the cholesterol. Not all the questions about this fatty substance have been answered.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DROPSY

C. H. writes: Why is it dangerous for the body to hold too much water in the tissues?

REPLY

The serious aspect of dropsy is the cause—heart, kidney, or liver disease. The waterlogged tissues are uncomfortable and the congestion in the lungs may lead to cough and shortness of breath. The indigestion that develops in a person with dropsy may stem from congestion in the abdomen.

ARMPIT ITCHING

B. N. writes: What is the reason I have itching and burning in the armpits all the time?

You may be allergic to an underarm deodorant or antiperspirant, or an infection may exist that is irritated by perspiration.

POOR DIGESTION

A. B. writes: Do older persons tend to have more flatulence than younger ones?

REPLY

Yes, possibly because of changes in the enzymes and other digestants, fewer teeth, preference for softer and starchier foods, and less physical activity.

LUNG REMOVAL

R.L.Y. writes: Has any progress been made in reducing the death rate from cancer of the lung via surgery?

REPLY

CORTISONE DOSAGE

M.L. writes: How many shots of cortisone can a person safely take?

REPLY

How many milligrams in each shot?

Today's Health Hint — Destroy empty insecticide containers immediately.

Strawberry Swimming

The Strawberry Swimming Club will hold open house at its newly-opened pool tomorrow and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Admission is free to all residents of Strawberry Recreation District, according to Leighton Hatch, club representative.

Choral Singing Class For Adults

A class in choral singing has been added to the Tamalpais Adult Evening School for the fall quarter, Principal Harry G. Russell announced today.

It will be held on the Tamalpais High campus in Mill Valley on Wednesdays, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. with Mrs. Patricia Stibor as instructor.

Other fine arts courses at Tam are: Art, Mondays, 7:30 to 9:30, Mrs. Elsie Pomeroy; sculpture, Wednesdays, 7:30 to 9:30, Arthur Grant; and at Drake: Organ, Thursdays, 7:30 to 9:30, Mrs. Gertrude Darman; and creative writing Tuesdays, 7:30 to 9:30, Mrs. John Cresap.

Cancer Crusade Quota Reached

The $31,345 crusade quota of the Marin Branch of the American Cancer Society has been reached, campaign manager John Schmitz announced today.

Schmitz said the successful effort was made possible by the workers in the house-to-house campaign as well as persons who contributed directly to the crusade.

He added, "The success of the campaign would have been impossible without the cooperation of the president, Dr. John Manwaring, the many captains and workers in the field and the dedicated effort of Mrs. Clarence Lesko, assistant to the campaign chairman."

Chamber Against Senate Changes

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board Thursday adopted a resolution against reapportionment of state senate districts which will appear as Proposition 23 on the Nov. 6 ballot.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) requested the chamber's action against the proposition in a letter.

A scheduled talk by Supervisor William D. Fusselman on county road projects was put off to next Thursday's meeting because Fusselman was unable to attend yesterday's luncheon because of a meeting of the board of supervisors.

Mill Valley Jr. High Discussion On Tap

Various possible sites for a junior high school will be discussed by Mill Valley School District trustees at their meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the district office.

Sites, to be presented by San Rafael architect Eugene E. Crawford, are adjacent to the Tamalpais Valley School. The new school would be the second junior high in the district, the other being Edna Maguire School in the Alto area.

Pleads Innocent In Molest Case

John M. Kyle, 55, of 4 Eucalyptus Road, Belvedere, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of molesting a 9-year-old boy.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set Oct. 16 for Kyle's jury trial. Kyle is free on $1,050 bail.

Between Just ANY Apartment

And the All-new

220 CANAL

Waterfront Apartment Homes

THESE Were Created Expressly for the Desires of the Discriminating

Refinements include:

Lots of living room, your own private docking facilities, full insulation and soundproofing. Floor to ceiling drapes for magnificent marine and Marin view windows. Ample storage room with two garages if you need them. All wool wall to wall carpets, all electric kitchens, separate dining rooms, dressing rooms and, of course, walk-in closets and built-in bar. A pleasant feature—INDIVIDUAL GARDENS—for those who'd like to "ply the green thumb." The lovely pool is designed for your relaxation and fun.

Nothing has been spared to make these luxury apartment homes everything you'd expect for truly gracious carefree living.

What to look for in a used car

We sell new Volkswagens, mainly, but our customers have put us in a thriving used car business with their trade-ins. And we like our used car customers to go out of here as satisfied as our new Volkswagen owners.

The check list below is for your convenience. A car that rates 100% we'd call "factory clean." Of course you can't ask for perfection in a vintage economy model. But you can make sure you know what you're getting for whatever you're paying

Besides price, year, color, style, make and model, you can look into a few less obvious points to assure yourself of the car's worth with this check list.

We'd rather have you satisfied—than just sold.

On the lot, look for:
- ☐ Tires with evenly worn tread.
- ☐ Tight windows and doors.
- ☐ Lights and accessories that work.
- ☐ Clean, undamaged upholstery and flooring.
- ☐ Spare tire, jack, tire iron.
- ☐ Good radiator hose, fan belt, distributor, cables, wipers.
- ☐ Tight hubcaps.
- ☐ Locks that work.

Check these points in road test:
- ☐ Good springs and shock absorbers.
- ☐ Comfortable steering that doesn't pull to either side.
- ☐ Firm brakes that don't pull to either side.
- ☐ Effective emergency brakes.
- ☐ Speedometer and other gauges that work.
- ☐ Smoke-free exhaust.

Look out for:
- ☐ Rust around fenders and seams.
- ☐ Loose tail pipe or muffler.
- ☐ Loose bumpers
- ☐ Water spots inside—possibly from leaks.
- ☐ Frame out of line.
- ☐ Corroded battery housing.
- ☐ Loose chrome strips.

And look out for these:
- ☐ Jerky transmission.
- ☐ Slipping clutch.
- ☐ Air leaks — around doors, windows, vents.
- ☐ Rattles.
- ☐ Overheating.
- ☐ Wobbly front wheels.
- ☐ Tendency to stall.
- ☐ Brake pedal that goes down too far.

NEW STATE OFFICE BUILDING

The State Retirement Fund Building looms above the tree tops and other buildings in this aerial view of downtown Sacramento. It is the largest state office building and is the fourth largest office building of any kind west of Chicago. Only the Kaiser Center is larger in California. The 16-story structure is scheduled for completion in 1964 at a cost of 14.8 million dollars. In the background is the State Capitol. (AP Wirephoto)

Some Top Officers Concerned Over 'Yo-Yo' Effect Of Reserve Callups

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some top officers voiced concern today that the "yo-yo" effect of recurring moves to call up military reservists would make it difficult to recruit volunteers for the National Guard and reserve.

By yo-yo effect they meant the call up of reservists to meet a crisis such as in Berlin, the release of these reservists when the crisis abates and then moves to muster more reservists when new crises loom.

These officers stressed they were not suggesting that military reservists are inclined to shirk duty.

But they indicated they thought periodic moves signaling possible calls to active service keep reservists on tenterhooks and create a morale problem.

If this sort of pattern continues, these officers said, the reserve and National Guard may find themselves hard put to attract volunteer recruits and may have to rely on men with reserve obligations to fill their ranks.

This would make it all the harder for the Army to maintain its reserve forces at 700,000 men as Congress has ordered it should try to do this year.

Pentagon officials told Congress some months ago that they would have to undertake a heavy recruiting drive to come close to the 700,000 figure. They claimed that 642,000 was about the best they could hope to do.

Military officers foresaw another possible complication if recurring reserve alerts and callups become a general practice. They said employers might avoid hiring young men who were reservists subject to active duty and thus to prolonged absence from their jobs.

President John F. Kennedy's request yesterday for stand-by authority to mobilize up to 150,000 reservists, if necessary in the months ahead, came only a few weeks after about 147,000 Army, Navy and Air Force reservists and National Guardsmen, called up after last summer's Berlin crisis, had returned to civilian life following about 10 months of duty.

The 147,000 would be immune to any new call-up. If new men are summoned to the colors, they will be drawn from about 850,000 other ready reservists of all the services.

Senior military officials said they believed it would be necessary to mobilize only a relatively few reservists or National Guardsmen in the event of another emergency of the magnitude of last year's step-up in tension over Berlin.

This is because the Army has been built from 11 to 16 combat-ready divisions, and the armed forces in general are about 176,000 larger than in the summer of 1961, when the Russians appeared on the verge of moving against Berlin.

Any reservists who might be summoned, it was indicated, would probably be in small support-type units to round out regular Army combat elements—artillery batteries, signal companies, mobile hospitals, quartermaster units and the like.

The White House announcement caught many high officials and officers at the Pentagon by surprise.

Later, after they had been filled in on the administration's intentions, they said no special mobilization plans had been ordered for the immediate future, although there always are contingency plans in the files of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the armed services.

Speedy Approval Of JFK Callup Power Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders predict speedy approval of President John F. Kennedy's request for stand-by power to call 150,000 military reservists to active duty if necessary to deal with a new East-West crisis.

Primary concern in high official quarters here centers on the possibility of new Soviet moves in Berlin. But officials recognize that Kennedy's request may also be regarded in Moscow and Havana as a go-slow warning for the military build-up in Cuba.

The president sent his request to Congress Friday without any prior public hints of such action, although the White House said the plan was discussed with Republican and Democratic congressional leaders when they met with the president Tuesday for a fill-in on Cuba.

This tie-in with Cuba quickly created speculation that Kennedy and his top advisers may be more worried than they have appeared to be about the recent substantial deliveries of Soviet arms to the Castro regime.

Well informed officials said this was not the case, although they said Kennedy would like to have the stand-by power in the event of unexpected developments in the Cuban situation.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

James B. O'Conner, 34, of Daly City, accused of the burglary last Sunday of the Coleman School in San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for next Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

Winfred B. Shippy, 47, of Washington, also charged with the burglary, asked his plea be continued until Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. The men are accused of taking a television set, phonographs and typewriters from the school.

An introductory course in psychology is starting at the Tamalpais Adult Evening School, taught by Dr. William E. Lalin. The class will be held on Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 at Tamalpais High, Mill Valley.

Equipment Stolen From Kent School

A stenographic transcription machine and microphone valued at $350, were reported missing Thursday from the Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield.

Principal Daniel C. Woodard told Marin sheriff's deputies the equipment may have been taken from the office of Jack D. Williams, guidance counsellor, during the past three weeks. There was no evidence of forced entry, and Woodard said a key to a filing cabinet in the office was also missing.

Tour Called 'Inspiring' By Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has termed his 17-thousand-mile goodwill tour of the Middle East and the Mediterranean area an "inspiring and sobering experience."

In an arrival statement yesterday, at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., the vice president said the thing that impressed him most on his 17-day tour was "the esteem, the trust, the high regard the people of all walks of life hold for the United States."

ON HAND

On hand to greet the vice president, his wife and 18-year-old daughter, were Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy and other government officials.

John and his party flew here from Rome following a visit with Pope John XXIII. He described his meeting with the Pope as a "very optimistic conference on world problems."

Johnson spent 41 minutes with the pope.

HUMANKIND

It was "one of the most inspiring discussions in matters affecting humankind in my 54 years of experience," Johnson told newsmen in Rome.

Johnson said his tour had taken him to nations that "lie under the very shadow of communism." But said he was heartened to see that these people are "resolute in their determination to remain free."

The vice president's trip took him to Lebanon, Turkey, Iran, Greece, Cyprus and Italy.

His visit to the Vatican was termed "unofficial." Johnson is a member of the Protestant Christian Church.

City Employee Can Live In Marin

The thought of not being able to live in Marin is enough to make people cry.

John E. Homrig proved this when he appeared before the San Francisco City Retirement Board this week. With tears in his eyes, Homrig pleaded permission to move out of San Francisco and still be allowed to keep his job as a city parks gardener. Only the balmy climes of Marin, he said, would improve his wife's health.

Board members inspected bills which Homrig said amounted to thousands of dollars for treatments for his wife and agreed to break their rule that city employees must live in San Francisco. Homrig plans to move to Corte Madera.

4 Craft Classes Due Adult School

Four craft classes start next week at the Tamalpais Adult Evening School.

Evening school classes are held at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley, Drake High in San Anselmo and Manzanita School in Marin City.

Craft classes at Tamalpais are ceramics, 7 to 10 p.m., Mrs. Gwynne Peticolas, instructor, with a fee of $5; woodshop, Mondays, 7:30 to 9:30, Gerald F. Warren, $6; and arts, crafts and jewelry, Wednesdays, 7:30 to 9:30, Charles Ferrario, $4 fee.

A class in woodworking is set for Tuesdays, 7:30 to 9:30 at Drake with a $6 fee.

AUTHORESS DIES — Baroness Karen Blixen-Finecke, the Danish authoress who became world-famed under her pen name, Isak Dinesen, died yesterday at the age of 77 in Copenhagen. She was best known for three modern classics: "Seven Gothic Tales," "Winter's Tales" and "Out of Africa."

Clausen Lashes Out At Miller

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Don Clausen, Del Norte supervisor and Republican candidate for Congress, called today for a "bipartisan committee to investigate Clem Miller's connection with the Liberal Papers."

In a speech prepared for presentation at tonight's banquet winding up an afternoon-long campaign planning session at which 150 persons were expected, Clausen identified Miller as "one of the original congressional supporters" of the Liberal Project which produced "the masterpiece of appeasement known as the Liberal Papers."

Clausen noted Miller had repudiated the Liberal Papers in the Congressional Record last March.

"Why didn't he repudiate his association two years ago when (Rep. Robert W.) Kastenmeier (D-Wis.) released the names (including Miller's) of the 12 sponsoring congressmen?" Clausen asked.

He suggested that Miller had now disassociated himself because "his co-sponsoring colleagues have met defeat for re-election."

Clausen also lashed out at Miller's "philosophy of government" which would "concentrate all power in a centralized federal government," Miller's support of federal aid to education, and Miller's 100 per cent vote against cutting or limiting federal spending."

Clausen said he favors responsible state and local government to solve problems of urban growth and community development, reforming tax laws to make this possible.

He urged passage of the Utt Amendment which would require the federal government to sell federal bureaus that compete with private industry and use the proceeds to help reduce the national debt.

Jury Still Sought For Murder Trial

New attempts will be made Wednesday to seat a jury in Marin Superior Court for the San Quentin murder trial of Alfred J. Jimenez and Robert B. Dorado.

Judge Thomas F. Keating adjourned court yesterday with the original jury list of 150 exhausted by defense and prosecution lawyers. More than 100 new prospective jurors will be called Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The two San Quentin Prison convicts are accused of the murder of fellow inmate Abel A. Navarez last Dec. 12.

He's The Man Who Takes Care Of Mt. Tamalpais

And Supervisor George Holmboe Likes His Work

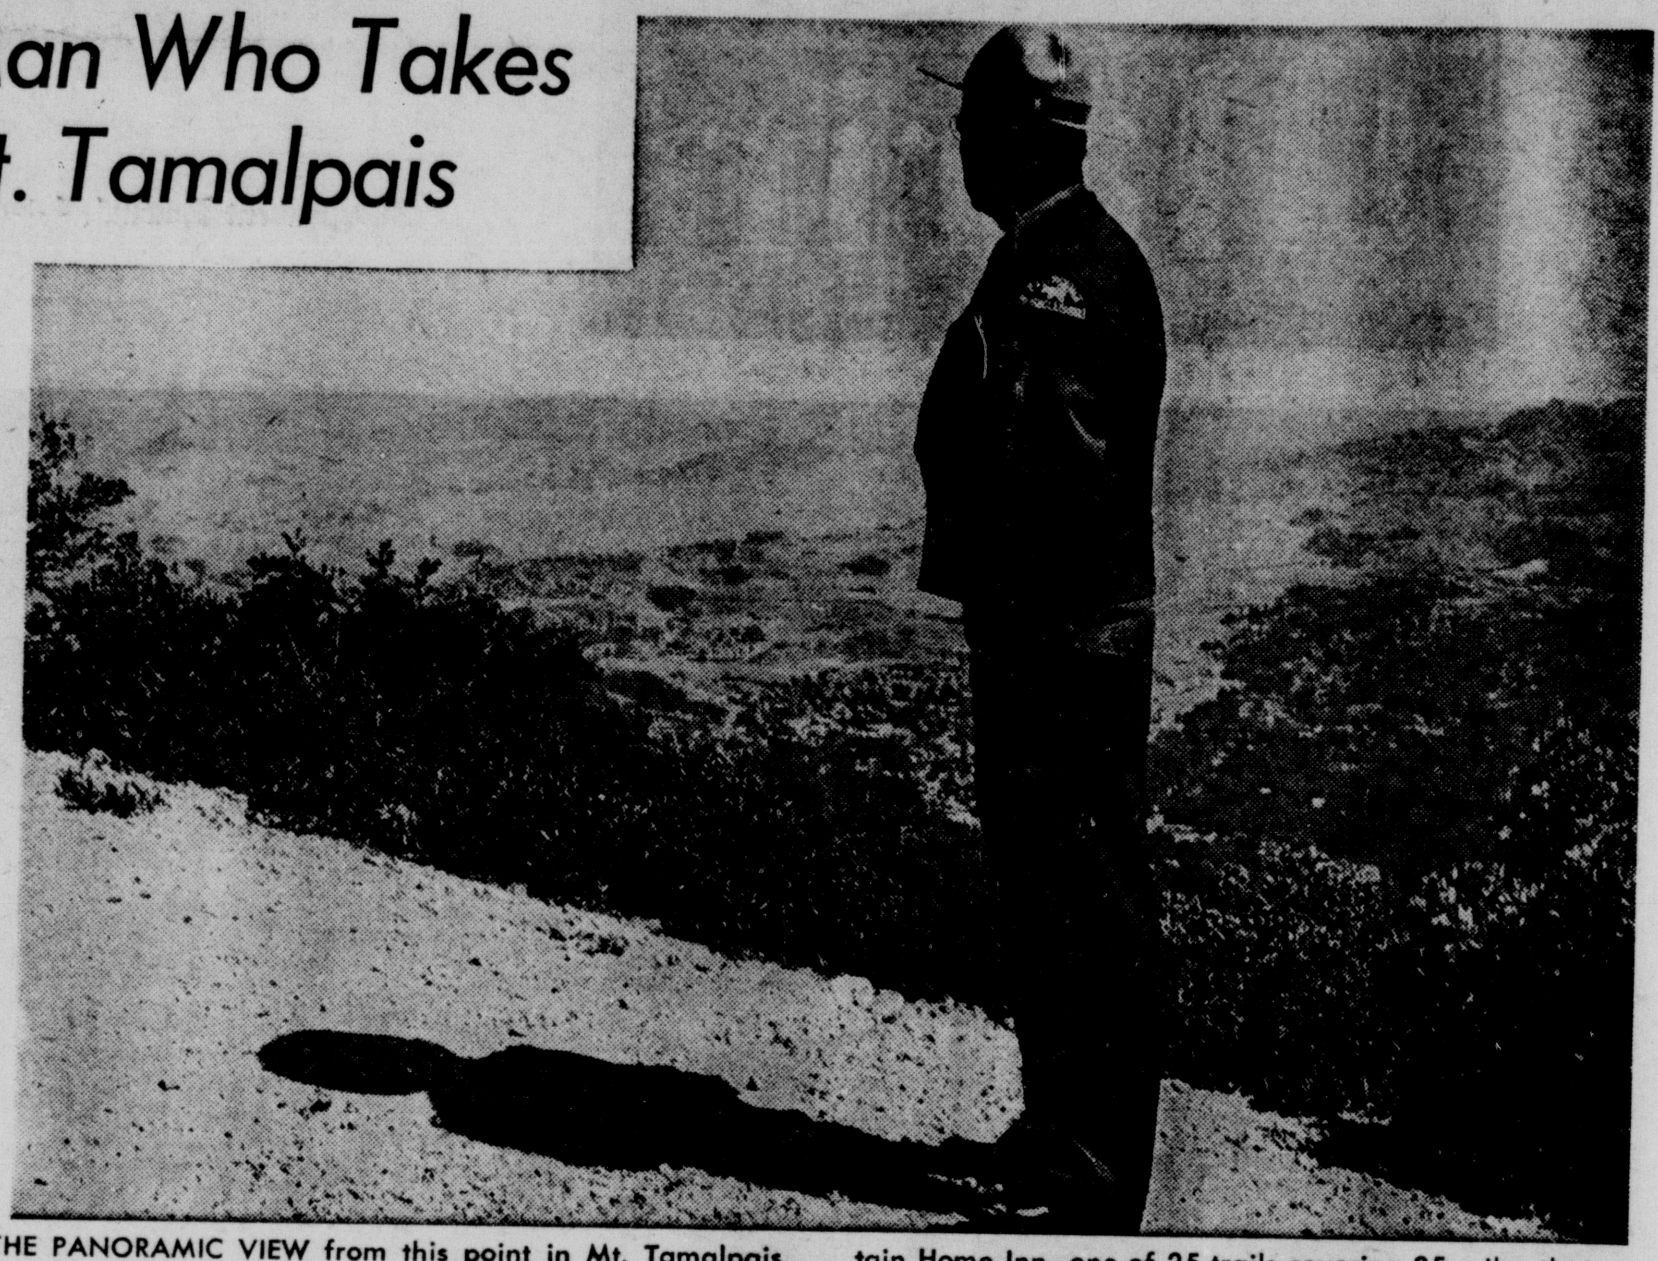
By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

George E. Holmboe, supervisor of Mt. Tamalpais State Park, was its first ranger back in 1941-42.

He has served in several other places since then, but has been at Tamalpais the second time since July 19 six years ago—and so happy is he with his present position that he hopes to spend the rest of his career there.

In fact he enjoys his grass roots level contacts with nature and people so much that, though as a Ranger III he is qualified to take the examinations for administrative levels of ranger IV, V and VI he doesn't plan to take them.

"At one of those levels," he said, "I would be excluded from field work. You know, we may have but one life, and we must be happy in that life to be successful.



THE PANORAMIC VIEW from this point in Mt. Tamalpais State Park has never lost its charm for George E. Holmboe, supervisor of the park. He is standing at the end of Throckmorton Trail which ascends the mountain from the Mountain Home Inn—one of 25 trails covering 35 miles that are maintained within the park. Holmboe says he hopes to spend the rest of his career at Mt. Tam. (Independent-Journal photo)

"THIS PARK, as far as I am concerned," he continued, "offers the best setup because of the climate, beauty and proximity to cities. Yet it is isolated from the metropolitan areas."

Holmboe has been single-minded about his career since as a boy in Montana he was impressed with the national forests.

Born in Garnell, Mont., on March 6, 1906, he was educated there until his father, an executive with an irrigation company, tired of the cold weather, and the family moved to San Diego. There George was graduated from high school, and his progress up to park supervisor began with being a United States forestry guard at Los Pinos and Dripping Springs ranger stations.

Next he was U.S. fire suppression foreman in the Cleveland National Forest near San Diego. From 1929 to 1935 he was with the U.S. Forest Service.

After attending the University of California for three years, where he majored in forestry, he changed to the California state park service at Mt. Tamalpais in 1942. During the war, on a leave of absence, he spent 26 months in the U.S. Navy Construction Battalion No. 130 (Seabees) as chief gunner's mate in charge of demolition.

Returning to the state parks in October of 1945, he was assigned successively to Mt. Diablo, Mt. Tamalpais and Samuel P. Taylor parks, the Stockton business district and Big Basin Redwood State Park before returning to Mt. Tamalpais.

HOLMBOE AND his wife, Reata, a teacher of physically handicapped children at Marindale School, have two sets of twins. Eighteen years old are Larry, a student at the University of California, and Gayle, who is attending the College of Marin. Thirteen-year-olds Everett and Virginia will be freshmen at Tamalpais High School this fall.

Related to his vocation are Holmboe's hobbies of fishing and collecting minerals. He also enjoys reading such periodicals as Scientific American and National Geographic as well as historical and informational books. The family as a whole is interested in good music in the form of collecting good records for the hi-fi set and attending operas in San Francisco whenever possible.

All members of the family are exceptionally fond of animals and have reared four orphaned fawns. The last one died not long ago from eating hemlock.

At present their interest is centered on a mother raccoon, who will come into the house to be fed, and "Snootie," a yellow and white tomcat who is accorded the full privileges of family membership.

To become a park supervisor Holmboe qualified in a written test and under standards that required:

"(1) One year of experience as a state park ranger II in the California State park service or three years full-time paid experience in the operation, maintenance, development, protection or interpretation of a park, public recreation or historical area, (2) at least two years in supervisory capacity, and (3) education equivalent to graduating from college, or additional qualifying experience substituted on a year for year basis."

He had to have a thorough knowledge of California state parks and recreational areas and had to know how to handle all problems in protecting, maintaining and improving a park, as well as procedures in construction, repair and maintenance of park facilities and methods of fire prevention and suppression.

He was also trained in methods of record keeping and safeguarding money and in principles of supervision.

Holmboe is assisted with his duties by a staff of five: Assistant Park Superintendent Robert Hewitt, ranger II; Willard G. Hanselman, ranger I; Roy Ramberg, ranger I; and Johnnie D. Allen and Harvey C. Ellis, park attendants.

FOR THE BENEFIT of boys who may be thinking of becoming rangers, Holmboe discussed the field and qualifications. Having worked under both, he was able to point out the differences between the U.S. and the California state services.

"There is considerable difference between working in the U.S. and state services," he explained. "Rangers in the U.S. Forestry Service must be experienced in forestry and study botany, biology, entomology, plant pathology and have a certain amount of civil engineering.

"They must have four and preferably five years of formal college education in an accredited school of forestry, such as that of the University of California or the University of Oregon. They are subject to transfer anywhere in the United States.

"The California Division of Forestry is concerned with fire fighting and protection of the timber crop and may even sell timber. Educational requirements are about the same as for the national service, but transfer is limited to within the state.

"Mt. Tamalpais State Park is under the Division of Beaches and Parks of the State Department of Parks and Recreation. The Division of Beaches and Parks is concerned more with the preservation of natural areas for enjoyment of the public and not so much with fire fighting and conservation. Emphasis is on recreation and taking care of the visiting public, and preservation of natural features of an area.

"In the Division of Beaches and Parks a young man progresses from park aide, a seasonal job concerned with park maintenance, to park attendant, a permanent classification. After four years he is eligible to take the ranger I examinations, but if he has some education, this time can be shortened.

"A college graduate, preferably with major in forestry, can take a ranger I examination without previous experience. Thereafter progress is through ranger II up to VI, which is supervisor of a district of which California has six."

Mount Tamalpais State Park is in District II, which comprises approximately 20 parks and historical monuments, under the jurisdiction of Gordon T. Kishbaugh and M. M. Gregory, assistant superintendent, and a staff at Santa Rosa.

VERY PROUD of "his park," Holmboe went on to discuss it, starting with the name "Tamalpais."

"There are various theories about its origin," he said, "but I like to think of it as meaning 'land of the Tamal Indians.' Tamal Indians definitely lived in this area, and the Spanish word for country, or land, is 'pais,' so that makes a perfect translation, it seems to me.

"The park has an annual attendance of 260,000, about half that of Muir Woods. At present it is composed of 2,200 acres, or double what it was two years ago. Not all of this has been developed.

"To some people there is an apparent discrepancy between the development of state parks and the acquisition program. It is the feeling of the State Park Commission and staffs of the Division of Beaches and Parks that it is necessary for the present time and will be for some time to come to acquire potential areas and defer the development of new acquisitions until a later date. This is based on the rapidly increasing cost of and disappearance of available lands.

"Eventually no person on this earth will be able to own one square foot of this earth. It will not be economically feasible or right to do so because, as the population continues to grow, property becomes more valuable for multiple use.

"Shortly we will have expended the million dollars set up during the last four years for acquisition and practical development of acreage on Mt. Tamalpais. Certain areas are being acquired with the specific thought in mind of establishing more camping areas for the enjoyment of the public. Eventually Boot Jack Camp and Tamalpais Camp may revert to day use.

"New developments of overnight camping sites will be within new acquisitions, particularly Frank's Valley, represented by the Weigel Priest property and the de Ponte property.

"PRESENT CAMPING facilities of the park include two combination camping and picnic areas open to the public on a first-come-first-served basis. These are Bootjack and Pantoll. Camp Alice Eastwood, which is a combination camping and picnic area for organized groups, is available by reservation. And at the summit of Mt. Tamalpais there is a small, dry (no fires of any kind allowed) picnic area providing 11 tables, water and restrooms."

Questioned as to the existence of any problems with plants and animals of the park, Holmboe became philo-

MANKIND AND FIRE are the big "upsetters" of the balance of nature, and man is the worse of the two, according to Mt. Tamalpais State Park Supervisor George E. Holmboe. Nevertheless, equipment to fight fire must be ready for instant use. Roy Ramberg holds a hose from the fire truck stationed at the park's ranger station during a test of the equipment. sophical about the role played by man.

"Man is the worst upsetter of the balance of nature," he declared. "Human beings are a factor in nature and fire is another. Plant life is in constant change through man's working with it, eradicating some plants and allowing others to take over. Man's changes are more permanent than fire's because after a fire the more dominant plants take over again.

"Right from the window of this station I have watched the plant life around it change completely.

"I can't see that the Scotch broom some people complain about is a special fire hazard. Other growth is worse.

"Man, too, is partly the cause of the deer problem. By killing off their natural enemies, like the mountain lion, he has caused overpopulation, resulting in loud wails from garden owners."

"The only defense against them," he added, "is a seven-foot cyclone fence with outriggers."

Further questioned as to the report of mountain lions roaming the area, Holmboe confirmed it.

"I've seen them myself, at Mt. Diablo, Samuel P. Taylor and here at Mt. Tamalpais. They come from Southern California up from Mexico along the coast range. There's no danger from them, and they pose no problem.

"AS FOR THE deer, they are under the control of the State Fish and Game Division, except in a state park where no hunting is allowed, though fishing is. This is a cooperative matter between the Beaches and Parks and Fish and Game divisions. Perhaps they could round up many of them and transport them into a larger area, where they would be subject to control by hunting.

"Only 25 per cent of the cost of the operation of a state park system is paid by the fees charged the visiting public. The remaining 75 per cent is defrayed by state funds coming from taxpayers' money.

"So it behooves the public to take care of their own property."

AFTER THE PIECES are cut out of felt, they are glued carefully to a larger piece, as demonstrated here by Mrs. Glen Widdows.

"IT GOES right there," Julie Dean, 4, tells her mother, Mrs. Donald Dean, president of the Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild, as Mrs. Dean finishes a felt picture.

FROM COLORED FELT

Pictures For The Children

Rolls of felt in various colors become charming pictures in the talented hands of members of the Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild.

The women specialize in pictures or wall hangings for children's rooms. For their "Felt Booth" at the annual Grape Festival in San Anselmo Oct. 6, they have made around 200 of these, plus other items in felt.

It's easy, to hear the guild members tell it.

"We just use the felt, paper patterns, sharp scissors, and white glue," says Mrs. Donald Dean, president of the guild. "Then we place dowels at the tops and bottoms of the finished pictures for hanghanging."

But there's more to it than that. After selecting and purchasing the felt in quantity, it takes hours of painstaking work and skill to make the designs, cut out the patterns, and then place and glue the pieces according to the patterns. One design may call for dozens of pieces in many colors, and each must be cut and placed precisely or the whole design is spoiled. (This seldom happens.)

All the guild members have learned this skill and contributed to the large stock of merchandise for their booths at the Grape Festival. Designs include a cowboy, clown, animals, and the always popular toy soldier.

ANDY DEAN, 6, and his sister Julie enjoy a preview of felt pictures made by their mother and other members of the Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild for the Grape Festival to be held Oct. 6 in San Anselmo. (Independent-Journal photos)

THIS AERIAL VIEW shows Fort Baker as it lies at the northern terminus of the Golden Gate Bridge. The neat, frame buildings of the fort are clustered around Horseshoe Cove. The bridge, its approaches and Point Vista can be seen to the right. And San Francisco lies across the water. Fort Baker is one of a chain of three forts—Barry and Cronkhite complete the trio—which lie along the Marin coastline. All are sub-units of San Francisco's famed Presidio. And a drive through the three forts also exposes the motorists to some of Marin's most spectacular views. (U.S. Army photo)

See Marvelous Marin

Three Forts—And Views Unlimited

It is ironic that one of the most peaceful and inviting areas in all Marin is the shoreline occupied by three military installations — Forts Baker, Barry and Cronkhite.

It is also ironic that so few Marinites have availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the forts, although the gates have stood invitingly open for the past six years.

To visit the forts which lie at the northern end of the Golden Gate Bridge, the best approach is from the road that leads south from Sausalito to the bridge. You will see the gates to your left as you round a curve. And just a few feet inside the gate, an army sign welcomes you to the three forts.

ALL THREE are sub-installations of the famed Presidio of San Francisco. And all were once part of the Lime Point Military Reservation established in 1866.

In 1897 the installation was renamed Fort Baker in honor of Edward Dickinson Baker. Then in 1904 the fort was split and the western portion named Fort Barry for Brevet Maj. Gen. William Farquhar Barry. In 1937 still another division was made and this time the westernmost portion was named Fort Cronkhite for Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite.

As you drive along the road entering Fort Baker there are a number of wide turnouts where you can stop and take in the spectacular views of Sausalito, Tiburon, Angel Island, the East Bay counties, and, on a clear day, the southern end of the bay. A camera is a must for the trip. And if you have it loaded with color film, you are certain to reap some spectacular shots.

Drive to your left in Fort Baker and pull in at Horseshoe Cove for a look across the bay, and a "seal's eye" view of the Golden Gate Bridge.

It was at Fort Baker that the first coastal artillery batteries were completed in August of 1897. And some of the older buildings you will see still standing in the forts date back to 1902 and 1904.

The docking facilities you will note in the cove serve children who ferry over from their Angel Island homes to attend school in Sausalito.

You can now rejoin the main road and follow Bunker Road to the one-way tunnel controlled by traffic lights that leads on toward Barry, Cronkhite and Battery Mendell.

Be certain in your driving to observe the leisurely 25 mile per hour speed limit except where otherwise posted. And be certain, too, to observe those areas which are marked by "off limits" signs as out-of-bounds for visitors. No loitering in those areas.

FOLLOWING Bunker Road on to Cronkhite, you loop through the hills and double back on the ocean edge of Cronkhite Cantonment. Here you find a beach where you can picnic, collect minute stones for mosaics, or just enjoy watching the play of the waves.

Just beyond Rodeo Lagoon, take the road leading to your right and it will take you to the U. S. Coast Guard's Point Bonita Light Station. Visiting hours there week days are 1 to 3 p.m.; Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, 1 to 4 p.m. For this visit, be sure to wear sturdy, flat shoes for walking.

Back on Bunker Road again, take the road that leads right after you pass the rifle range and follow it around to your left for the most spectacular view of all. At the turn-around, just past Battery Wallace and almost directly under Gertie, the giant long-range radar, you'll look east at the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco.

It is not advisable to travel further on this road for it is steep with sharp curves. So turn around and follow the coast to rejoin Highway 101.

A secondary road leads under the bridge, but it is best not to travel it at this time since it is directly under current bridge construction work.

Fishermen will be interested in learning that angling is permitted in the lagoon, stocked annually by the state, and on the beaches. However, fishermen must first get a permit from the provost office at the Presidio.

SO QUIET are the forts that they may almost seem deserted at times.

But the plain, neat barracks and other buildings serve as headquarters for the Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command, the 561st Engineer Company, the 197th Ordnance Detachment and the Sixth Army Medical Laboratory.

Both Barry and Cronkhite boast Nike bases.

But the chief attractions for the visitor are the spectacular views which can be enjoyed along the way. The Army invites you to share it with the men who man the forts and the vital installations they house.

Ken Has A Day Life Too

Night Music Man Spends Off-Work Hours In Marin

Ken Ackerman is known throughout the Bay Area as the all-night music man on San Francisco radio station KCBS where he presides over the "Music 'Til Dawn" program.

But he has a daytime life, too. And he leads it in Marin.

Ackerman's home is in Sleepy Hollow where he, his wife Catherine and daughters Jean, 15, a sophomore at Sir Francis Drake High School, and Barbara, 11, a seventh grader at Sleepy Hollow School, live.

There was a horse to be cared for. The steed lived in a split-level barn on top of a hill. The Ackermans reside in a ranch-style house at the foot of the hill.

"THE HORSE had a beautiful view of the valley, and we had a beautiful view of the horse," Ken quips.

The Ackermans, however, recently sold the horse to one of his fellow employees at KCBS. "Rusty just got to be too much for us," he explains.

The Ackermans still, however, have a number of smaller pets including a sizeable aviary.

Ackerman has two pet hobbies— and both revolve around wood.

IN HIS workshop at his Sleepy Hollow home, Ken Ackerman, all-night music man and newscaster for radio station KCBS, likes to relax by doing a bit of woodwork. His projects have included a barn, a summer house and a carport.

NOT CONTENT WITH building things of wood, Ken Ackerman also grows it. Here he tends to an evergreen, just one of the 30-some trees of many different species that he has planted in his acre of land at Sleepy Hollow. Tree planting has become a hobby with him. (Independent-Journal photos)

Ken Ackerman—A Tree-Planting Man

THIS RATHER ELABORATE aviary at his Sleepy Hollow home represents still another interest of many-faceted Ken Ackerman. Some of the little birds who enjoy the luxuriant tropical surroundings can be seen behind him. (Independent-Journal photos)

Completed projects include the split-level barn for Rusty the horse, a summer house and a carport.

Not content just to work with wood, Ken grows it too.

On KCBS he was called upon to read so many "Plant A Tree" public service announcements two years ago that his acre of land is now dotted with trees.

Pepper, peach, almond, Modesto ash, Monterey pine, silk oak, eucalyptus, Chinese elm, poplar, mulberry, apple, cherry, walnut—those are only a few of the species represented.

"There are some that nobody can identify," he adds.

Ackerman says that in all, he has planted more than 30 trees on his land since he started his one-man reforesting campaign.

ALTHOUGH HE has little time for sports, he does enjoy golfing and boating in his 14-foot runabout.

He started his radio career in 1940 at the age of 18 and joined KCBS (then KQW) two years later. In his career he has done all kinds of announcing from hillbilly shows in Sacramento to the Mitch Miller program from the Park Sheraton in New York.

During World War II he announced programs for American and Canadian GIs is Alaska and directed Coast Guard recruiting activities in the Ninth Naval District.

He is now the senior announcer at KCBS. Since 1958 he has emceed the "Music 'Til Dawn" show. He also handles two newscasts and an early morning program for farmers.

What are his special likes besides his family, his woodworking, the classical records he spins for his radio audience, and the trees he grows?

"Spaghetti," says Ken. "I love the stuff."

WATCHING THE ACTIVITY in the playground area of Terra Linda's two and a half acre Del Ganado Park are John, Peggy, Nancy and Mary Reilly, and their mother, Mrs. Louis Reilly. The park is operated as a community recreation center by the Terra Linda Recreation District and has attracted statewide recognition because of its intensified use of limited space. (Independent-Journal photo)

A Community And Its Park

Terra Lindans Are Proud Of Their Recreation Center

By DON KEOWN

It was largely at the insistence of Mary Summers, former Marin County planning director, that even before the first home was built by developers in Terra Linda Valley, land was set aside for recreational use.

Today the 4,000 residents of the 320-acre Terra Linda Recreation District are reaping the benefits of that foresight.

Mrs. Summers had originally anticipated the development of the area in its entirety as a "planned community." Piecemeal annexations to the City of San Rafael eliminated portions of her plan. But existing facilities within the recreation district remain a lasting tribute to her efforts.

It was in 1957 that the Terra Linda Community Services District was formed to provide police, fire protection and street lighting services for the unincorporated area—and to develop parks and recreational facilities.

In 1960 a proposed $350,000 bond issue to finance swimming pools, tennis and handball courts and a community building or pavilion was defeated by 66 votes.

There followed a re-evaluation of the program which resulted in a second bond proposal—this time for $233,000.

IN THE INTERIM a movement was under way to annex Terra Linda to San Rafael. The community services district board concerned with loss of control over the area's two park sites, conceived the plan to form a recreation district which, they felt, might retain jurisdiction over the parks in the event of annexation.

Terra Linda voters approved the formation of a recreation district in October of 1960. Although subsequent developments cast serious doubt upon the ability of the recreation district to survive annexation, that point became mute when the annexation proposal was defeated at the polls.

The dual-district activity resulted in an ironic situation when the community services district, in its efforts to preserve "local control" over its holdings when annexation was still brewing, transferred title of all lands to the recreational district. Now, as a result, the community services district is leasing its firehouse site from the recreational district—paying a dollar a year rent for the use of land it once owned.

Boundaries of the two districts are continguous.

The vote on the $233,000 bond issue was held May 9, 1961, and resulted in overwhelming approval.

Already the district had obtained an option to purchase a former school building and its two-and-a-half-acre site in the heart of Terra Linda on Del Ganado Road. This site served as a rallying point for community interest during the pre-election period.

In April the first of many do-it-yourself weekend improvement programs had been launched and the abandoned school building painted, broken window panes replaced and the rooms cleaned and made available to youth and civic groups.

DIRECTORS OF the recreational district joined in the work to bring closer the community building which was to be a vital part of the new bond program.

Approval of the bonds served as a "go-ahead" signal for further work toward realization of "Marin's most complete community recreation center" — the goal of the district.

Chairman Wally Fairweather and Directors Jack Brandon, Jim Schryver, Gordon Young and Sy Yuan worked with landscape architects Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes and building architects Strangaard and Mogensen to develop the facilities. Much of 1961 was spent in endless meetings with specialists.

"It was," the directors say, "the year in which our dreams started to take shape on paper."

On Jan. 28, 1962, ground was broken and construction of the "dream" began. And given the honor of turning the first shovel of soil for Del Ganado Park was Mary Summers, the woman who had preserved the park sites for Terra Lindans.

Through the developmental stages the directors had carried the ball without salaries (they are still unpaid) and with only nominal expenditures for secretarial assistance. But last March 28 Richard (Dick) Conzelmann, previously employed in recreation at Salinas, was hired as Terra Linda's first paid, full-time employee to direct the program.

Conzelmann, working with the directors, succeeded in recruiting a staff, part paid, part volunteer, and in developing a program that was exceptionally well-rounded for an initial year of operation.

He estimates that nearly 50 per cent of the residents of Terra Linda have availed themselves of the opportunity to use the swimming pool at a charge of $25 per family per season.

ming instruction and for training sessions for competitive swimming and water ballet teams. The pool is kept open until 8 o'clock nightly and many commuters, homeward bound, stop to cool off with a brief dip in the pool before or after dinner.

This acceptance of the 6 to 8 p.m. swimming period has been one of the most pleasing aspects of the present season, Conzelmann says.

Another innovation at the pool is the clearing of the water every hour on the hour during the daytime for a 15-minute "adults only" period. This serves two purposes, Conzelmann says. It insures the adults against being crowded out by the youngsters. And many mothers welcome the enforced rest period for their children.

The pool, heated, will remain open until the end of October, a somewhat later closing date than that observed by most outdoor pools in this area.

"We think our situation is such that we will continue to enjoy good patronage for the next two months," Conzelmann believes.

But if the pool is now the source of the greatest community pride and use, the community building looms as the "backbone" for the future.

Inside the building are one large and two smaller meeting rooms. The smaller ones are used during daytime hours for art and craft club meetings, nursery school, dance classes. Evenings may find the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching Band playing a concert on the open air stage just outside the building. Or, the Terra Linda chorus rehearsing in one of the meeting rooms.

Afternoons and evenings are sure to find teen-agers having a Coke, playing a game of ping-pong, volleyball, shuffleboard, or just enjoying the pleasure of the home-away-from-home that the community building is becoming for them.

DANCES AND meetings were anticipated functions for the building. Amateur weightlifters who have also appeared on the scene were not — but nonetheless welcomed.

Future plans, according to Jack Brandon, current board chairman, call for the development of a wide range of evening activities patterned for the entire family. A committee is at work on such a program for this fall.

Contemplated are movies, debates, lectures, performing arts . . .

EXECUTING A PRETTY DIVE into the Del Ganado Park pool is Valerie Leland. The pool is exceedingly popular with all Terra Lindans and every hour on the hour, for a 15-minute period, the youngsters have to quit the pool and leave it to the adults.

HEALTHY YOUNGSTERS of Terra Linda find Del Ganado Park's playground area an excellent place to work off excess energy. And engaged in doing just that are Linda Johnson and Michael Danielson. The play area offers its patrons a variety of devices upon which to test and build young muscles.

Terra Linda District Offers Recreation For Every Age Group

From Dawn Into Dark Activities Keep Del Ganado Park Humming

AN ACTIVE DAY at the park requires some nourishment to replenish the energy supply. Here young Scott Lacoste, 14 months old, is getting just that with some help from his mother, Mrs. Jean Lacoste. They were sunning themselves near the pool in Terra Linda's Del Ganado Park. (Independent-Journal photos by Robert Hax)

THE SWIMMING POOL at Del Ganado Park will remain open into late October, thanks to the heating system. Janis Simmons is seated at the poolside while Diane Foulkes plunges into the water.

THE CONGESTION at the bicycle rack testifies to the extreme popularity of Del Ganado facilities with Terra Linda's younger set. New arrivals here are Jackie Howe and Ann Gerber.

TERRA LINDA TEEN-AGERS have found the recreation center at Del Ganado Park to be a home-away-from-home—a fine place in which to get together with their friends. Gary Weisbarth and Cora Lucero are seen here around the firepit, for which a grill is being designed. When completed it will be ideal for barbecues for youth and other groups. A Pattern Program In Parks, Recreation

Terra Linda Activities Catch Interest Of Other Communities

Brandon assesses the district's objective.

Conzelmann and the directors are looking toward volunteer residents of the district to play a major role in developing these additional opportunities.

In addition to the swimming pool and the community building, the two-and-a-half acre Del Ganado site contains a wading pool for the smaller children, a spray pad for the toddlers, a playground, picnicking area, game area (volleyball, shuffleboard, etc.) and parking for 75 cars.

"Our only parking problem is with the bicycles," Brandon grins.

The area is completely landscaped.

Still largely awaiting development is a second park site in the district—Oleander on Oleander Drive. Also approximately two and a half acres in size, it now contains only minimal children's play equipment.

Following maximum utilization of the two and a half acre Del Ganado Park currently being developed, the district will still have available the Oleander site, approximately the same size, with which to meet continuing needs of a growing community.

WITHIN THE district are 948 homes, two Dixie School District school sites and a neighborhood shopping center—Scotty's. Dixie District trustees have cooperated by furnishing the recreation district with additional school space in which to conduct summer programs.

And the shopping center has not only helped finance the program with its tax base, but, in the pre-recreational center days, served as a gathering point for idle Terra Linda teenagers and helped point out to the residents the need for facilities for that age group.

The 948 homes are taxed at the maximum recreation district levy of 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. This brings the district revenue of approximately $22,000 a year.

The cost per home, including the $25 additional use charge for the pool, breaks down at between $65 and $75 a year per household.

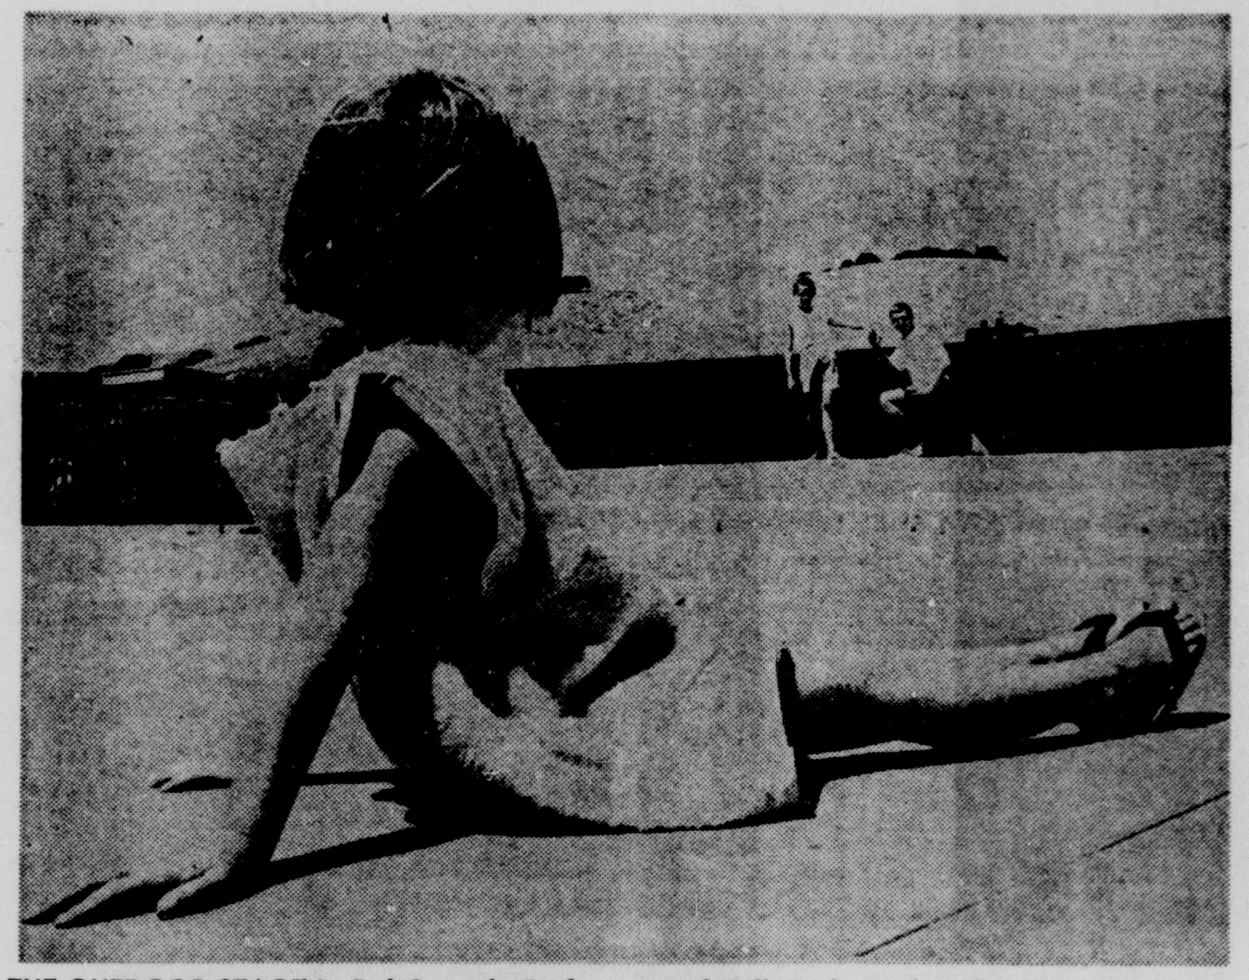
Terra Lindans are proud that their recreation center has attracted statewide interest. Gladys Snyder, state director of recreation, and Everett Gale, head of the state recreation commission, have been among the visitors who have left praising it.

Representatives of communities from great distances and from within Marin—Marinwood, Novato, etc. — have also inspected and studied the Terra Linda setup.

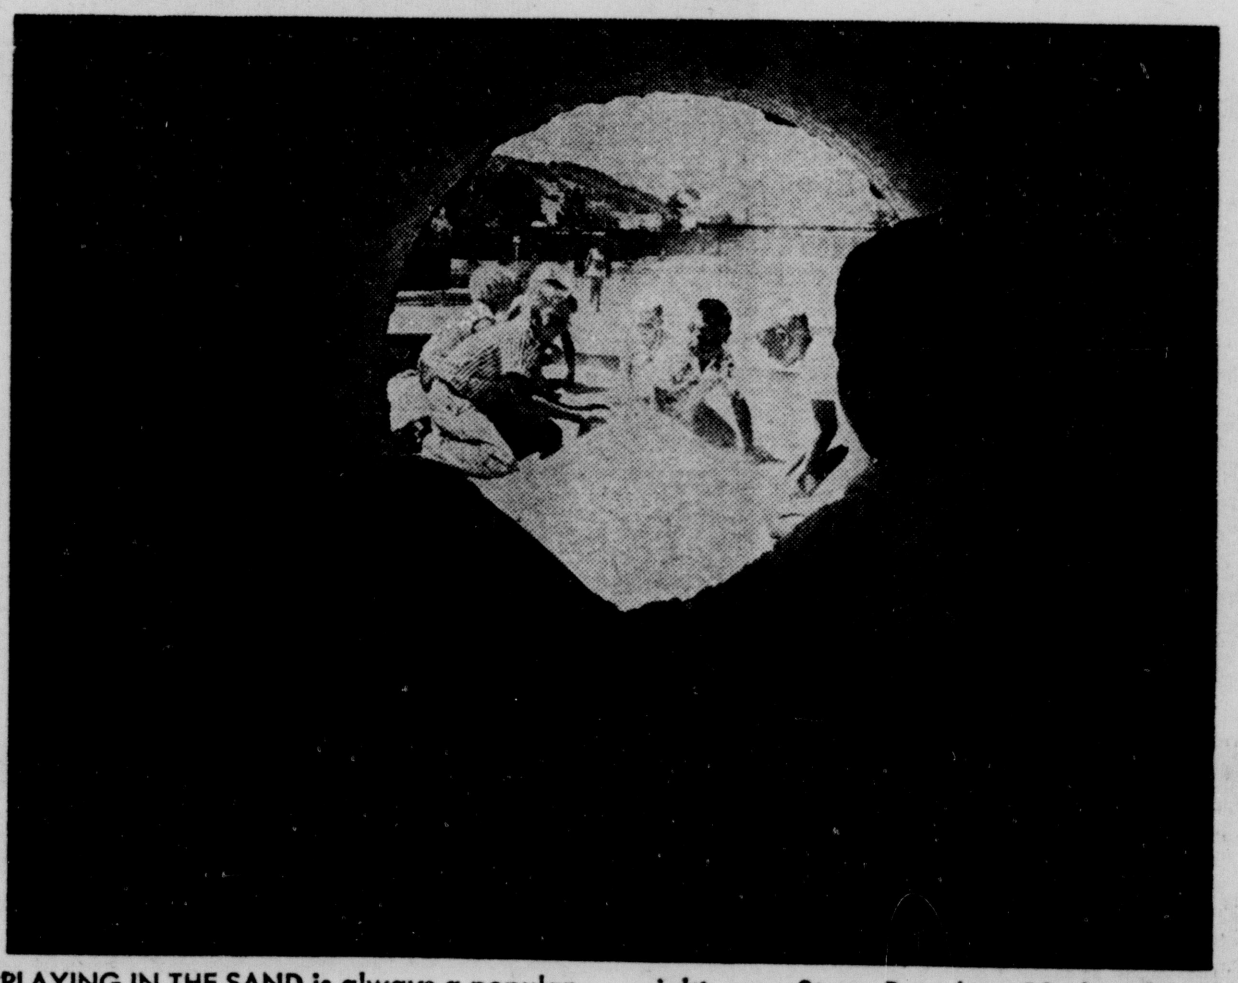
THE RESULT of these visits is certain to be the springing up around the state of other year-round community recreation facilities and programs cut to the Terra Linda pattern.

And that pattern, as summarized by Jack Brandon is this:

"A busy facility that literally works from dawn till dusk in attempting to satisfy the recreational needs of all age groups. And programs geared to be progressive in approach and aimed at attracting people of varied backgrounds and interests."



THE OUTDOOR STAGE in Del Ganado Park at Terra Linda is ideal for dramatics, band concerts and other programs. Donna Perry and Bill Rude make like thespians here. Their small audience is 4-year-old Cathy Glaze.



PLAYING IN THE SAND is always a popular pastime with youngsters in the park. But right now Steve Brandon, 10, has found himself a hideaway and prefers just to watch the construction workers.

CELLIST Gabor Retjo and pianist Adolph Baller will be presented in a program of sonatas by Bach, Brahms, Debussy and Beethoven at Angelico Hall on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael Tuesday at 8 p.m. It is part of the college's Concert Artist Series.

The 'Feel' Of The Theater Came First For Mill Valley Playwright

To learn to write plays, he first had to get, firsthand, the "feel" of the stage, Dennis Dunn decided.

And so the aspiring playwright joined the Sausalito Little Theater troupe, acting and designing for its productions.

To further his indoctrination in the theater, Dunn also taught dramatics for four or five years at San Rafael High School.

"THAT WAS invaluable training," he says today. "I found that you couldn't work with young people without learning a lot yourself."

Today, Dunn, 37, single, a Mill Valley resident, is a full-time playwright.

"My acting, designing and teaching days are over," he says. "I am concentrating upon my writing."

And already he has met with considerable success.

To date he has completed three plays, with more including an opera in the making. His full-length comedy, "The Virtues of Delight" is soon to go into production at The Playhouse in San Francisco. A second completed play is being considered for off-Broadway staging. And, closer to home, his one-acter, "A Pure and Remote View of Hills and Streams," is part of the Sausalito Little Theater's current Original Drama Workshop schedule.

It was one of six unpublished plays from among more than 100 submitted from all over the country selected for production by the Sausalito Little Theater in its annual competition on a "rehearsed reading" basis.

DUNN DESCRIBES "A Pure and Remote View of Hills and Streams" as "an ideal landscape . . . one you can quite literally escape into if you contemplate it long enough."

His inspiration, he says, "is what I have observed among people I know."

The title comes from the name of a Zen scroll that traveled with the Chinese National Art Treasures.

The play was written during a year spent in New York.

"A Pure and Remote View of Hills and Streams" will be given two presentations during the current Sausalito Little Theater run—this evening and again next Friday. Playing with it will be "The Crowded Bedroom" by R. L. Sassoon of Berkeley. Other winning one-act plays will be seen Friday and Saturday evenings through Sept. 22.

Curtain time is 8:30 p. m.

Abe Kalish, one of the Sausalito Little Theater directors charged with responsibility for bringing to life the unpublished plays, explains the purpose of the drama workshop this way:

"The workshop brings with it the excitement of discovery and experiment which is the life blood of the theater.

"EVERY GROUP that has grown to prominence in the long history of the theater has done so with new plays, written or sponsored especially for or by it, as did Shakespeare and Moliere for the theaters of their times."

As for Dunn, he says his plans for the future are quite simply to "keep on writing right up to the moment the bomb falls."

"WHY DO MY SUMMER COTTONS SMELL FISHY?"

More and more fabrics these days are treated to overcome shrinkage, to withstand spots and stains, to resist wrinkles and to hold creases. This treatment, when using carbamide resins of the urea or melamine type, give off an odor which may be described as "fishy" when subjected to body heat or moisture from perspiration. The heat of the drycleaning process, also, can bring out this odor.

The fault, however, is not that of drycleaning. It is due to improper "curing" of the resin used on the fabric or a breakdown of the components of the resin. As a general rule, when these odors develop they cannot be removed.

The only step to take when such offensive odors occur is to return the garment to the manufacturer. The fault is with the fabric and not the cleaning.

A Director Aims For 'Good Theater'

His Goal—An Emotional Experience For Audience

"If a play that I direct affords the audience a deep emotional experience, either good or bad, then I feel that I have been successful in my efforts to further what I like to call 'good theater'."

Speaking was handsome, urbane Stuart Rasmussen, director of the San Geronimo Valley Players, a group working under the auspices of the Woodacre Improvement Club.

The play now in rehearsal is "You Can't Take It With You," to be presented next Friday and Saturday nights at the Woodacre clubhouse.

Rasmussen, head librarian at the San Francisco News-Call Bulletin since 1937, is a native Californian, having been born in San Francisco just a few months after the earthquake of 1906.

Rasmussen has always loved the theater and has an excellent background as an actor, writer and director. His San Francisco high school yearbook has as the caption under his graduation picture—"the student most likely to go on the stage."

The Woodacre drama director has appeared with many theater groups, among them Theater Arts, Pine Street Players, Blake-Turner Stock Company, Oakland-Maxwell-Burke Company and the Green Street Theater Group.

While starring in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," his co-star was Harold Peary, later to become "The Great Gildersleeve."

Other plays in which he has appeared are "Charley's Aunt," "But Never Say Goodby," the role of Casca in "Julius Caesar," Leicester in "Queen To the End" and "Until I Die" in which his co-star was Barry Nelson. He has also appeared as an extra in several movies and is especially proud of his part in Erich von Stroheim's all-time film classic, "Greed."

He was in charge of research for background material for the movie "San Francisco."

When asked why he had switched from acting to directing, Stuart explained it this way: "As I grew older, I lost my enthusiasm for acting. I now prefer to interpret what I think the playwright had in mind. I expect the actor to transfer his own experiences into his role and I believe that I can help him accomplish this.

"One thing that I especially watch is the actor's movements. I believe that every movement must be vital to the action of the play and I actually prefer that an actor 'overact' slightly. As director I can always cut his portrayal down to what I want."

Rasmussen has written several one-act Christmas plays for children. He is presently writing a three-act play, "Two For the Party." The play involves the innate conflict between male and female.

Among the cast under his present direction in "You Can't Take It With You" are Bob Fuller, who has worked in the Hollywood studios, and Al Giddings, state fish and game warden.

A member of the cast describes the director this way:

"Stuart demands punctuality at rehearsals and he abhors 'show-offs.' He insists that we must be serious in our efforts to interpret our role and that we try to sublimate ourselves to the interest of the role. In other words, he wants us to forget ourselves and try to become the person that we are playing.

"Stu is no 'tyrant' — you know, the type as pictured in the movies. However, there is no question in anyone's mind as to just who is in charge."

SHIPS

Rain-soaked,
Immobile ships with clanking derricks,
case-enclosed cargoes—
steel monsters, full-bowelled
waiting to be water-spun across the seas.
Man of an alien breed—
toilers who know the deep intestinal throbbings
of ships homeward bound—
lounge about on deck . . .
the siren screams: sailing time.
They have left their places and idleness
and move barefooted, quickly now,
every man to his task.
Ropes slacken and are lifted from mooring blocks.
They drop twisted hemp with a splash into the sea.
Animated, snail-slow, the ship slides from its wooden berth.
With out-swung bow the space widens,
the gathering speed this water-wayfarer seeks the night.

THE PROMISE

The hills are morning-fresh again
Since the rain. Now ivory-clean,
Dried by sun and wind. Tear-stained
Brown moss splashed with emerald green,
And trees spread leaves as a girth
Of starched petticoats.
Not spring,
But winter now offers birth
Of promises awakening.

SAN ANSELMO — MARY RYAN

SOMETHING of the flavor of a Charles Dickens tale has been captured by Rachel Varble in her new book for teen-agers, "Three Against London," published by Doubleday and Co. Set in 17th century England, it is the exciting story of two waterfront boys, a serving maid to Samuel Pepys, and their involvement in the Great Fire of London. The colorful background is superbly done, and enhanced by linecuts, such as the one above, by C. Walter Hodges.

New Series Makes History 'Palatable'

By DON KEOWN

The American Heritage Publishing Co. which has performed so spectacularly in its American Heritage Junior Library series has now launched a new series—its Horizon Caravel Books.

The first two Caravel offerings are "Knights of the Crusades" and "Heroes of Polar Exploration."

Aimed at readers of the junior high school level, but also of interest to older readers, the new books serve notice that the publisher plans to maintain in its new series the same high standards it has attained in its highly successful American Heritage Junior Library series.

THE BOOKS are expertly and interestingly written, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.

Ralph K. Andrist is the author of the book on polar explorers and he details the exploits and hardships of such brave and determined men as Eric the Red, John Ross, Roald Amundsen, Robert Peary, Lt. Charles Wilkes, Ernest Shackleton, Robert Scott, Admiral Richard Byrd and right on down to today's scientific achievements including our nuclear submarines.

The book on the crusaders is authored by Jay Williams and tells of the efforts of medieval knights under such leaders as Richard the Lion Hearted and St. Louis to recapture the Holy Land from the Saracens—a sweep of almost 300 years.

Both books sell for $3.95, and offer much more for your money than do most children's books.

AND WHILE discussing American Heritage Publishing Co., the latest in its Junior Library series (which also sell for $3.95) is "The French and Indian Wars" by Lawrence Henry Gipson. It's the usual excellent job, but probably its companion—"The California Gold Rush" by the same Ralph K. Andrist mentioned earlier—will be of greater interest to Marin youngsters. It is a superb account of the 49ers and their era.

Two recent Heritage Junior Library books with guaranteed appeal for young boys are "Steamboats on the Mississippi" by Andrist and "Great Days of the Circus" by Freeman Hubbard. The youngster doesn't have to be a "bookworm" to fall in love with exciting presentations of this kind.

As a matter of fact any adult who has fond memories of the good old days when the circus came to town and kicked things off with a big parade down the main street, or who has thrilled to stories by Mark Twain and others about the Mississippi steamboats, will get a big boot out of these fine books.

How Marines Turned The Tide In Pacific Against Japanese

STRONG MEN ARMED by Robert Leckie, Random House, 522 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

The news from the war fronts was almost all bad during the eight months that followed the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in December, 1941.

Everywhere, Japanese forces were winning. For the United States, the story was one of withdrawal, surrender, disaster. Americans began to fear invasion. They hungered keenly for a victory.

Then into the headlines came a strange name: Guadalcanal. Virtually no one in America had ever heard it before. Few had even heard of the British Solomon Islands, of which it was one. It was a name without meaning.

It didn't long remain so. On Aug. 7, 1942, U.S. Marines landed on Guadalcanal to establish a beachhead in the first offensive action against Japan in World War II.

Other strange names followed into the news: Tulagi, Bougainville, Tarawa, New Britain, Kwajalein, Eniwetok, Saipan, Tinian, Pelelieu, Iwo Jima, Okinawa—each invaded in its turn by the Marines (sometimes in concert with the Army).

They became names to speed the heart and breath, shining names, written in blood.

To a later generation, most of these names are again strange. But for that new generation they are brought to life again, at once glorious and terrible, in Robert Leckie's "Strong Men Armed."

The book's subtitle is "The United States Marines Against Japan." That tells accurately its contents; for Leckie's book is a narrative history of the Marines' island - by - island struggles for three years from Guadalcanal to Japan's doorstep at Okinawa.

Leckie was there, as a Marine Corps combat correspondent. He has woven the personal experiences of individual Marine heroes into the history of the long island-hopping campaign. And he has done it with utmost skill.

"Strong Men Armed" is a gripping narrative. It will strongly stir the memories of those who served in World War II. For others, it will provide a picture at once exciting and terrifying of the horrors of modern warfare — even without the Atom.

If the Marines emerge a little more than lifesize from the story, that is to be expected: Leckie was a Marine.

Historians Speak

THE AMERICAN STORY edited by Earl Schenck Miers, Channel Press, 335 pages, paperback, $2.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"The American Story" is a collection of 60 essays by 60 members of the Society of American Historians, each on a particular phase of a particular time in American history "from Columbus to the Atom."

The collection was put together in 1956 by Broadcast Music Inc., and now is published as a paperback by Channel Press.

As must be expected in such a collection, the quality varies. Most of the writers are professors, and some of their pieces drone like dull classroom lectures. One is an attorney whose devotion to the short sentence gives his prose all the graces of movement of a 3-year-old playing hopscotch.

Most, however, are well written. Some are masterful —notably Claude G. Bowers' eloquent chapter on the Alien and Sedition Acts.

The history of what is now the United States comprises a vast mosaic. Many sections of it are illuminated in "The American Story." Unfortunately, this very worthwhile book is very poorly bound.

Miss Berckman does a superb job of picturing the conflicting emotions and motives of the girl. And she tells her story in a commendably straight-forward and readable manner.

THE STEREO SCENE

There's No Law Against Having Fun With Music

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

Fun with music is something that people often think inappropriate. But here are three albums that contain musical satire of high quality that should appeal to a wide range of tastes:

JULIE ANDREWS & CAROL BURNETT AT CARNEGIE HALL—Columbia Stereo OS 2240—This is the "sound track" of the recent television show acclaimed by critics. Patterned after the Ethel Merman-Mary Martin TV show of some years ago, this one contained more parody and satire, particularly in three takeoffs: one on the Moiseyev Ballet, one on the Trapp Family Singers of "The Sound of Music," and a third on western music. Miss Burnett also proves she has a talented voice.

THE HOFFNUNG ASTRONAUTICAL MUSIC FESTIVAL—1961 — Angel Stereo 35828—This is the third in a series of neo-Spike Jones classical concerts presented in London's Royal Festival Hall. As with the first two festivals, also on Angel Records, famous English conductors and composers contributed their skills to a gigantic farce. Cartoonist Gerard Hoffnung, whose hilarious drawings started the whole thing, died three years ago, but his memory lingers on in such creations as an excerpt from Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast," conducted by the composer with a flyswatter; and "Horrortorio," a new form of oratorio featuring Frankenstein and Dracula. Stereo adds much enjoyment to the humor.

TAMMY GRIMES (Columbia Stereo CS 8589) — This multi-talented actress, dancer, mimic has a voice which must be heard to be believed. An astonishing combination of hardness and yet great delicacy is found in her tones as she spoofs and plays with such standards as "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "Anything Goes," and "Rose of Washington Square." Tammy is a comedienne completely unlike others and sure to delight all those who want to have fun with music.

A Status Symbol That's Functional

Wine Cellar Feature Of This House

Celebrating an anniversary? Entertaining unexpected guests or looking for a new and fascinating hobby?

Then, a wine cellar could provide a pleasant and profitable solution.

A prototype for contemporary dwelling is a unique attraction of the "House of Spring" on Tara Hill, Tiburon.

Lynn W. Jaeger, property owner-builder, considered a wine cellar a practical sales feature for his 15-room luxury home overlooking the Golden Gate Bridge. And the sale is of cultural importance, since profits are earmarked for San Francisco's Spring Opera Company.

The House of Spring will be open to public inspection for an admission charge starting tomorrow through Sept. 30, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily with proceeds also going to the spring opera. A special invitational preview was held today.

MORE THAN 100 SQUARE FEET of honeycomb bins, open wall racks and concealed shelf storage are to be found in the wine cellar that is one of the special attractions of the "House of Spring" on Tiburon's Tara Hill. It and the rest of the 15-room luxury home will be open to the public tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on through Sept. 30. Admission proceeds will go to the San Francisco Spring Opera Company, as will the profits from the sale of the house, built by property owner Lynn W. Jaeger. The model in photo is Mrs. Wayland Bonbright III of Ross. (Independent-Journal photo)

CONSULTANTS for the fresh and functional wine cellar project were Rex Merino, interior designer, and Ernest Mittelberger, public relations director, Paul Masson Vineyards. Together with provision for efficient storage of 31 types of wine in five categories, stemware and accessories, their plan includes an illuminated shelf for a cellar book containing wine records, together with barrel-and-keg seating for wine tasting and testing.

While any cool, dry spot with an even temperature between 50 and 60 degrees can be converted for wine storage, the "House of Spring" cellar devotes more than 100 square feet to honeycomb bins, open wall racks and concealed shelf storage.

Weathered redwood bins, 16 inches deep to accommodate the tallest Rhine-Castle bottles, are arranged along one wall at a 45 degree angle to hold containers securely in place. Units are elevated above floor level to avoid bottle dampness while offering easy upkeep. Bottles are laid horizontally to keep corks moist and airtight; openings face frontward so leakage can be noticed in time to prevent damage.

Small holes that are drilled through hand-painted panels below the bins afford proper basement ventilation. (The grape cluster designs on redwood panels simulate hand-carved motifs found in century-old California wineries.)

A FULL CASE of 12 bottles fits each bin opening. Those nearest the floor are ordinarily reserved for sparkling wines requiring coolest temperature. However, this is unnecessary in the model cellar as off-white concrete block walls offer ideal insulation, guaranteeing low, even temperatures year-round. Numbered labels on each bin correspond to those in the cellar book listing classification, date of purchase, and preference of family or friends. The cellar book is also a practical guide for reordering as popular wines run low.

An opposite wall has built-in racks for prize-winning California champagnes that can be stored satisfactorily for several years. A cabinet below contains bar towels, napery, corkscrew, stemware for daily use, new corks and sterilized bottles for wine decanting.

Double doors of unfinished redwood, enhanced with wrought iron hardware, conceal auxiliary storage. Fanciful figures depicting grape-stomping maidens and the wine god, Bacchus, drawn by artist Dennis Redmond, serve as door-pulls.

Cases of popular red table wines rest on their sides on bottom shelves while white table wines, whose shelf life is limited, are easily accessible on racks above. Upper shelves are utilized for quart and economy gallon-size containers with screw tops, containing appetizer and dessert wines. At the same time, there is ample closet space for liquor supplies, bar glasses and utensils.

Sampling table is a giant 50-gallon wine barrel with table top of natural redwood. Host and guest seats are sanded nail kegs covered with brilliant silk cushions. Candlelight from a Spanish iron chandelier, together with wrought iron wall sconces, furnishes a soft, romantic glow, as well as early California charm to the setting. Candelabra, together with small ceiling pinspots, also illuminates sawed-off barrels set in one concrete block wall whose shelves hold prized cut-glass, handpainted and colored crystal goblets and decanters. Flooring throughout is mosaic vinyl.

AS A STATUS symbol, the wine cellar should vie favorably with the House of Spring's panoramic view, "wall-to-wall' windows and three-car-and-boat garage. At the same time, the model should offer home and apartment dwellers a wealth of professional ideas for wine storage and sampling.

As a convenience, for suburban householders far from beverage shops, a wine cellar can be a wise investment for impromptu hospitality, Merino points out. And as an economy, he adds, volume purchase and storage can amount to important dollar savings.

And, as a source of continuous pride and pleasure, a home wine cellar can be a perfect place to share, show-off or set aside a well-aged bottle from a proud possessor's private stock.

If Weather Confuses You, Just Think Of The Poor Rose Plants

THE HELENE SCHOEN, a deep, rich red hybrid tea, is one of 10 new varieties of roses which Oregon growers Peterson and Dering are introducing for 1963. The plant is named after the 1961 president of the American Rose Society.

California's climate is confusing to roses.

They are traditionally deciduous shrubs which curl up and go to sleep when cold weather arrives. But here in the Golden State, they often linger on in bloom until Christmas. And here where winters are really mild, they may never shed their leaves at all.

If this is confusing to the rose itself, it is a wonderful thing for the gardener. Far from picking the last roses of summer, he is now thinking of encouraging another flush of bloom. Only then will he be content to let his roses take a rest—and at that he may have to force them into it.

Fall is really a second spring in California and no one knows it better than the rosarian. Bloom is not the automatic thing it is in spring, however, for the rose bush lacks that stored energy in its roots, and it is up to the gardener to see that supplemental food is supplied.

Feeding thus becomes a number one item if the gardener wants to pick roses in October, November and even December. Feeding won't guarantee him roses for Christmas, but lack of feeding will definitely eliminate the possibility.

There is some doubt as to when roses should get their last summer meal. The California Assn. of Nurserymen suggests that it could be given as early in September as possible—no later than mid-month. Later feeding can stimulate too much growth at a time when we are trying to get our roses to slow down and take a rest.

Use either dry or liquid fertilizer in the amount recommended for feeding roses in the directions.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Lift bloomed-out gladiolus when tops turn brown. Cut the stalks off about an inch above the corms and store the latter in a cool place. They should also be dusted before storing.
- September and October are good months to put in that new lawn. Do it right! Ask your nurseryman and follow his instructions.
- Ranunculus and anemone tubers are available for planting in September. Soak them overnight before putting them in the ground.
- Bedding plants for winter bloom should be planted now. Stocks, violas, pansies, cinerarias, calendulas are five good choices.
- Many perennials—especially the Shasta daisies — need dividing this month.

Floribunda Roses Go Great As Flowering Hedge Plant

Floribunda roses, as a flowering hedge plant, are the greatest. From May to December they are always in bloom—and what bloom it is.

When you plant a rose hedge, however, you should be on good terms with your neighbor. For the rose is not a shrub to shut out unfriendly faces. If such is your desire, plant Privet, Eugenia or the like. Your row of floribundas should be a shared pleasure with the gardener next door.

When picking and choosing, you would do well to keep the growth habits in mind. Some floribundas such as Heat Wave and Texan are on the tall side. Others—Circus, Tom Tom, Ivory Fashion, to name but three—are of medium height. And a few—notably Sarabande among the more recent introductions — are quite compact.

Don't overlook the grandifloras, such as Queen Elizabeth and Pink Parfait, either. They are larger in bloom and bush than the floribundas and also showy in hedges.

When planting a rose hedge, stick with shrubs of one variety rather than mixing your colors. The charm that variety brings to the regular rose garden is lost in a hedge where the main purpose is to create uniformity. For the same reason, shrubs should be planted closer together than normally they would be.

If the idea of a rose hedge appeals to you but you can't convince your neighbor, try planting floribundas of a single variety along the sunny foundation wall of your house.

NORGE SUGGESTS
★ Clean out those dusty closets and get ready for Fall! Be smart and do your dry cleaning while shopping—the NORGE way. Plenty of time to shop during the 45 minute machine cycle and be back to hang up your garments.
★ Do your dry cleaning in comfort in an air-conditioned store. With 16 dry cleaning machines to serve you, waiting for service is seldom necessary. And we have 2 licensed dry cleaners on duty to aid and advise you.
★ Self-service dry cleaning is here to stay. Why? Simply because it reduces service costs, partially offsetting inflation, without sacrificing quality. An 8-lb. load is cleaned in Norg-Clor—top grade solvent developed by Dow Chemical Co. for use only by Norge Villages—costs you only 2.00.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Soblen Improves

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Robert A. Soblen remained dangerously ill in a drug-induced coma today, but doctors reported some signs of improvement.

A medical spokesman said even if the 61-year-old fugitive spy regained consciousness immediately, he could not be moved for at least 48 hours.

A hospital bulletin said:

"Although Dr. Soblen remains unconscious he has shown signs that his coma is becoming less.

"His cardiac condition has improved in the last 24 hours."

Sentenced To Prison

SAN JOSE (AP)—Former San Jose City Treasurer Robert D. Callison was sentenced to prison yesterday for embezzling $80,000 in parking meter funds over a period of 10 years.

He also was sentenced for falsifying his state income tax to hide the embezzlement. He had pleaded guilty to both charges.

Superior Judge William F. James rejected Callison's plea for probation, saying the law did not permit it in embezzlement of public funds. He also refused to specify that the terms be concurrent, saying this was up to the Adult Authority. Maximum penalties are 10 years and 5 years, respectively.

Light Italy Quake

GUBBIO, Italy (UPI) — A light earth tremor caused some panic but no damage or injuries in this mountain area of Italy today.

Girls Doing Well

SAN BERNARDINO (AP)—The two girls who survived a plane crash that killed their parents are much improved and sharing the same hospital room.

Julie Clark, 6, heroine of a three-day ordeal without food or water on a nearby mountaintop, is eating heartily and demanding and getting extra rations of soda pop, said attendants at St. Bernardine's Hospital.

Her sister, Laurie, 8, whose left leg was broken so badly in the crash that a piece of bone penetrated her thigh, is in serious condition but much improved, a nurse said. Her leg has been placed in traction preparatory to a second operation for a compound fracture.

School Tax Reforms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Teachers Assn. yesterday proposed an overhaul of the state's school financing program and warned that student "drop-outs" must be lessened—to take the load off homeowners.

Jack Rees, CTA associate executive secretary, suggested these and other steps to improve schools in a report to a subcommittee on school finance of the Assembly Education Committee.

Rees said a "sweeping overhaul" of school financing is needed because "the homeowning taxpayer is paying more than his share."

Rail Fare Hike?

WASHINGTON (AP) — All 23 passenger-carrying railroads in the East asked the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday for authority to increase passenger fares by 10 per cent when the federal transportation tax of that amount expires.

The expiration date, under a tax relief measure for the railroads signed by President John F. Kennedy, is Nov. 15.

FIREMEN BATTLE BLAZE — Firemen on hose-ladders and on the ground tried to check the fire that broke out in St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral in San Francisco last night. Flames shot 50 feet into the air from the 71-year-old building at O'Farrell and Van Ness. (AP Wirephoto)

Five-Alarm Fire Guts Cathedral

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A five-alarm fire flashed through 71-year-old St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cathedral Friday night, destroying the historic church which had survived the 1906 earthquake and fire.

The only reported injuries were cut hands suffered by two firemen and a priest. Archbishop Joseph McGucken estimated damage at 2.5 million dollars.

The fire broke about 10 p.m. as members of the church's Teen Club were holding a dance in a lower hall used for non-religious functions. The 40 teen-agers were moved out safely, with no panic.

Arson investigators went to work immediately checking reports several youngsters had run into and out of the cathedral shortly before the fire was noticed.

Fire Chief William Murray would not comment on whether the fire had been set deliberately, but reported:

"The police . . . picked up some young people but . . . released them. It will be some time before the full facts are established."

As he looked at the red brick walls, all that were left of the church, Archbishop McGucken declared:

"We'll build right here as quickly as we can. This is a snap judgment, but I doubt if the cathedral could be reconstructed even if the walls hold."

Murray, who had worshipped in the cathedral many times, noted that fire had engulfed the interior by the time the first firemen arrived. "It was too far ahead of us—too far ahead of us," he lamented.

Another fire department official said "We've been sitting on this one for years. A church like this, when it goes, it's gone before you can do anything."

Father John Heaney, 33, tried to penetrate the smoke-filled interior to save the Blessed Sacraments on the altar but was driven back. He cut his wrist when the fire blocked his exit and he had to smash a window to get out.

More than 250 firemen and 62 pieces of equipment responded to the five alarms turned in between 10:13 and 10:20. The church occupies almost a half block at Van Ness Avenue and O'Farrell Street in the heart of San Francisco.

Traffic was rerouted from Van Ness as a torrent of water gushed down the street, which is part of heavily traveled Highway 101.

Nikita Urged To Compromise By Poet Frost

'World's Fate Shouldn't Be In Berlin Issue'

MOSCOW (UPI)—American poet Robert Frost said today he told Premier Nikita Khrushchev Berlin was too small a matter to decide the fate of the world and that the East and West should work out some sort of horse trade on the issue.

"He didn't say anything," Frost said.

Frost, 88, dean of American letters, met with Khrushchev yesterday at the premier's vacation retreat near the Black Sea resort of Gagra. Frost returned to Moscow today.

FELT TIRED

Frost said he felt tired when he arrived in Gagra and that Khrushchev sent two doctors to examine him and then called on the poet himself.

"I sat on the edge of the bed and we had a good talk and went at it," Frost said.

Frost said he thought Khrushchev was "just the kind of hero I thought he was."

"He's our enemy, but he's a great man," Frost said. "He constantly comes back to what's natural. He just thinks the Soviet form of government is more natural than ours and he means it.

'HE'S RUFFIAN'

"He's a ruffian. He's ready for a fight. He's not afraid of us and we're not afraid of him."

Frost said the Berlin issue had been one of the things he discussed with Khrushchev.

"I did say I hate it. I hate it that a small matter like that could decide the fate of the world," Frost said.

"I told him there might be something we have that he wants and there might be something they have that we want. We could trade and settle it just like a horse trade."

FOR POLITICS

When the premier sat on a chair near his bed, Frost told him, "You don't know this but the reason I came here was politics." His visit here was arranged under the Soviet-American cultural exchange program and is scheduled to end tomorrow.

"I told Mr. Khrushchev the future of the world for the next hundred years or so lies between the United States and Russia.

"We're laid out for rivalry in sports, science, art and democracy. By courtesy, we call them both democracies." He said that by "democracy"

Guide Dog Aide Denies Harassing Blind Girl

William Johns, executive director of Guide Dogs for the Blind, San Rafael, denied yesterday that he or the organization's workers have been harassing a 33-year-old blind girl who sells pencils in downtown San Francisco.

The girl, Ruth Poittie, was arrested by San Francisco police Thursday for allegedly violating a city code making it unlawful to beg on public streets. Miss Poittie, who appeared in San Francisco Municipal Court yesterday, got a continuance of the case until next Friday, at which time she will enter a plea.

Though she said nothing in court yesterday, she told reporters in the courthouse corridor that her dog, Ginger, given to her by a friend, has been harassed by the Guide Dogs for the Blind. She said people have told her that guide dog trainers come up to her dog and make it bark.

Johns said trainers work with dogs around Union Square where Miss Poittie sells her pencils because the dogs have to get used to heavy traffic.

He said Miss Poittie's dog does not come from a recognized training school.

Johns said that "our blind" are afraid to go downtown because of the possible contact with Miss Poittie's dog. He also said they feel they would be immediately classified as beggers if seen in the vicinity where Miss Poittie is working.

Miss Poittie, however, denied that she is begging. She said she is selling pencils and if people want to make donations, that is up to them. She said she averages about $15 a day.

Johns said there are about 100 blind with his organization's dogs working in San Francisco. He said his primary interest in the case is to prevent them from being classed as mendicants.

Boat Goes Aground At Drake's Beach

A Canadian yachtsman, sailing his 30-foot boat alone from Vancouver, B.C., to San Francisco, ran it aground on Drake's Beach early today after becoming confused in the fog.

The Coast Guard at the Point Reyes Lifeboat Station said Burnet Chalners, owner of the Toloa, was looking for an anchorage shortly before 2 a.m. when he ran his vessel up on the beach.

A beach party from the Point Reyes station attached a line to the sailing boat and swam the other end of the line out to a 36-foot Coast Guard boat which pulled Chalner's vessel off the beach.

Chalners was reported ready to resume his journey to San Francisco this afternoon.

Old Tree Topples, Power Goes Out

A large bay tree in Woodacre that just got tired of standing toppled early today, knocking down a 12,000-volt power line on Park Avenue and temporarily cutting electrical service to about 15 homes.

Mrs. Joe Silva of Railroad Avenue reported to sheriff's deputies that she heard a rifle shot in the vicinity at about 4:48 a.m. Deputy Wade Powell discovered that the sound came, not from a rifle, but from the snapping electrical lines.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. maintenance men said the tree was old and nearly dead and apparently just toppled because there was no wind.

Police Set Up Watch For Masked Men

Novato police today continued intensified watch of the home of Gordon Andersen, owner of Andersen Chevrolet and apparent target of two masked men who bound and gagged an Air Force colonel and his son in a mistaken identity raid Thursday night.

Lt. Col. William James Olsen, 46, of the 28th Air Division at Hamilton Air Force Base, and his son, Billy, 8, were trussed up in their home at 1811 Novato Boulevard on their arrival home at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Their assaulters, both masked and one carrying a sawed-off shotgun and the other a crowbar, disclosed by questions they thought Olsen was Andersen—who formerly resided in the home the Olsen family now occupies.

Police said they still had no clue today to identity of the intruders.

100-MPH Crash At Lucas Valley

Robert Joseph Buckley, 41, 700 Las Colindas Road, San Rafael, took the Lucas Valley northbound off-ramp at approximately 100 miles an hour at 12:35 a.m. today, the California Highway Patrol reported.

His car skidded broadside for 120 feet and slammed into a light pole. Buckley was treated for a bruise on his left ear at Marin General Hospital and then sent to Napa State Hospital for observation.

The CHP reported that he acted irrationally and would not talk about the crash.

2 Youths On Paint-Spraying Spree Cause $3,000 Damage

Two 17-year-old Larkspur youths went on a three-hour paint-spraying spree last night, leaving damage estimated by police at $3,000 in San Rafael, Larkspur and Corte Madera.

Police of the three communities said the youths spray-painted — often with obscene words — autos, garage doors, street signs and park restrooms. They also tore radio antennas off cars and stole two fire extinguishers. Their spree lasted from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. today.

Corte Madera Police Inspector Harold Hackett said the youths, one of whom is the son of a San Francisco police lieutenant, admitted the vandalism, saying they "were bored and had nothing to do."

The youths were apprehended shortly after they had returned home at 1 a.m.

Robert Dahl of 696 Hawthorne Drive, Tiburon, stopped Hackett, who was on patrol, shortly before 1 a.m. at the Edgewater Inn off Highway 101 in Corte Madera. Dahl told the officer that a car of three friends of his from Portland, who were staying at the motel, had been painted completely black by two youths.

Dahl said the youths had followed his friends, three girls, in a car from a party held in Larkspur earlier in the evening. Dahl had followed the youths' car to the motel.

Larkspur Police Officers Charles Mattos and James Neubert, through a description of the youths' car furnished by Dahl, traced one of the youths. Police said Dahl identified the car and driver.

Both youths admitted the chain of destruction, Mattos said.

The spray-painting tour ended when one of the youths threw a 15-ounce can of black lacquer off the Bon Air Bridge.

First hitting in San Rafael, the pair sprayed cars belonging to Jan Chielowec of 1404 Fifth Avenue, parked in front of his home, and of Nickolas A. Ortner, 21 West Crescent Drive, parked at Fourth and F streets. Police said Chielowec's car would require a complete new paint job.

Next, police said, the youths appeared in Larkspur and followed the girls to the Edgewater Inn where their car was completely spray-painted. Two fire extinguishers were stolen from the inn.

The youths then parked their car at Madrona Avenue and Bridge Road in Larkspur and proceeded up and down Madrona, West Baltimore and Piedmont Road on foot, according to Larkspur police.

They sprayed paint onto restrooms at the Madrona Play-

Marinite Takes Issue On Incomes

Caroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin Development Assn., took issue today with United Press International's report that families in Stamford, Conn., have the highest average income of any families in the United States.

Snyker said the report, carried in the Independent-Journal yesterday overlooked four Marin County communities. The average income for Stamford families, based on the 1960 census, was put at $8,745 a year.

Based on the same census figures, Snyker said, Belvedere families had an average income of $15,257 a year; Ross, $10,000 plus; Corte Madera, $9,137, and Sausalito, $8,963.

The UPI report was a compilation of "major" United States cities. This was perhaps the key to the issue raised by Snyker.

8,000 Marinites To Help K.O. Polio Drive

About 8,000 Marin residents will serve as volunteers during the K.O. Polio campaign designed to immunize as many persons as possible against the disease, Marin drive coordinator Dr. Eugene P. Shatkin announced today.

Volunteer ranks include youths, senior citizens, members of the medical and business professions, service clubs and social organizations, public employees, law enforcement officials and citizens working as individuals.

The county's 19 K.O. Polio stations will be staffed by some 700 volunteers on Sept. 23, the first of three Sundays when campaign leaders hope to immunize all the 160,000 residents with Sabin drops on lumps of sugar.

Second and third doses will begin Nov. 4 and Dec. 9.

Marin parent-teacher associations, under leadership of Mrs. Bert C. Corona and Mrs. Harry Wall of San Rafael, are recruiting 1,200 volunteers—400 to serve as registrars at the stations and 800 to telephone each of the county's 46,000 residents on the Thursday and Friday preceding Sept. 23.

More than 200 nurses, recruited by Mrs. Vera Watson of Fairfax, chief of the public health section of the Marin District of the California Nurses Assn., will be on duty at the vaccine stations from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Campfire Girls, under direction of Mrs. Gail Adams of Larkspur and Mrs. Albert J. Brinckerhoff of San Rafael, will distribute information folders throughout the county. Boy and Girl Scouts, members of the American Red Cross, Marin Medical Assistants, pharmacists and members of the Marin Medical Society Auxiliary and hospital auxiliaries will work inside stations.

Local police, sheriff's deputies, firemen and highway patrolmen will keep the flow of traffic moving on streets. Officials of the Wells Fargo Bank will collect the deposits of the 25-cent donation fees.

6 Seeking Two Openings On Las Gallinas Sanitary Board

Two incumbents and four challengers seek election to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board Tuesday. Three positions on the board are to be filled.

Mrs. Annie M. Reagan and Arthur B. Carpenter, who have been on the board since formation of the district eight years ago, are running for re-election. The term of Arthur T. Knutson is due to expire, but he is not running because he recently was appointed assistant director of the county public works department and fears a conflict of interest.

Other candidates are Jack Baken, Robert N. Sundquist, Dr. W. Alan Sweeney, and Mrs. Jack N. Crowell.

Here are their biographies in a nutshell:

ANNIE M. REAGAN. Owner of her own real estate and insurance business. Mrs. Reagan lives at 876 Las Pavadas Avenue, Terra Linda. She was born in Fort Worth, Tex., studied a year in business college, and did secretarial work and bookkeeping before going into business for herself in 1951. She has lived in Marin for 16 years.

Mrs. Reagan was one of the organizers of Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, which covers most of the area from Puerto Suello Hill north to Novato.

ARTHUR B. CARPENTER. A retired contractor, Carpenter came to the Bay Area from St. Louis during World War II, working first in San Francisco. He came to Marin County in 1943. A resident of 16 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, he took an active part in that area's community organization, and through that became interested in and assisted with formation of the sanitary district.

Recently Carpenter authored a booklet, "Highlights of Your Garbage and Sanitary Sewage Facilities," for mailing to residents of the sanitary district.

JACK BAKEN. Baken is a former member of the district board, defeated two years ago after serving six years, two of which he served as president. He is seeking return to the board.

Baken is self-employed, dealing in redwood products. He has lived in Marin County more than 30 years, 16 of this in Santa Venetia at 308 North San Pedro Road. He was a fire warden for Terra Linda before the formation of a fire district for the area.

ROBERT N. SUNDQUIST. A resident of Marin County since 1958, Sundquist lives at 842 Greenberry Lane, Lucas Valley. He is an engineer and feels there should be an engineer on the sanitary board. This is Sundquist's first venture into competition for a public office, but he was active in recent bond campaigns and in a movement to put the question of incorporation for Terra Linda and Marinwood on the ballot.

DR. W. ALAN SWEENEY. A native of Canada, Doctor Sweeney is a naturalized citizen and a Marin resident since 1956, living at 705 Bamboo Terrace, Terra Linda. He is a research chemist and chemical engineer for California Research Corp., a Standard Oil subsidiary. Doctor Sweeney says his work has "by chance" taken him into sanitation and he feels he has knowledge which would be of value to the district. He says the district area is growing rapidly and he is not sure that plans for future development are keeping pace.

MRS. JACK U. CROWELL. The wife of a sanitary engineer, Mrs. Crowell also is employed in secretarial work by Corte Madera Sanitary District. But she sees no conflict of interest.

She has lived in Marinwood for six years; her home is at 218 Blackstone Drive.

Because she has worked with her husband on major jobs in the Bay Area for 18 years, Mrs. Crowell believes she has more than the average layman's knowledge of sanitation matters. Her main concern is with maintenance of the system, because it is a growing area "and there will be lots of changes."

Mrs. Crowell is from Portland, Ore., is active in community affairs, and is the mother of four children.

Calendar Sale Set For Tennis Courts

Corte Madera Lions Club decided last night to start selling calendars next week to raise more funds toward two tennis courts to be constructed in the town park.

The club has $4,000 in its tennis court fund and will deposit it with the town. Total cost was estimated at $12,000.

The town council Tuesday night informally accepted the offer but agreed with a recommendation by town Mgr. Arthur T. Brandow that a baseball diamond be laid out ahead of the tennis courts.

Muir Beach Water Worry Over Highway

Alarm was expressed by the board of the Muir Beach Community Services District Wednesday that the proposed shoreline scenic highway may wipe out the district's water storage, secretary William Hunt said today.

The board decided, Hunt said, to protest the present routing of the highway to the State Division of Highways. The route, Hunt said, "would put a freeway across the mouth of Green Gulch, would alter the water table characteristics of the area as well as cover our water site."

Directors also discussed at their meeting plans for an assessment district to provide better water service for Muir Beach residents.

Watson S. Clifford, San Carlos engineer, presented plans for improving the system, including filtering and softening the water and installation of a larger water tank uphill from the present tank as well as a larger water main along part of the system.

No cost was discussed, said Hunt. The subject will be again discussed Oct. 3.

Charged With Welfare Fraud

Joseph W. O'Brien, 79 Cole Drive, Marin City, has been charged by the district attorney with defrauding the Marin Welfare Department.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety said O'Brien failed to report his income from employment while receiving general welfare. Garety said O'Brien owes the county $223.

O'Brien pleaded innocent to the charge Thursday in Marin Municipal Court, and a preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 4.

Novato Groups To Be Asked Pool Bond Aid

All Novato civic groups will be asked to help in passing a $100,000 bond issue in the November election for a community swimming pool, it was decided Thursday night by the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission.

A meeting of club representatives will be held either Thursday or Friday night next week, depending on when Gladys Snyder, state director of recreation, can attend, the commission decided.

City Administrator J. Julien Baget was asked to invite school boards, parent-teachers' associations, and civic groups to send representatives to the meeting.

The commission also voted to ask the city council for a definite statement on the location of the pool—tentatively planned for Novato High School—and whether the council favors the bond issue.

A report on the summer recreation program was received from Marlin Olsen, director. No report was given by Michael Gragg, director of the teen-age program.

Mrs. John (Betty) Machado, former commission member, sent a letter urging the commission to take action to obtain property of Richard Connell on South Novato Boulevard adjacent to Nave Shopping Center, for a city park. The Novato Planning Commission last week approved a zone change from agricultural to commercial for this four-acre area.

Mrs. Machado said the commission had taken action at an early meeting favoring this site for a city park. Referral to the minutes showed the commission had voted in favor of the nearby Glicksberg property.

Novato Advance Sued By Sackett

Oakland publisher Sheldon Sackett filed suit in Marin Superior Court yesterday alleging the publishers of the Novato Advance owe him $35,787.

Sackett states in the suit that he paid George A. Barnwell and Frederick J. Volz, operating under the name of Marin Publishing Co., the money July 27, 1961, for purchase of the company. He says the purchase agreement was never completed and that Barnwell and Volz have refused to return his money.

WRECKING THE RECTORY

Big clamshell chews into the 40-year-old rectory at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Mission Avenue and Court Street, San Rafael, to clear the way for a new wing with 10 church classrooms and a music room. The rectory, viewed here through the arch of the church door, has been used for church classes for the past six years. Construction of the new wing is expected to begin in mid-October. 'In God We Trust' Motto On Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take a look at the dollar bill in your pocket.

"In God We Trust" probably is printed on the reverse side. But it may not be.

In 1955 Congress directed in a law that this motto be printed on all paper currency and coins of the United States.

But, mindful of the expense of retooling money-printing equipment, Congress said the motto could be introduced as new presses were acquired by the Treasury.

Since then all newly printed one dollar bills bear the motto. But none of the larger denomination bills carries it.

In another five years, as the Bureau of Engraving and Printing puts new, high-speed presses into service and cuts new dies and plates, all bills will carry the motto.

If you see a dollar bill with the motto you can be sure it was printed after Oct. 1, 1957. That's when the first plate with the inscription was put on a press at the Bureau of Engraving, according to Henry J. Holtzclaw, the bureau's director. The changeover on all one dollar bill presses was completed early this year.

Since 1957 about four billion one dollar bills bearing the saying have been printed. These bills account for most of the 1.5 billion dollar bills in circulation.

But, according to Holtzclaw, lots of the older bills will circulate for many, many years. "They get stashed away someplace or just passed around and passed around and we don't get them back," he said. The average circulation life of a one dollar bill is about 18 months.

"In God We Trust" first appeared on coins during the Civil War. Treasury Secretary Salmon P. Chase gave the order for inscription of the motto.

Since then, it has been part of the coin design on and off, according to Frederick W. Tate, assistant director of the mint. After 1908 it appeared on all new silver coins—dimes, quarters, half-dollars and silver dollars—except for some dimes. Its use on pennies and nickles was not mandatory until the 1955 act.

Minor Hit-Run Turns Into Major CHP Case

A minor hit-run accident on Tiburon Road last June 22 turned into a major case for California Highway Patrol Officer Donald Greer.

Ever since taking the report, Greer suspected there was something wrong. Indeed there was. The youth who admitted driving the hit-and-run car was not the driver.

Robert Leonard Frank, 18, of Forest Knolls, in saying he was driving the car, was trying to protect a 17-year-old friend who had no license, Greer said today.

The friend, northbound on Tiburon Road near Altena Avenue, struck the rear fender of a southbound car driven by James Francis Grant, 34, of 331 Irwin Street, San Rafael, a life insurance salesman.

Grant got the number of the car and followed it to the 17-year-old's home.

The car was parked when Grant drove up, Greer related. When he asked the boy who had been driving, the boy went into the house and got Frank, who told Grant he was the driver.

Frank was cited for hit-run driving. But Greer was suspicious, and his suspicions grew after he talked with friends of the two youths.

This week, the 17-year-old changed his story, Greer said. Both youths will be cited for filing a false report and conspiracy to conceal a hit-run accident. The 17-year-old will be cited for hit-run.

Frank is now in county jail as a California Youth Authority parole violator.

Jewelry Class Set For Adults

Making metal, stone and wood jewelry will be taught in a new evening adult education class at San Rafael High School this fall.

The class, which will run from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Wednesdays, will be taught by Farhad Moezzi, arts and crafts teacher at the school during the day. Adults may register, tuition free, during the first class Wednesday. They must pay for all materials used.

Night classes at Hamilton Air Force Base (Building 585) will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday instead of Wednesday as reported in last Saturday's issue of the Independent-Journal.

San Rafael Sewer Line Being Replaced

The San Rafael Sewer Sanitation District board today directed that a estimate be made on replacing 700 feet of sewer line in the Bellam Boulevard and Canal Street area of San Rafael.

The trunk sewer line, directors were told, has begun to fall apart after resting for 12 years in the mud.

Notary Commissions

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced today he has issued notary public commissions to Jo Ann Michetti, Box 299, and Louise M. Crain, 1010 B Street, both of San Rafael.

he meant "a more earnest desire than the world has ever had to take care of everybody.

"To bestow. To bestow what? Bread and butter, yes, but that's not the top thing. The top thing to bestow is character."

Frost said the rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union must rise above "small squabbles."

"We're rivals—rivals in magnanimity and chivalry that rises above partisanship. Magnanimity means knowing how to behave yourself when you win.

"Khrushchev didn't mention God. I did. I told him God wants us to conflict. All progress comes out of conflict."

Frost said he and Khrushchev had agreed on the "large way of looking at things, magnanimity, no blackguarding. I knew he was that way. A real sport."

Frost said Khrushchev gave him a message for President John F. Kennedy but he declined to say what it said.

"He told me to tell him he mustn't do this and that and a few things," Frost chuckled. "That's a message for Mr. Kennedy. But it was not down on the low level of partisanship."

Frost said his only disappointment was Khrushchev's apparent unwillingness to cut the Gordian knot of world problems.

"I told him he ought to be like Alexander the Great who didn't believe in fussing with Gordian knots and untying them. He believed in cutting it. I just hoped a man as mighty as Khrushchev might do something even if we didn't.

"I was like a tramp poet who visits a great monarch. 'I've got just one little request', the tramp asks the monarch. 'Will you grant it to me before I ask it?' Well, I didn't get that far."

Frost presented Khrushchev with a volume of his verses inscribed, "from a rival in friendship."

Schools Dinner Set In Sausalito

Teachers and administrators of the Sausalito School District will host a spaghetti dinner at 6 p.m. Tuesday to honor new teachers and the board of trustees.

The dinner will be at the Central School cafeteria. Following the dinner the board will meet at 8 p.m. in the district office for its regular business meeting.

Stimulus for the dinner, according to Supt. Marcus F. Davis, is to afford an opportunity for the trustees to meet and talk with new teachers as well as to renew associations with those teachers who have been in the district for some time.

Seminary Names Editorial Aide

An ordained minister has been named editorial assistant for the 1962-63 school year at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry Point, Carl M. Halvarson announced today.

Halvarson, assistant to the president, said James R. Mitchell will take the place of Charles Richardson, who resigned this summer to become a reporter on a Texas newspaper.

Mitchell will handle news releases to secular and denominational publications. He has been a reporter on a bi-weekly newspaper in Los Angeles and on the Inglewood Daily News. The minister has enrolled in the three-year bachelor divinity schedule at the seminary.

Hospital Board Takes No Action

No action was taken yesterday by the Marin County Hospital District board on a proposal to integrate two auxiliary service groups.

A committee will, however, meet with representatives of the Marin General Hospital Auxiliary and the Marin General Hospital Service League to discuss the proposal. The auxiliary is a fund-raising group, while the service league provides volunteer in-service assistance to the regular hospital staff.

The integration plan was submitted by L. L. Purkey of Larkspur, retired oil company personnel executive, who has taken an interest in hospital affairs.

Missing Novato Man Is Located

A 41-year-old Novato man, reported missing to police Wednesday, was located yesterday by his wife in the Oregon mountains.

Mrs. Constance Bradbury of 1090 Greenwood Drive, Novato, called police yesterday and notified them that her husband had been located. She gave no further details.

Police had issued an all-points bulletin for Bradbury, who had been missing since 8 a.m. Tuesday. The bulletin was cancelled yesterday.

Printer Crashes Into Guard Rail On Bridge

John Fedochak, 39, of 613 Galerita Way, Santa Venetia, a printer, went home with minor injuries after his northbound car veered across the island, crossed the southbound lanes and crashed into the west guard rail 50 feet from the north end of the Golden Gate Bridge at 12:40 a.m. today, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Fedochak probably fell asleep, the CHP said.

The widow and son of Thorpe J. DeLasaux, former Marin director of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, will be the sole recipient of his estate, according to DeLasaux's will filed yesterday for probate in Marin Superior Court.

DeLasaux, 64, died Aug. 31. Under terms of his will, he left all of his property and possessions, including Del's Liquor Stores in Mill Valley, to his wife, Agnes, and his son, Thorpe J. DeLasaux Jr.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Ida Corning Oxtoby Dies

Mrs. Ida Corning Oxtoby, 90, of 26 Kesington Court, San Anselmo, for many years closely identified with San Francisco Theological Seminary, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Oxtoby, a Marin resident for 49 years, was the widow of Rev. William Henry Oxtoby, who was a member of the seminary faculty for 25 years and its president from 1929 to 1937.

Since her husband's death in 1938, she has made her home with a son, Dr. Gurdon C. Oxtoby, present dean of the faculty of San Francisco Theological Seminary.

A native of Saginaw, Mich., Mrs. Oxtoby was the daughter of a banker and lumberman. She traveled widely, visiting Europe and the Middle East several times.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo and held an honorary life membership in the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Survivors include her son in San Anselmo; another son, Prof. John C. Oxtoby of Bryn Mawr College, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Byron E. Morris of Reno, Nevada.; eight grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Private family funeral services will be held under direction of Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

MRS. CLOUETTE

Mrs. Leonora M. Clouette, 51, of San Anselmo, a Marin resident for a quarter century, died last night in a local hospital after a short illness.

She was the wife of Henry F. Clouette of 71 Jordan Avenue, San Anselmo, a construction supervisor for Northwestern Pacific Railroad. She was born in Castroville, Tex.

Besides her husband, she leaves a sister and brother, Mrs. C. Lehmberg of San Antonio, Tex., and R. O. Tschirhart of Castroville, Tex.

Funeral services and burial will be in Castroville, directed by L. M. Tendre and Sons Funeral Home. Friends may call at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael after 7 p.m. tomorrow and until 9 p.m. Monday.

W. E. RUTHERFORD

Funeral services for William E. Rutherford, 86, former Santa Rosa mayor and police court judge and brother of two Marin residents, will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Welti Chapel of the Roses in Santa Rosa.

Rutherford died in a Sonoma hospital Thursday after brief illness. He had resided in Sonoma in recent months.

Rutherford, a pharmacist, was mayor of Santa Rosa in 1920 and police court judge for 14 years ending when police courts were abolished in California in 1953.

He was a member of Masonic bodies in Sonoma County and Aahmes Temple of the Shrine in Oakland.

He is survived by his wife, Marietta, of Sonoma; two daughters, Mrs. Marietta Nelson of Sonoma and Mrs. Ann Enzler of Napa; a son, William E. Rutherford Jr. of Napa; three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. J. C. James of San Luis Obispo, Mrs. Gladys Paul and Mrs. June Haugen of Sacramento, Hugh E. Rutherford of Novato and Sam L. Rutherford of Mill Valley, and by numerous grandchildren.

Burial will be in Santa Rosa Memorial Park.

ONE FOR THE SEE-SAW

It has taken me over 15 years to attain the position I now enjoy; and it would appear such perserverance would insure complete contentment. Contentment breeds relaxation, however, and relaxation is certain suicide in the automobile business.

On occasion, all too rarely unfortunately, one of my way-out promotion ideas strikes the gold button of buyers' acceptance, and the Sales Manager and salesmen beam their pleasure upon me as they pass my office in respectful reverence. The bartenders are happy, too, as they ring up the added commission dollars. Even the cashiers at the super markets gain some measure of increased activity, although in properly expected proportion.

The boss pauses for a brief added moment on the way to the club to nod in silent approval. To speak approval might invite discussion of salaries and bonuses, which in itself is in bad taste, so a nod will do.

The whole world is rosy when an ad clicks. It is the fulfillment of an idea which may have begun from a chance remark, a casual observation, or even a rude jolt in the midst of fitful slumber. To see your brain child appear in print and await the reaction is a sensation difficult to describe, more difficult to understand. Success of the message even brings visions of gray flannel suits and attache cases.

Then, another time, all more frequent, your brain wave never gets off the ground. The message seems just as clever as ever; the bargains are surely just as real; the art work is cute and imaginative. And, yet, nothing. A bomb. A complete bust.

The nods of approval from the Sales Manager and salesmen become shakes of pity, complete with audible clucking to give support to the condolences. The Boss threatens to hang up his clubs forever and come in to show me again how to merchandise automobiles. It is a temptation to seek the answer from an analyst specializing in misfits, or slink into a quiet corner to scan the want ads for a less puzzling position.

It is fortunate, in view of the ups and downs of calling signals for Ames Ford, that I am not susceptable to queesyness. I bruise easily, but rolling with the punches, the blows do no lasting damage. And, success is so sweet, it is worth several disappointments to gain one victory.

Will Every Soul Be Saved? Some Say God Wills It

By LOUIS CASSELS
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

May a Christian believe that all human souls will eventually be saved?

For Roman Catholics, the answer is unequivocally no. Catholic teaching holds that all who die in a state of mortal sin are condemned to suffer eternal punishment in hell. The idea that men may get a second chance for repentance after death is officially branded a heresy.

Most Protestant fundamentalists view the matter in the same light.

There are many other Protestants, however, for whom the doctrine of universal salvation has a strong appeal. Among them are a number of leading theologians.

They believe that the ultimate redemption of all human souls is the only purpose that can be ascribed to God without detracting either from His sovereignty or from His infinite love for mankind.

"It is God's will, as the New Testament puts it, that all men shall be saved," says the Rev. Dr. W. Norman Pittenger, a prominent Episcopal theologian. "And God's will is in the long run bound to accomplish that for which it sets out. There will be no 'pockets of resistance' left when God has accomplished His final victory over sin, evil and death."

Dr. Pittenger and others note that St. Paul seemed to share this view. In one of his letters to his protege Timothy, the great apostle said that God "will have all men to be saved." And he told the Corinthian Christians that "as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

Christians who regard universalism as a dangerous heresy point to other passages of the New Testament, in which Christ speaks vividly of a final judgment at which the wicked "shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life eternal."

They agree that God desires the salvation of all—so much that He has paid the price of reconciliation Himself in the sacrifice of Christ. But He does not force His grace upon the human creatures whom He has dignified with the gift of free will. He lets them choose light or darkness, and their freedom of choice includes the possibility that they will condemn themselves to eternal separation from Him by finally rejecting His love.

A related question is whether death ends man's opportunity for repentance. The traditional view is that each person is judged in the state in which he dies. But there also are devout Christians who believe, with theologian P. T. Forsyth, that death is "the crisis which opens all eyes" and that "there are more conversions on the other side than on this."

Some church leaders are concerned that popular discussion of universal salvation may give people the impression that it doesn't matter too much how they live since everyone is going to Heaven anyway.

Others say, however, that the urgency of the decisions which men make in this life is not reduced by the possibility that they may get a second chance after death. Believers in universal salvation do not rule out the prospect of judgment and punishment after death. They simply believe that the nature of God precludes His subjecting even the most wayward sinner to any punishment.

Hymns Take On Social Meanings

NEW YORK (UPI)—The hymn has become a sociological message of the church as well as a source of spiritual uplift.

Instead of simply being sentimental or expressing a scriptural thought, hymns today deal with patriotism, city or rural life, youth, education, social welfare and other timely topics.

This trend toward making the words sung in church "count," is the work of the Hymn Society of America, founded 40 years ago by a group of lay people interested in providing better hymns and music. From five members, the society has grown to 1,800 in every state and 20 foreign countries.

Many person mistakenly believe the hymn is both the words and music. This is not the case. The hymn is the words only.

The society, in an official history of its activities, has reported on 16 "quests" for new hymns "appropriate for the new days and conditions in which the Christian church finds itself." The "quests" have produced more than 100 new texts that have been incorporated into recently published hymnals.

Juvenile Hall Chaplain To Talk

Chaplain David Habecker will discuss his work at Marin County Juvenile Hall in a talk at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Faith Lutheran Church, Los Ranchitos and Del Presidio Boulevard, San Rafael.

He will tell how his work ties in with the work being done by county juvenile authorities. The Protestant chaplain is sponsored by the Marin County Council of Churches.

Seminarians Will Be Received In Homes

Tomorrow afternoon, members of the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo will welcome members of the student body of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, Dr. Paul Buchholz, assistant minister, announced today.

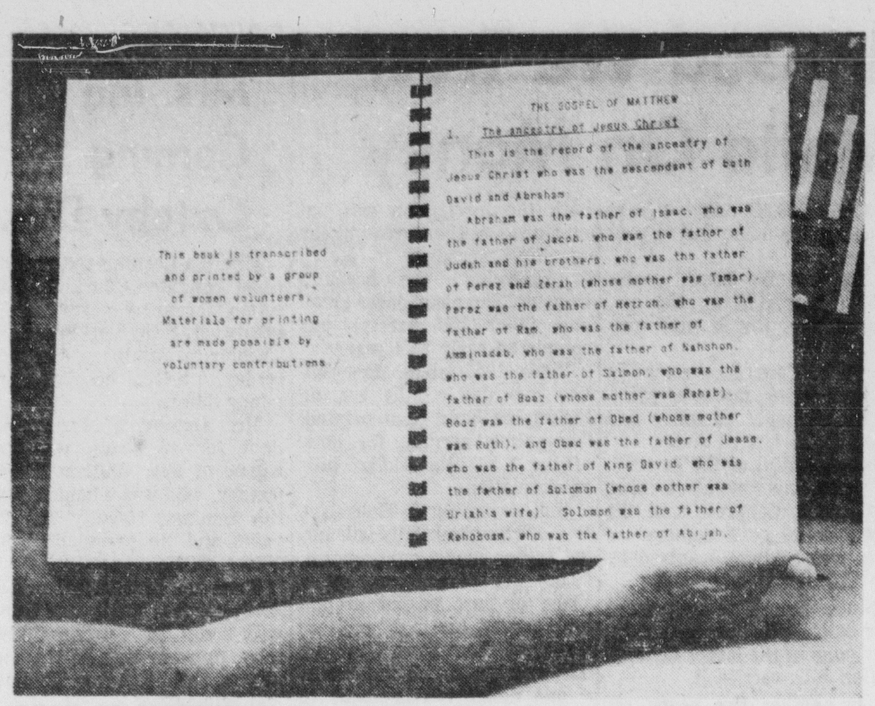
The homes of 20 church parishioners will be opened as reception centers for the students who began classes at the seminary Tuesday.

Presbyterian School

Church school begins tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo with classes at 9:30 and 11 a.m., Mrs. Mary Leigh McCutcheon, church school secretary, announced today. Students may register at Duncan Hall prior to each of the sessions.

Choir Practice Starts

The parish choir of Peace Lutheran Church, Mill Valley, will be in practice at 8:30 p.m., Sept. 13, at the parish hall.



BOOK OF MATTHEW—The Gospel according to St. Matthew, printed in large, sight-saving type, takes 173 pages. Five hundred copies of the book have been printed by volunteer members of the Trinity Lutheran Church, San Rafael. Hand (lower right) gives an idea of the scale.

Lutheran Women Print Book Of Bible, Sermons And Prayers For Near-Blind

San Rafael Home Is Workshop

A book of the Bible printed in headline-size type is the latest product and one of the proudest achievements of a group of dedicated Lutherans in San Rafael.

Five hundred copies of the Gospel according to St. Matthew are about to be offered free to the book hungry horde of near-blind. It is printed in type a quarter-inch high. Persons forced to put away their regular Bibles years ago because of poor vision, find to their vast delight that they can read again.

"We picked Matthew because it is the most complete book of the New Testament," Mrs. Ray Normington of 5 Lido Lane explained.

She and her husband have dedicated themselves for the past 10 years to helping blind and near blind find pleasure, instruction and spiritual help from braile and printed religious matter.

The demand for the material has been so great that their projects, which started as part-time diversions, have become full-time undertakings. Their recently built, waterfront home has a press room in the garage and a special publishing workshop.

As the work grew, volunteer workers, more and more of them, joined the undertaking. Now there are 20, all members of the Trinity Lutheran Church, who put in at least one afternoon a week at the Normington home.

They do brail transcriptions, print sermons and prayer books in the large, sight-saving type and now have turned out a book of the Bible. One of the big jobs is mailing the material to the many persons requesting it.

Many are on a regular mailing list, receiving at no cost, weekly sermons from the Lutheran Hour, a spiritual radio program.

"There's just no end to the demand," Mrs. Normington said.

She said the volunteer church women who dedicate their time to the many projects are not formally organized. There are no officers. But she is obviously the driving force. She is at it every day and many evenings as well.

The Normingtons got interested in helping the blind after their two children were married and moved away. They needed something to do. Through the church, Mrs. Normington learned of the need for braile writers. It was not easy to learn writing braile, but she was soon doing it and distributing her work through the Lutheran Braile Workers.

About three years ago, her mother, Mrs. Nora Rouse of Woodbridge, San Joaquin County, began being troubled with failing sight. She found she could read only large print. Mrs. Normington purchased a special typewriter with the quarter-inch (24 point) type and began typing things for her mother.

Her mother's friends saw it first, then the word spread. Before she knew it, Mrs. Normington found that the demand for the large printing was over-powering. She tried using carbon paper to keep up with the requests, but this was far from adequate. There was only one thing to do, become a printer. The Normingtons now have an offset press and a direct press in their garage shop.

The off-set press is running an average of six hours every day, Mrs. Normington said. Several evenings during the week, Normington, after returning from the city where he is personnel manager for Fibreboard Paper Products Corp., runs the direct printing press.

The offset press was used to print the 173 pages of the Book of Matthew.

Mrs. Fred Braunschweiger, wife of the pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, typed all the offset plates for the job.

This Thursday, all the volunteers in the group will gather at the Normington home. They will have lunch, and then turn to the job of collating the pages and binding the books together with spiral binders. It will complete the project.

SLOW CHORE—Hand setting type is a slow job, but Louise Braunschweiger, wife of Rev. Fred Braunschweiger, pastor of the Lutheran Trinity Church, finds it rewarding. The end product helps the near blind read again.

CHURCH WILL DEDICATE FIRST ORGAN

Faith Lutheran Church's organ, purchased through donations by members and friends and through memorial contributions, will be dedicated in 10:45 a.m. services tomorrow, Rev. Bliss W. Bellinger, pastor, announced today.

The Allen TC-1 electric organ will not be played until after it is formally dedicated. First piece played will be the processional hymn of the morning, "Ein' Fest Burg" (A Mighty Fortress Is Our God).

The church, since its founding six years ago, has used a piano to accompany services.

During the regular morning service, two other pieces will be played. The public is invited to the dedication and the service. The church is located at Los Ranchitos and Del Presidio Boulevard in North San Rafael.

Church Youth Groups Must Take Active Part In Work

By JULES LOH
Associated Press

By whatever name — Luther League, Royal Ambassadors, Westminister Fellowship—the young people's group is a fixture as firmly established in most Protestant denominations as the board of trustees.

Such organizations provide teen-agers with opportunity for wholesome entertainment, as their parents so often say, a chance to meet good Christian boys and girls. The groups also can be useful. The kids wash cars and mow lawns to help out with the church debt, or perhaps serve as baby sitters to help boost attendance at evening services.

But recently the youth organization of the United Church of Christ met and voted itself out of existence.

According to the Rev. Henry Tani of Philadelphia, the denomination's youth work secretary, the young people felt they were being shunted into a neat little compartment with little relationship to the rest of the church.

"The adults give the kids money for a juke box and a youth center and tell them to stay there, don't bother us," Tani said. "Then they wonder why the young people leave the church."

In some cases, said Tani, the youngsters felt they were even competing with the church.

Noted Opera Conductor Feted At Dinner Party In Mill Valley

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Janos Ferencsik, head of the Budapest Conservatory of Music, who will make his San Francisco debut as conductor of the opera Carmen Sept. 20 was honored at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foris of Mill Valley Wednesday night. Accompanied by his secretary, who also was a guest at the dinner, Mr. Ferencsik had flown in the day before from Frankfort. The host and his wife are from Budapest and he studied with Mr. Ferencsik. Tom plays cello in the Marin Symphony Orchestra. The guest is a close friend of Sandor Salgo, conductor of the orchestra. Other dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Tibor Fecskes, Mr. and Mrs. John Foti, Gustaf Berkeny and and Desider Zamborsky, all Hungarians.

MRS. MARGUERITE C. LAYTON, a resident of Marin for 28 years, is leaving the counuty to live in Long Beach. She has been appointed a member of the staff of Hospitality House, just opened on Ocean Boulevard in Long Beach. It is one of several houses established in the United States by the National Retired Teacher Association. The first one was at St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Layton came to San Rafael in 1934 to join the education department at Dominican College. After that she taught in San Rafael public schools. She has traveled extensively and made two European tours. She is a member of Marin Branch, American Association of University Women. Monday Mrs. Layton will be honored at a luncheon at Woodlands Restaurant.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur Edwards and daughter, Anne, of San Anselmo are flying today to Switzerland. The plane will land in Geneva and Anne will study at Le Grande Verger in Lusanne. Her parents will tour Europe for two months, spend some time in France, Spain and Portugal and board a ship in Lisbon to return to the United States. While Mr. and Mrs. Edwards are away, her mother, Mrs. William James Borland of the East Bay, will stay at their home.

THE BEAUTIFUL gardens of the Harold Hansens' home in Kentfield will again be the setnig for the annual barbecue of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, which will take place this evening. Attending will be about 60 members and their husbands.

ALASKA VISITORS who sailed on the Glacier Queen or its sister ship, Yukon Star, will have a reunion at the San Rafael home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Foster Clark who will show their kodachrome slides made on their cruise this year. The Clarks had their first cruise on the Glacier Queen last year. They enjoyed it so much they sailed again in the spring of this year, same ship, same captain. The ship cruises slowly through Tracy Arm, a glacier lined fjord and stops for picture taking and Foster got some good shots of the Mendenhall Glacier and the Sawyer and Denali glaciers.

The Glacier Queen and Yukon Star make 16 cruises each year from May through October. The ships sail from Vancouver, B.C., but most of the passengers are from California.

DR. AND MRS. HAROLD ROSENBLUM of Sausalito are hosting a Bloody Mary brunch and bridge party tomorrow at their home. Among the guests will be Marinites, Messrs. and Mesdames Mervyn Cowen, David Wertheim and Harry Monas. Others attending will be San Francisco friends.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH DEARTH of Greenbrae had quite a thrill at the World's Fair at Seattle. John Klein, who played the carillion at the opening of the Dearths' San Rafael branch of the Northwestern Savings and Loan, plays the carillion at the fair and Esther and Keith had lunch with him. From Seattle the Dearths left for Victoria and Vancover, B. C. They are going to Sun Valley, Idaho to visit relatives before returning home.

Judith Bennet Malone Bride Of Robert Woodward Jr., Of Ross

St. John's Church in Ross was the setting yesterday afternoon for the wedding of Judith Bennet Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Halsey Malone of Big Horn, Wyo., and formerly of San Anselmo, and Robert Lathan Woodward Jr., of Ross. The Rev. Harold Hallett officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Judith wore a full length white gown of mousseline de soie with lace inserts in the skirt, which ended in a chapel length train. She wore her mother's wedding veil and a coronet worn by her grandmother.

Her sister, Sara Garcin Malone, a student at Sarah Lawrence College, was maid of honor, wearing a pale blue linen dress with Irish braid trimmed skirt.

The other attendants, Mrs. Michael Hooker and Barbara Woodward, both sisters of the bridegroom, and Gillian Malone, younger sister of the bride, also wore pale blue linen dresses.

Michael Hooker of San Francisco was best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Woodward of Ross. Escorting guests to seats were Dr. Edward Washburn, Nicholas Malone, the bride's brother, and John Russell and David Donlon.

Following the wedding a reception was given at Monte Alegre, the Ross home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Vernon Skewes-Cox.

Judith attended the Katharine Branson School, Westover School in Connecticut and Briarcliff College, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y. She has been a member of The Spinsters. Her grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. E. Halsey Malone, Mrs. Vernon Skewes-Cox of Ross and the late Mr. Skewes-Cox.

The bridegroom, who with his marriage relinquished membership in The Bachelors, was graduated from Fountain Valley School and Trinity College and is employed by Blyth and Co. in San Francisco. He is the grandson of Mrs. Merrill Federick of Peoria, Ill.

Plans for the fourth California State Convention which will be held in San Francisco Oct. 26-28 will be made. The San Rafael, Mill Valley and Ross Valley groups are among the 21 Bay Area hostess chapters for the convention.

Press Woolens The Expert Way

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Those gauzy, fragile-looking woolens need special care in pressing.

A University of Illinois clothing specialist, Esther Siemen, suggested moist heat and a light hand on the iron. Use a steam iron or a press cloth and press the garment on the wrong side whenever possible.

Smooth the fabric by lifting and lowering the iron rather than running it over the fabric, applying pressure without stretching the wool.

Remember wool never should be pressed completely dry. Place the garment, still steaming, on hanger. Button all buttons and fasten all snaps and hooks.

On Long Drives

A portable head-rest eases the strain of a long motor trip. Filled with foam plastic, the new corduroy-covered headrest comes with plastic tongs that grip and fit all car seats. Available at notion counters.

San Pedro Teachers Honored At Luncheon

A get-acquainted luncheon was given Tuesday on the patio at the home of Mrs. Sol Capper, honoring the teachers of San Pedro School.

Mrs. Dallas Wagner, Parent-Teacher Association president, introduced Mrs. Lee S. Heise, principal, who introduced the 15 teachers and three student teachers.

Mrs. Richard M. Curtis was luncheon chairman.

Deputy To Visit Catholic Society

Mrs. Opal Dado, new deputy for San Rafael for the Catholic Ladies Aid Society, will make her official visit to Branch 24 in San Rafael Tuesday at St. Raphael's Hall.

Luncheon will be served at noon and officers for the year will be elected at the 1:30 p.m. meeting.

At the state convention in Santa Cruz Mrs. Dado was named deputy to San Rafael and Mrs. Helen Johnson was named deputy to Petaluma branch. Mrs. Helen M. Ring of San Rafael branch was elected to the board of grand directors.

Sanford Wins 21st As Giants Close In On Dodgers

Manager Alvin Dark's 1962 strategy for strong-armed pitcher Jack Sanford must be counted one of the key factors in the surge of the San Francisco Giants.

The 33-year-old right-hander captured his 21st victory last night and 15th in a row as the Giants edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5, moving within one-half game of the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

That put San Francisco within striking distance of the top spot today as veteran southpaw Billy Pierce (13-5) faced the Cubs and Don Cardwell (7-14).

"Alvin's idea this year was for me to throw as hard as I could for as long as I could," Sanford explained. "So far it's worked out."

Sanford's string started June 17 when he went the route to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3. More frequently he needs relief in the late innings. Such was the case last night when Stu Miller came on.

"If you get hit in the late innings, you've got to come out," Sanford says philosophically. "I don't want to go out and I think I've got good stuff, but you can't let 'em keep hitting you."

The fast ball is Sanford's stock in trade. He also throws a curve and an occasional slider.

For scowls and growls before each start, Sanford became known as the "angry man" of the Giants staff, but he really discusses his performance after a game—win or lose.

His career must be one of the strange ones in baseball. Jack toiled in the minors from 1948 until 1957 when he won 19 games for Philadelphia and became "rookie of the year" at 28.

After the next season when he went 10-13, the Phillies traded him to San Francisco for pitcher Ruben Gomez and catcher Valmy Thomas, neither of whom did their new club much good.

In his previous three seasons with the Giants he was 15-12, 12-14 and 13-9, and this spring was among the last Giants to sign because of a salary disagreement.

He assured himself a substantial 1963 pay boost when he started the Giants to this week's series victory over Los Angeles with a 7-3 triumph, one of his six complete games during the current winning streak.

Last night Miller recorded his 13th save when he took over in the eighth inning with the Giants hanging onto a 6-3 lead and two Bruins on base.

Stu began rather inauspiciously by giving up a two run single to George Altman, who had powered a home run off Sanford in the first frame with a man aboard. But then Ernie Banks hit a soft liner to first baseman Orlando Cepeda who strolled over to the bag and doubled up Altman to end the inning.

The Giants twice pulled even, with Tom Haller's 14th homer—a bases empty shot—tying the score at 3-3 in the fourth inning.

Then they rallied for two more runs in the fifth off loser Bob Buhl, who now is 10-11.

Jose Pagan, whose two-run homer had given San Francisco a 2-2 deadlock in the third frame, launched things in the fifth by singling. He reached second when center fielder Don Landrum erred on the play, then made it to third as beefy Sanford hustled out a bunt single.

Harvey Kuenn, whose clutch double beat the Dodgers in Los Angeles two nights ago, provided the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly and Willie Mays chased in another tally with his first of two doubles.

Felipe Alou's 23rd homer gave the Giants another run in the seventh and they needed all of them when the Cubs launched their two-run rally in the eighth.

Sanford began to wobble as Laundrum opened up with a single, Ken Hubbs beat out a fielder's choice and Billy Williams hit a single that sent Hubbs to third.

Dark then replaced Sanford with Miller who put out the fire, but only after Altman's single made things look worse.

Sanford, now 21-6, struck out four. He fanned three men in the seventh while pitching his way out of a jam.

Wills Steals N.L. Record

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maury Wills gets to keep second base. But Bill Mazeroski will have to leave the left field bullpen where it is.

Wills, the fleet Los Angeles shortstop, put on a one-man show last night by stealing four bases for a season total of 82, surpassing the modern National League record of 80 set by Cincinnati's Bob Bescher 51 years ago and moving to within 14 of Ty Cobb's all-time standard of 96.

But Mazeroski overshadowed Wills' heroics with a show of power, blasting a grand slam homer that propelled Pittsburgh to a 10-to-1 triumph over the front-running Dodgers and trimmed their edge to a half-game over surging San Francisco, a 6-5 winner over the Chicago Cubs.

Wills started his demonstration of speed and daring in the first inning when he singled and stole second and third. In the third inning, Wills drew a walk and stole second. In the sixth, Wills again singled and promptly proceeded to second with another stolen base.

NEW RECORD

His third inning steal was No. 81, eclipsing Bescher's record. As a symbol of his achievement, Wills was presented with the second base bag.

The Giants, who haven't been this close to the Dodgers since July 8, continued their surge as Jack Sanford posted his 21st victory—his 15th in a row—with home run support from Jose Pagan, Tom Haller and Felipe Alou.

Meanwhile, third-place Cincinnati closed the gap to 3½ games with a 6-5, 11-inning triumph over St. Louis that might prove costly. Reds' first baseman Gordy Coleman, who has hit 27 homers and driven in 84 runs, was spiked during the game and will be lost for an indefinite period.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings and Houston defeated the New York Mets 4-2.

In the American League, the first-place New York Yankees nipped Boston 5-4, second-place Minnesota whipped Detroit 6-4, the third-place Los Angeles Angels squeezed by Baltimore 5-4 in 10 innings, Cleveland beat Kansas City 2-1 and Washington belted the Chicago White Sox 7-2.

DODGER FUMBLES

The Dodgers committed five errors, and collected only four hits off Earl Francis (7-8) while losing their fourth game in the last five.

Wills, who has stolen 22 bases in his last 21 games, has 20 games in which to try for Cobb's record. He is now fourth on the all-time list behind Cobb's 96 for Detroit in 1915, the 88 pilfered by Clyde Milan of Washington in 1912 and Cobb's 83 in 1911.

Stu Miller preserved the triumph for Sanford (21-6). Bob Buhl (10-11) lost it.

The Reds sent their see-saw game with the Cards into extra innings by tying it in the ninth on singles by Jerry Lynch, John Edwards and Leo Cardenas. The Cards moved out front in the 10th, but the Reds again tied it on Frank Robinson's 34th homer. Then, in the 11th, Eddie Kasko led off for the Reds with a single and Pinson followed with the game-winning hit. The victory went to Dave Sisler (3-3) with Curt Simmons (8-9) charged with the defeat.

Ray York Top Jockey At Del Mar Track

DEL MAR (AP) — Jockey Ray York has all but assured himself of being the riding champion of Del Mar for the second time.

He bagged a double yesterday while his closest competitor, Jack Leonard, didn't have one. York now is seven up on Leonard.

George Taniguchi had the winner in Friday's feature, however, bringing in Gallant Host in a 6-furlong sprint.

Gallant Host was clocked in 1:09 3-5 and paid $5.20.

Terra Linda Comes Of Age

(Sixth in a series)
By RALPH CHATOIAN

The Terra Linda High School Trojans will start their first year in the Marin County Athletic League when the 1962 football season opens for Marin high schools.

Great things cannot be expected from the Terra Linda footballers as this will mark the first year the high school has had seniors. Terra Linda High opened in 1959 and has had no varsity football teams competing in the MCAL.

The Trojans will open their maiden year in the league with a small team which will include 135-pound backs and 140-pound linemen who will be faced with a rough job ahead of them.

The team is lacking in experience and will display quite a few juniors. Although being a small sized team, the Trojans will not be a team of speed, either in the backfield or in the line.

The two top quarterbacks on the Terra Linda squad are both only 135 pounds. Dick Schultze, starting quarterback, stands 5-7, and signal caller Bob Taylor stands 5-10. Head coach Pete Limm calls Schultze a good team leader. Schultze is a senior and Taylor a junior.

DANIELE PRAISED

Limm has praise for halfback Jerry Daniele (5-10, 165), a junior, described as a good, steady back for the Trojan gridders. Daniele will be packing the ball quite a bit this season.

Limm also praised the blocking ability of a pair of fullbacks, Ray Miller (5-10, 175), a senior, and Jack Edwards (6-0, 175), also a senior. Both fullbacks will be used quite a bit.

Top guard on the blue and gold Trojan team, as picked by Limm, is Stan Parreto (5-7, 150), a junior. Another guard who will prove a mighty mite for the Trojans is Stan Lange (5-4, 140), although perhaps the smallest lineman in the league, a real fighter.

Other backs from last year's team (which was junior varsity due to the lack of seniors in the school) are halfbacks Don Dreusike (5-10, 145) and Dave Dohn (5-7, 145), both lettermen.

JV LETTERMEN

Other junior varsity lettermen returning are tackles Mike Congdon (6-1, 185) and David Muelrath (6-1, 175), who will see plenty of action this year; center Rich Congdon (6-0, 195), and guards Chuck Izenour (5-11, 160) and Dave Roscor (5-9, 140).

Other gridders showing promise so far in practice are ends Ed Connell (6-1, 170) and Bob Cooney (6-0, 160), and tackle Al Ruoff (6-0, 180).

The Trojans will be operating from the wing T and should provide quite a bit of passing. Some of their patterns will be option pass-run plays.

Limm picks Tamalpais High (as did many other coaches) to win the conference this season. He picks Drake and Novato to fight for second place with Redwood following.

Limm, a San Francisco State graduate, will be helped this season by assistant coaches Don Lucas, Don Boucher and Brad Squires.

TERRA LINDA GRID SCHEDULE

Raiders Open League Play Tomorrow

OAKLAND (AP)—New York's Titans and the Oakland Raiders come off losing pre-season campaigns hoping to start their American Football League campaigning with a victory.

One should do it as they meet each other at Frank Youell Field here tomorrow afternoon.

Oakland won only one pre-season game and New York didn't win any. Yet both clubs are reputedly improved over 1961.

Coach Marty Feldman of the Raiders shuffled his defensive line after last week's 41-12 loss to the Denver Broncos. In one move, he put Dalva Allen, just acquired from the Houston Oilers, in a starting end position.

Coach Clyde "Bulldog" Turner indicated his team has finally jelled after a series of injuries kept the Titans from full strength during the pre-season outings.

"At the first of the season, we felt we had as good a passing team as any with three fine receivers—Art Powell, Don Maynard and Perry Richards," Turner said.

"Then the receivers were hurt and we went with a running game. Now we have both passing and running."

The kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. renewing a rivalry that saw New York win two close ones in 1961—the first by a 14-9 count and the second 22-12.

14 Recalled By Giants

The San Francisco Giants recalled 14 players from their minor league teams yesterday. Three will finish this season with the National League club, and the other 11 will report next spring.

Secretary Eddie Brannick announced the recalled for immediate service are pitchers Gaylord Perry and Dick LeMay from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and shortstop Charles "Cap" Peterson from El Paso.

Right-hander Perry and left-hander LeMay will report in time for Monday's game with Pittsburgh. Peterson will join the Giants at the end of the Texas League play off.

With Tacoma, Perry had a 10-6 record and ERA of 2.44. LeMay was 8-4 and 3.48.

The 11 recalled for 1963 are left-handed pitcher Dan Rivas (13-15); outfielder Jose Cardenal (.216)) and infielders Dick Phillips (.270) and Gil Garrido (.244) from Tacoma; pitcher Roger Sinner (1-2) after Army service, outfielder Manny Mota (.355) in 28 games from El Paso; pitcher Paul Colacecchi (8-4) from Springfield; pitcher Matt Gayeski (14-5) and catcher Dick Deitz (.292) from Eugene, Oregon of the Northwest League; pitcher Dick Holden (9-3) and infielder Harold Lanier (.314) from Fresno of the California League.

Now Pitching For The Old Timers, Sen. John McCarthy

With a State Senator and a City Councilman in the lineup, the San Anselmo Old Timers haul their gloves, spikes and flannels out of the mothballs tomorrow to challenge the champion Ongaro Plumbers in a semi-pro baseball "classic at San Anselmo's Memorial Park.

When the umpires holler "Play Ball" at 1:30 p.m. State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) and San Anselmo Councilman "Woody" Capurro will lead the Hub City's Old Timers into the fray, proceeds of which will be donated to the Sunnyhills Recreation Department.

McCarthy, former pitcher in the New York Yankee farm system, is the probable starting pitcher for the Old Timers. He and Capurro both played for San Anselmo semi-pro teams.

Other "Old Timers" scheduled to play are Inspector Nick Giampoli of the San Rafael Police Department, former football star "Pistol Pete" Arrigoni, Pete Maggi Jr., Jack Parsons, John Coleman, Jack Clahan, Don Ongaro, Lou Campredon, Ralph Boccabella, Stan Gerughty and Rico Petretti.

Dom Boccabella, long-time semi-pro manager, will manage the old timers.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Finesse Will Sometimes Gain, Lose Your Trick

A finesse will sometimes gain a trick for you, but preparing for the finesse may lose the trick right back.

If it then turns out that the finesse fails, you have had all your trouble for nothing.

The finesse gives you either nine tricks or eleven tricks. Rejecting the finesse gives you a safe ten tricks.

Decide for yourself which you'd rather have.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

How should you play this hand at four hearts? Should you or shouldn't you take a finesse in hearts?

WHAT HAPPENS?

Win the first trick with the ace of diamonds and see what happens if you vote in favor of a trump finesse.

You lead a spade to dummy's king and return the queen of hearts for a finesse.

Unfortunately the finesse loses. The defenders take their diamond trick and lead a spade to dummy's ace.

Now when you eventually knock out the ace of clubs, East can defeat the contract by cashing a spade trick.

IN DANGER

You wouldn't be in danger if only that heart finesse had worked.

The opponents wouldn't have time to force out dummy's ace of spades, and you would make eleven tricks instead of only nine.

The safer way to play the hand is to reject the heart finesse. Lead out the ace of hearts at the second trick and then give up a heart to the king.

CASH DIAMOND

The opponents can cash a diamond trick and knock out dummy's king of spades, but dummy's ace of spades is still there. You draw the last trump and start the clubs.

Nothing can stop you from discarding a spade on dummy's long club suit.

State Fair Proper Place To Put State Youth On Display

Those who attended the beginning days of the State Fair in Sacramento, had an opportunity to see one of the finest and most appropriate evening shows we have ever seen there.

It was not a "professional" show, as was the show later in the Fair's run (the Fair is still on and there's much to see up there). It was a show put on entirely by youths.

It had a youth orchestra and youth singers. There were youth dancers and entertainers, including a choir, and a display of horsemanship. There was a demonstration by a high school physical education class which left the spectators physically tired because of the tremendous effort they had seen displayed. And the crowd felt a little better about the Russians too; if our boys can do such exercises, we're not in such bad physical shape as some would have us believe.

But that isn't the point we wanted to make.

Certainly the show was good entertainment; it was well worth the 50 cent charge.

More than that, it was a showroom for one of California's finest products, its youth.

What could be more appropriate than a display of our youth's abilities at our State Fair?

We think it could be carried even farther. Why not have statewide competitions in all sorts of categories to determine which youths will appear at the evening show at the State Fair? We don't know how this year's acts were selected, but why couldn't it be on a basis of competition throughout the state?

It seems to us this would be good for both the youth and the State Fair. Certainly the State Fair could use some publicity in every city and community in the state. Eliminating competitions, with appearances at the State Fair as the top prize, would attract thousands of youths from every part of California.

It seems to us such a project is worth a try to give an opportunity to the state's youth, to give a welcome boost to the State Fair, and to give fine entertainment to the people who attend the Fair.

A BRICKBAT to Larkspur councilmen for letting three similar motions die for a lack of a second and then, over an hour later, acting on a fourth motion, also similar, offered by their city attorney.

BOUQUETS to the 25 or so apartment managers who offered Negro John Robinson an apartment after he reported having trouble in finding one.

THINK OF OTHERS

Cruising along in a bright red car, a woman driver suddenly put out her arm to signal a left turn.

The driver behind jammed on his brakes and four other cars crashed when they attempted to stop.

The lady who had craused the chain reaction changed her mind and didn't make the turn. She went on her way quite unaware that she had caused a five-car pile-up.

Little do most of us realize the inconvenience, trouble and even tragedy that we may cause others by being indecisive, thoughtless or abrupt.

Think and act with careful consideration for the rights of others and you will do much good and cause little harm.

You will likewise be following the standard set by God Himself for peace and order in running a home, conducting a business, fulfilling responsibilities or driving an automobile.

In sort, think before you act, and always act thoughfully.

"Therefore all that you wish men to do to you, even so do you also to them."
(Matthew 7:12)

Help me, O Jesus, to treat others as I wish them to treat me.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By RICHARD LYTTLE

This Column Is Designed To Put A Stop To All This Moon Talk

Stop.

This talk, this idle, irresponsible talk about rockets to the moon, landings on the moon and moon exploration has got to cease. It has gone on long enough.

I think I have been rather tolerant in not bringing it to a stop sooner. Now, however, my patience is at the frayed end.

Did you ever really stop to think about the moon? Have you looked at it lately? Perhaps those among you who are most observant have noticed that it is very bright on one side and very dark on the other. This is the moon's day and night.

Nights on the moon are two weeks long. That we know. Some of you who felt you got up too early and would like to have slept on and on, may think a night two weeks long would be just the thing. Well, listen, it is not that simple.

When the sun does not shine for two weeks, what happens? That's right. It gets cold. On the moon on that dark side it gets cold, cold, cold.

You who think we have had a cold summer in Marin County—you just do not know, and there is no way to explain it to you.

OF COURSE, on the other side of the moon, the side where the sun has been shining for two weeks, you know what happens. That's right—hot, hot, hot. Oh, so hot.

In fact, the could side of the moon is not fit for habitation and the hot side of the moon is not fit for habitation. This leaves a very thin line between the hot side and the cold side. If the rocket taking you to the moon should missed this thin line by a few miles, too bad.

Another thing about the moon that a great many silly people have tried to avoid thinking about is the gravity. There is very little of it.

What this means is that one step can go a long way. A good hefty jump that might take you up in the air three or four feet on earth, will put you up there 15 to 20 feet above the moon's surface.

Don't tell me the moon will not be full of some unpleasant surprises.

ANOTHER THING that is sort of hooked up with the gravity business is the atmosphere. There is none. Anyone expecting to stay up there longer than he can hold his breath is going to have to carry his atmosphere around with him in big tanks.

This breathing problem along with the lack of gravity and the uncomfortable, torrid and frigid areas makes the moon a poor vacation spot to say the least.

Another problem that has been given very little thought is the report that there are no people up there at all, that is no people as we know them on earth. What do you think of that phrase, eh? As we know them on earth—Ah hah!

OF COURSE, there are a great many scientists who assure us that there is no life on the moon. If they are right, then the moon at best will be a very lonely place. If they are wrong— Well, all I can say is, "Happy landings."

There, that should put a stop to it.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

If You're Interested In Social Life Why Not Get In Political Whirl?

'CHIP' DAY

If you are interested in the social life, may we respectfully suggest that you try politics. From now until Nov. 6 we can about guarantee you three or four social events per week, and even more if you don't insist on one of the top state or local candidates in attendance in person.

It's probably too late now for you to rush up to Las Robles Lodge tonight for the big district-wide banquet they are having there for GOP congressional candidate Don Clausen.

But you still have time to get your tickets for the 50th birthday party for Democratic Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk on Tuesday night at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. Hadden Roth of Mill Valley has the $50 tickets. Mort Sahl is scheduled to be there as master of ceremonies with Harry S. Truman and Willie Mays as special guests. Incidentally, Nancy Strawbridge of Belvedere, who is taking daughter, Dahpne, back to the University of Wisconsin, will pick up former President Truman at Kansas City on the return trip and fly with him to San Francisco.

The following night, the 12th, you can have Irish Coffee with Assembly candidate Robert Carrow after 8 p.m., Ray Brandt and Mrs. Charles Einstein co-hosting at Democratic HQ in San Rafael.

You probably won't get any food, but William Lawlor, the chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Education, is scheduled to talk to the Young Republicans in Bermuda Palms on Sept. 18.

If you're interested merely in a luncheon, drop by the Harold Watkin home in Kent Woodlands on Wednesday, Sept. 19. Don Rose of Los Angeles, the Democratic candidate for secretary of state, is scheduled to be the luncheon guest of Becky Watkin and friends. He's due to be around all day that day.

And don't forget the big dinner for Gov. Edmund G. Brown at the Meadow Club, Fairfax, on Sept. 21. All the big-wig Democrats will be there and so will some sensitive Republicans.

Then for your future book, but not too future at that, mark down Oct. 9. That's the day that Ronald Reagan, motion picture and TV star, is scheduled to arrive for a big Republican fund-raising affair. It's to be a dinner at the Peacock Gap golf clubhouse.

That's enough social stuff for one sitting but only a few of the total number of events.

STATE CAMPAIGN manager for Dr. Wallace W. Hall in his unsuccessful bid for the state superintendency, Richard L. Foster of Greenbrae, has announced he will support Ralph Richardson for the state post.

Dr. Hall of Belvedere won't become involved in the campaign. He is assistant state superintendent and will serve under either Richardson or Max Rafferty, whichever is elected, for at least the three years his contract has yet to run. He's not in a position to do much campaigning for either.

WE HEAR that Frederic D. Kerr of Ross is trying to make up his mind whether to try again for supervisor in 1964 when William D. Fusselman is expected to step down.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

What Is Tam District Thinking?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The Reed Union School District Board of Trustees, of which I am a member, has indeed been urging the Tamalpais High School Board of Trustees to select and purchase a high school site on the Tiburon Peninsula. I have fully supported this position because I believed the following publicly made and well-publicized assurances by the Tam board to the taxpayers of this district:

1. That the 1961 bond election would provide for the purchase of two new sites, irrespective of where the fourth school would finally be developed. That one of those sites would be on the Tiburon Peninsula.

2. That, because of this commitment to the voters and subsequent reconfirmation of it at public meetings within the last three months, there can be no question of "if" a site on the Tiburon Peninsula will be purchased.

3. That, in answer to the question "where," the Tam board, recognizing that no ideal, ready-made site exists on the peninsula, is making a sincere effort to select one which offers the best compromise.

4. That the question of "when" is being realistically evaluated in the light of the planning staff's firm statement that there must be a high school on the peninsula and that the limited number of possible sites are rising in cost and even disappearing.

If all these things are taken to be true, then it makes perfectly good sense to urge that "when" is now! However, the Aug. 29 issue of the Independent-Journal quotes Supt. Chester Carlisle of the Tam district as presenting a slightly different picture. He now tells us that the bond money was to provide for only one site. That site will be in the north at Lagunitas because it is "good, low-priced, available and in the area of greatest population expansion."

That the site is "good" and "available" is very convenient for the Tam board and the people of Lagunitas, but does it mean that we are to do without a local high school because we can't offer what the Tam board might call a "good and available" site?

That the site is low-priced, I can't judge since the Tam board has not seen fit to divulge that information to the people whose money it is spending.

Finally, even if that site is in the "area of greatest population expansion" (where are the statistics to support this astounding conclusion?), we are not talking about building a school, only purchasing land while we still have the opportunity.

Supt. Carlisle also is quoted as saying that the Tam board might not favor our hilltop site as shown on the master plan. This is no surprise. What is surprising is the lack of objectivity from which this whole ill-fated project has suffered.

Two of the sites which the Tam board has directed the planning staff to study are admittedly too expensive; two possible sites were not even included in the study on the recommendation of one architect whose opinion is not supported by others in his profession.

The question is, what is it that we are now being asked to believe? Were all these assurances made by the Tam board not really true in the first place? Have we been naive to believe them and to insist upon the urgency of purchasing a peninsula site since that was never their intention?

I suggest that it is time for some straight talking.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

An avid fisherman was dragged away from his beloved Minnesota lakes and taken on a tour of Europe by his determined wife. Back home he announced that the summer had been pretty much wasted, but that Venice at least had proved tolerable. "What attracted you most there?" he was asked. "The Lido or St. Marks?" "Neither," said the great traveler. "What tickled me most was that I could sit in my hotel room and fish right out of the window."

I like the story about an indomitable old lady of ninety-odd years who obviously was not going to recover from her latest serious illness. Members of the family told her as tactfully as possible. "You have never indicated where you'd like to be buried after you die: in the East where you were born or here where you've lived for years?"

The old lady cut them short, regarded them with a twinkle in her eyes, and said, "Surprise me!"

RAFFERTY-RICHARDSON-V

How About Teachers, Unification, Leadership

By ROBERT FAIRBANKS

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Ralph Richardson and Max Rafferty generally support higher salaries for some teachers, school district unification and leadership from the superintendent of public instruction.

The two candidates for superintendent explained their positions in answers to identical questions from United Press International.

1. Are teachers' salaries generally too high, too low, or about right?

RAFFERTY — Salaries for able, inspirational teachers are not high enough. Salaries for mediocre teachers are high enough. Salaries for poor teachers are too high.

RICHARDSON — Teachers' salaries are not "generally too high." For the beginning teacher, I believe they are, in most districts, about where they should be. The problem is to improve salaries at the middle and upper reaches of the salary brackets and lengths of service in order that teaching may be a rewarding professional career for an entire lifetime.

2. Should the state continue to encourage school district unification?

RAFFERTY—Yes, but not make it compulsory against the wishes of the local communities.

RICHARDSON — Yes, the state should urge school district unification, as is being done by the legislation requiring county committees on school district reorganization to present plans for local consideration. In this connection, I believe it is necessary to point out that the current law requires only study and, if recommended, elections.

It does not permit the establishment of unified districts against the expressed will of the majority of the electorate in the districts involved.

3. How would you effect whatever plans you have since the board of education, the regents, the state college board, the legislative and local districts have final responsibility for school policy?

RAFFERTY—Through leadership. The state superintendent serves as ex officio member of several of the above agencies. He works closely with the curriculum commission, which alone can give our children better, more understanding things to study.

His department is in charge of teacher credentialing. He should supply most of the educational research which state and local agencies use constantly in developing their programs and policies. He embodies the "educational climate" which permeates all levels of the state educational system.

He has unequalied opportunities through the press and through frequent speeches throughout the state to spell out his philosophy.

RICHARDSON—The superintendent must be a moving force for research, for new ideas; in short, leadership. This leadership he must exercise in the context of legislative debate, public discussion, professional organizations, and the state board of education. He has no absolute or ex cathedra power by which overnight he can revolutionize the educational system nor should he.

'Peace Treaty' And War?

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures writer

In a more rational time, a peace treaty would hardly seem a step towards more acute hostility.

But it is in the days of the cold war.

For several years the Russians have been threatening to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and it is this threat that is the sizzling fuse to the Berlin powder keg.

None of the World War II allies has signed a pact with the divided Germanies although 17 years have passed since the war's end. The French, British and American troops stationed in Berlin are therefore under agreements made with the Russians at the Yalta Conference during the war.

Should Russia unilaterally sign a treaty with East Germany, it would mean the Western powers could stay in Berlin, or have access to it, only at the whim of the East Germans.

This the West is not prepared to tolerate. It claims its rights can't be infringed by a treaty it had no part in between Russia and East Germany, a nation it doesn't even recognize officially.

But Russia may move towards a treaty anyway. The Communists feel it would strengthen the weak Red regime of Walter Ulbricht in East Germany, giving it a certain added prestige among its subjects as well as diminishing, outwardly at least, the specter of Russian control. And it would put pressure on the West.

That's where the problem lies. How much more pressure can Khrushchev put on the West before the pot blows up?

The Western powers have steadfastly maintained their right to access to West Berlin and their right to station troops there. The 1948 airlift during the Russian blockade of Berlin echoed this determination. So did the convoys of troops the United States sent to West Berlin after the Berlin wall went up a year ago (see map). The troops were sent and arrived without incident despite warnings from the East Germans.

Military movements of Allied troops to Berlin are under Russian jurisdiction. But if a treaty were signed, these movements would be controlled by East Germany.

What would happen, then, if after a treaty were signed, the East Germans closed the West's links with Berlin? Presumably, the Western powers would use force if necessary to protect their rights. To give in would be a disastrous setback and would imperil the alliance with West Germany, long a major goal of Soviet policy.

On the other hand, Russia could hardly stand aside and see her East German satellite pushed around by the West.

Thus, as the years pass and the Russians slowly chip away at the Western powers in Berlin, there is increasingly little room for diplomatic maneuver.

The erection of the wall in August, 1961, made Western rights of access to East Berlin all but a formality. The withdrawal of the Russian army commander from East Berlin and his replacement by an East German put another squeeze on the West.

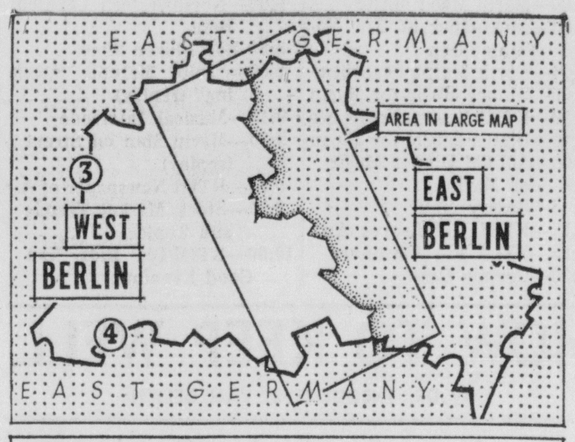
Whether Khrushchev intends to push the Western powers in Berlin into such a tight corner that they can do naught but fight back, is problematical.

But circumstance sometimes has ways of dealing its own hands, and not always choice cards.

The uproar after Communist guards shot a fleeing East German youth and left him to die by the wall near the U. S. Checkpoint Charley (see map) was spontaneous. West Germans skimmed stones and hooted at American and Russian soldiers alike.

They particularly vented their feelings against the Russian guard that regularly patrols the Soviet War Memorial in West Berlin, injuring several of them with rocks.

Rocks don't start wars. But incidents can. And along the highly charged length of the Berlin wall, who can say when there will finally be one incident too many?



1. Work begins on wall Aug 13, 1961
2. U S and Russian tanks face each other over wall Oct 26, 1961
3. Highjacked train flees to West Dec 5, 1961
4. East Germany demands U S stop autobahn troop movements Dec 16, 1961

U.S. NEUTRALITY DATES TO 1793

Laws Recently Back In News When Young Raiders Hit Cuba

By DONALD MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In April, 1793, a Yankee schooner scudded into New York harbor, bringing the first news of a new war in Europe.

The fact that a series of ocean gales had cut off the United States from all news of the Continent for three months—including France's declaration of war on Great Britain and Spain—could help to explain the policy the United States subsequently adopted.

President George Washington issued his famous proclamation of neutrality. He said it was the "disposition" of this country to "pursue a conduct friendly and impartial toward the belligerent powers." He warned Americans against "aiding or abetting hostilities."

Congress followed by passing a series of "neutrality laws" making it a crime to aid belligerent states or to mount military expeditions from U. S. shores against a friendly state.

The laws came into the news on Aug. 24 when two boatloads of young Cuban exiles, based in Miami, slipped into Havana harbor, shot up a hotel housing Russian technicians.

The incident posed a moral dilemma for U. S. officials. On one hand, if the gunboats had left on their mission from Florida, or even if the expedition was organized there, it probably was a violation of U. S. law.

On the other hand the raiders, mainly youths, were on the "right" side, and everyone had to admit they put on quite a show.

The key provision of the series of U. S. "neutrality laws" is contained in Section 960. It says:

"Whoever, within the United States, knowingly begins or sets on foot, or provides or prepares a means for, or furnishes the money for or takes part in, any military or naval expedition or enterprise to be carried on from thence against the territory or dominion of any foreign prince or state, or any colony, district, or people with whom the United States is at peace, shall be fined not more than $3,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

The law was not invoked when Cuban exiles made their ill-fated invasion attempt at the Bay of Pigs in 1961.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy ruled they had not departed on an invasion but had gone as individuals to "join an insurgent group," which courts have said is not against the law.

The most recent Justice Department prosecution under the "military expedition" was at the time of the Bay of Pigs incident. Rolando Masferri Rojas was indicted in Miami on charges of having participated in an earlier expedition.

He was a supporter of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista, and it was later charged that the reason the prosecution was started was to show this country was not backing Cuban exiles who supported Batista. The indictment later was dismissed.

Then there is the diplomatic problem of American citizens who go off to join in another country's battles.

When United Nations forces rounded up mercenaries fighting for Katanga President Moise Tshombe in The Congo recently they found that one of Tshombe's pilots was Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, a soldier of fortune from Harlem, N. Y.

Another case, Alan L. Pope, 33, was shot down in 1958 while flying a B26 bomber for Indonesian rebels. He was sentenced to death by an Indonesian court, but the State Department, after years of efforts, recently won his release.

If it can catch them at the right time, the U. S. government can sometimes ground soldiers of fortune by withholding their passports. The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that passports may not be withheld on grounds of political beliefs or activities.

However, the court has given the State Department power to invalidate passports for traveling in certain parts of the world, including Red China and a few other Communist countries.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE—Allen Lawrence Pope recently was released by the Indonesian government after he had been sentenced to death for flying for the rebels. He is pictured here during a hunting trip in India prior to going to Indonesia.

EVEN SEWERS HAVE BARS

Divided City Is Like Two Worlds

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP)—The two Berlins, East and West, are hewn from one city but they are virtually separate countries so far as utilities are concerned.

Sewerage is an exception. Ninety per cent of West Berlin's sewage flows toward East Berlin despite the wall dividing the city.

West Berlin has 2.2 million people, East Berlin 1.2 million.

When the wall came, Aug. 13, 1961, West Berlin's bus and streetcar systems were independent.

The elevated trains, operated by the East German railways and ringing the entire city, stopped running between East and West, except for one line ending in East Berlin's Friedrichstrasse station.

The elevated in West Berlin, boycotted by many West Berliners, runs on power from the East. The station platforms are illuminated by West Berlin power.

The wall also severed subway links between East and West Berlin. The subway used to be a common route for East Germans escaping to the West.

Two West Berlin subway lines still traverse East Berlin, but only one makes a stop—at Friedrichstrasse. Persons authorized to enter East Berlin may leave the train there.

When the train crosses the border the lights go off for a fraction of a second, then go on again, somewhat dimmed. That's when the train switches from west to east current, officials explain.

Each half on the city has its own water and gas supply.

You cannot telephone a friend in the East from West Berlin. Nor can East Berliners call friends in West Berlin.

The division didn't start with the wall. It dates back to the blockade 1948-49. Since then the Western part of Berlin has striven to make itself independent of the East.

A small part of West Berlin's power consumption is supplied from the East and is paid for under a general trade agreement. A small fraction of the gas consumed by West Berliners comes from the East, to illuminate some border streets.

Not a drop of the 100 million gallons of water West Berlin uses daily is supplied by the East nor do West Berliners sell their water to the Red-ruled part of the city.

In 1952, the East Berlin postal authorities overnight cut telephone communications with West Berlin.

West Berlin telephone officials say they have only one service line into East Berlin—not for public use.

The three Western Allies have a line to the Soviet Embassy, and the Soviets have line to the Berlin Air Safety Center and the Spandau war crimes prison in the West.

Mail is restricted to a few deliveries by truck and rail each day.

Trucks may cross only at the Heinrich Heine checkpoint for West Germans, on the border between the American sector and East Berlin.

An intricate network of sewer pipes criss-crosses the city. Many people made their escape through the sewers soon after the wall came.

Now, all sewer pipes between the halves of Berlin are blocked by steel bars.

Soblen Not Deserving Of Sympathy

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The picket signs read: "Don't kick a dying man" and "Brooke for Siberia."

It happened in London while Dr. Robert A. Soblen, wanted in the United States to serve a life term for spying for the Russians, was in a self-induced coma.

Brooke was the British home secretary who denied Soblen's last appeal against deportation to the country he betrayed.

The Soblen scene might have been a pathetic one, truly deserving of sympathy, were it not for the circumstances.

He collapsed from an overdose of barbiturates only a short time before he was to be put aboard a U. S.-bound plane Thursday morning.

Khrushchev once said he would bury the United States. Later he qualified this boast to define it as a figurative, rather than literal, burial.

Literally or figuratively, Khrushchev needs gravediggers. He had one in Dr. Robert A. Soblen.

Khrushchev Mild On U-2 Flight

Khrushchev is a difficult fellow to understand, anyway. A tirade was expected this week when the Soviets charged a U-2 had violated Soviet air space over Sakhalin Island north of Japan.

The United States admitted it was quite possible the high-flying reconnaissance plane had been blown off its course by strong winds but any intrusion was unintentional.

Soviet newspapers rejected this explanation and called the U-2 incident another act of aggression.

It was, therefore, expected that Khrushchev would take advantage of this event to blast the United States.

Instead, he invited U. S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, the highest-ranking American now in Russia, to pay him a visit at his vacation retreat on the Black Sea.

Udall would not tell newsmen what Khrushchev said about the U-2 over Sakhalin. He said he would make his report in Washington Monday.

Space — The U. S.-launched Mariner II was maneuvered into position to approach within 9,000 miles of Venus in December. And U. S. space chief James E. Webb told Congress Russia had failed in five attempts to send similar probes to Venus and Mars.

Algeria—Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella won another power struggle, this time with dissident military district leaders who opposed the newly established political bureau's plan to deemphasize the army.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Too Many People Are Overly Concerned About Cholesterol

Van Dellen

Many persons are cholesterol cripples because they associate high levels with heart attacks. They are frustrated because the level varies every time a blood test is done and they feel no different whether the reading is high or low.

A cholesterol level above 260 mg per cent is said to contribute to hardening of the arteries and to increase the chance of developing coronary thrombosis. On the other hand, many people have lived to a ripe old age with levels higher than this. I suspect that worrying about these fatty molecules and the anxieties resulting from trying to lower the level do more harm than the cholesterol.

INCREASING AGE is associated with increasing cholesterol levels. The amount in the blood varies considerably with changes in weight, diet, stress, and exercise. Furthermore, there are wide, unexplained fluctuations in levels when people are tested periodically even though they are not on a diet and do not receive medicine.

In addition, the test is difficult to do and readings vary in different laboratories. If you don't believe this, ask the technician to draw twice as much blood as is needed the next time the test is made. Let her keep one sample and you take the other to another laboratory or hospital. Compare the results.

THESE POINTS are mentioned because too many people are overly concerned about this problem. Gluttonous eating and overweight can be corrected and the individual can eat sparingly of animal fats, exercise daily, and avoid excesses.

The use of drugs, vitamins, hormones, or what have you will help lower the level, provided the physician thinks it is necessary. It is well to remember that it is a thankless job, however, because the level goes up when these medications are stopped. Above all, do not take anything that might do more harm than the cholesterol. Not all the questions about this fatty substance have been answered.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DROPSY

C. H. writes: Why is it dangerous for the body to hold too much water in the tissues?

REPLY

The serious aspect of dropsy is the cause—heart, kidney, or liver disease. The waterlogged tissues are uncomfortable and the congestion in the lungs may lead to cough and shortness of breath. The indigestion that develops in a person with dropsy may stem from congestion in the abdomen.

ARMPIT ITCHING

B. N. writes: What is the reason I have itching and burning in the armpits all the time?

You may be allergic to an underarm deodorant or antiperspirant, or an infection may exist that is irritated by perspiration.

POOR DIGESTION

A. B. writes: Do older persons tend to have more flatulence than younger ones?

REPLY

Yes, possibly because of changes in the enzymes and other digestants, fewer teeth, preference for softer and starchier foods, and less physical activity.

LUNG REMOVAL

R.L.Y. writes: Has any progress been made in reducing the death rate from cancer of the lung via surgery?

REPLY

Not recently. The surgical technic is improving constantly but the campaign against smoking is getting nowhere.

CORTISONE DOSAGE

M.L. writes: How many shots of cortisone can a person safely take?

REPLY

How many milligrams in each shot?

Cancer Crusade Quota Reached

The $31,345 crusade quota of the Marin Branch of the American Cancer Society has been reached, campaign manager John Schmitz announced today.

Schmitz said the successful effort was made possible by the workers in the house-to-house campaign as well as persons who contributed directly to the crusade.

He added, "The success of the campaign would have been impossible without the cooperation of the president, Dr. John Manwaring, the many captains and workers in the field and the dedicated effort of Mrs. Clarence Lesko, assistant to the campaign chairman."

Chamber Against Senate Changes

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board Thursday adopted a resolution against reapportionment of state senate districts which will appear as Proposition 23 on the Nov. 6 ballot.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) requested the chamber's action against the proposition in a letter.

A scheduled talk by Supervisor William D. Fusselman on county road projects was put off to next Thursday's meeting because Fusselman was unable to attend yesterday's luncheon because of a meeting of the board of supervisors.

Mill Valley Jr. High Discussion On Tap

Various possible sites for a junior high school will be discussed by Mill Valley School District trustees at their meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the district office.

Sites, to be presented by San Rafael architect Eugene E. Crawford, are adjacent to the Tamalpais Valley School. The new school would be the second junior high in the district, the other being Edna Maguire School in the Alto area.

Pleads Innocent In Molest Case

John M. Kyle, 55, of 4 Eucalyptus Road, Belvedere, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of molesting a 9-year-old boy.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson set Oct. 16 for Kyle's jury trial. Kyle is free on $1,050 bail.

There's a BIG Difference

Between Just ANY Apartment

And the All-new

220 CANAL

Waterfront Apartment Homes

THESE Were Created Expressly for the Desires of the Discriminating

Refinements include:

Lots of living room, your own private docking facilities, full insulation and soundproofing. Floor to ceiling drapes for magnificent marine and Marin view windows. Ample storage room with two garages if you need them. All wool wall to wall carpets, all electric kitchens, separate dining rooms, dressing rooms and, of course, walk-in closets and built-in bar. A pleasant feature—INDIVIDUAL GARDENS—for those who'd like to "ply the green thumb." The lovely pool is designed for your relaxation and fun.

Nothing has been spared to make these luxury apartment homes everything you'd expect for truly gracious carefree living.

What to look for in a used car

We sell new Volkswagens, mainly, but our customers have put us in a thriving used car business with their trade-ins. And we like our used car customers to go out of here as satisfied as our new Volkswagen owners.

The check list below is for your convenience. A car that rates 100% we'd call "factory clean." Of course you can't ask for perfection in a vintage economy model. But you can make sure you know what you're getting for whatever you're paying

Besides price, year, color, style, make and model, you can look into a few less obvious points to assure yourself of the car's worth with this check list.

We'd rather have you satisfied—than just sold.

On the lot, look for:
- ☐ Tires with evenly worn tread.
- ☐ Tight windows and doors.
- ☐ Lights and accessories that work.
- ☐ Clean, undamaged upholstery and flooring.
- ☐ Spare tire, jack, tire iron.
- ☐ Good radiator hose, fan belt, distributor, cables, wipers.
- ☐ Tight hubcaps.
- ☐ Locks that work.

Check these points in road test:
- ☐ Good springs and shock absorbers.
- ☐ Comfortable steering that doesn't pull to either side.
- ☐ Firm brakes that don't pull to either side.
- ☐ Effective emergency brakes.
- ☐ Speedometer and other gauges that work.
- ☐ Smoke-free exhaust.

Look out for:
- ☐ Rust around fenders and seams.
- ☐ Loose tail pipe or muffler.
- ☐ Loose bumpers
- ☐ Water spots inside—possibly from leaks.
- ☐ Frame out of line.
- ☐ Corroded battery housing.
- ☐ Loose chrome strips.

And look out for these:
- ☐ Jerky transmission.
- ☐ Slipping clutch.
- ☐ Air leaks — around doors, windows, vents.
- ☐ Rattles.
- ☐ Overheating.
- ☐ Wobbly front wheels.
- ☐ Tendency to stall.
- ☐ Brake pedal that goes down too far.

NEW STATE OFFICE BUILDING

The State Retirement Fund Building looms above the tree tops and other buildings in this aerial view of downtown Sacramento. It is the largest state office building and is the fourth largest office building of any kind west of Chicago. Only the Kaiser Center is larger in California. The 16-story structure is scheduled for completion in 1964 at a cost of 14.8 million dollars. In the background is the State Capitol. (AP Wirephoto)

Some Top Officers Concerned Over 'Yo-Yo' Effect Of Reserve Callups

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some top officers voiced concern today that the "yo-yo" effect of recurring moves to call up military reservists would make it difficult to recruit volunteers for the National Guard and reserve.

By yo-yo effect they meant the call up of reservists to meet a crisis such as in Berlin, the release of these reservists when the crisis abates and then moves to muster more reservists when new crises loom.

These officers stressed they were not suggesting that military reservists are inclined to shirk duty.

But they indicated they thought periodic moves signaling possible calls to active service keep reservists on tenterhooks and create a morale problem.

If this sort of pattern continues, these officers said, the reserve and National Guard may find themselves hard put to attract volunteer recruits and may have to rely on men with reserve obligations to fill their ranks.

This would make it all the harder for the Army to maintain its reserve forces at 700,000 men as Congress has ordered it should try to do this year.

Pentagon officials told Congress some months ago that they would have to undertake a heavy recruiting drive to come close to the 700,000 figure. They claimed that 642,000 was about the best they could hope to do.

Military officers foresaw another possible complication if recurring reserve alerts and callups become a general practice. They said employers might avoid hiring young men who were reservists subject to active duty and thus to prolonged absence from their jobs.

President John F. Kennedy's request yesterday for stand-by authority to mobilize up to 150,000 reservists, if necessary in the months ahead, came only a few weeks after about 147,000 Army, Navy and Air Force reservists and National Guardsmen, called up after last summer's Berlin crisis, had returned to civilian life following about 10 months of duty.

The 147,000 would be immune to any new call-up. If new men are summoned to the colors, they will be drawn from about 850,000 other ready reservists of all the services.

Senior military officials said they believed it would be necessary to mobilize only a relatively few reservists or National Guardsmen in the event of another emergency of the magnitude of last year's step-up in tension over Berlin.

This is because the Army has been built from 11 to 16 combat-ready divisions, and the armed forces in general are about 176,000 larger than in the summer of 1961, when the Russians appeared on the verge of moving against Berlin.

Any reservists who might be summoned, it was indicated, would probably be in small support-type units to round out regular Army combat elements—artillery batteries, signal companies, mobile hospitals, quartermaster units and the like.

The White House announcement caught many high officials and officers at the Pentagon by surprise.

Later, after they had been filled in on the administration's intentions, they said no special mobilization plans had been ordered for the immediate future, although there always are contingency plans in the files of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the armed services.

Speedy Approval Of JFK Callup Power Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders predict speedy approval of President John F. Kennedy's request for stand-by power to call 150,000 military reservists to active duty if necessary to deal with a new East-West crisis.

Primary concern in high official quarters here centers on the possibility of new Soviet moves in Berlin. But officials recognize that Kennedy's request may also be regarded in Moscow and Havana as a go-slow warning for the military build-up in Cuba.

The president sent his request to Congress Friday without any prior public hints of such action, although the White House said the plan was discussed with Republican and Democratic congressional leaders when they met with the president Tuesday for a fill-in on Cuba.

This tie-in with Cuba quickly created speculation that Kennedy and his top advisers may be more worried than they have appeared to be about the recent substantial deliveries of Soviet arms to the Castro regime.

Well informed officials said this was not the case, although they said Kennedy would like to have the stand-by power in the event of unexpected developments in the Cuban situation.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

James B. O'Conner, 34, of Daly City, accused of the burglary last Sunday of the Coleman School in San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for next Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

Winfred B. Shippy, 47, of Washington, also charged with the burglary, asked his plea be continued until Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. The men are accused of taking a television set, phonographs and typewriters from the school.

Psychology Course

An introductory course in psychology is starting at the Tamalpais Adult Evening School, taught by Dr. William E. Lalin. The class will be held on Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 at Tamalpais High, Mill Valley.

Equipment Stolen From Kent School

A stenographic transcription machine and microphone valued at $350, were reported missing Thursday from the Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield.

Principal Daniel C. Woodard told Marin sheriff's deputies the equipment may have been taken from the office of Jack D. Williams, guidance counsellor, during the past three weeks. There was no evidence of forced entry, and Woodard said a key to a filing cabinet in the office was also missing.

Tour Called 'Inspiring' By Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has termed his 17-thousand-mile goodwill tour of the Middle East and the Mediterranean area an "inspiring and sobering experience."

In an arrival statement yesterday, at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., the vice president said the thing that impressed him most on his 17-day tour was "the esteem, the trust, the high regard the people of all walks of life hold for the United States."

ON HAND

On hand to greet the vice president, his wife and 18-year-old daughter, were Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy and other government officials.

John and his party flew here from Rome following a visit with Pope John XXIII. He described his meeting with the Pope as a "very optimistic conference on world problems."

Johnson spent 41 minutes with the pope.

HUMANKIND

It was "one of the most inspiring discussions in matters affecting humankind in my 54 years of experience," Johnson told newsmen in Rome.

Johnson said his tour had taken him to nations that "lie under the very shadow of communism." But said he was heartened to see that these people are "resolute in their determination to remain free."

The vice president's trip took him to Lebanon, Turkey, Iran, Greece, Cyprus and Italy.

City Employee Can Live In Marin

The thought of not being able to live in Marin is enough to make people cry.

John E. Homrig proved this when he appeared before the San Francisco City Retirement Board this week. With tears in his eyes, Homrig pleaded permission to move out of San Francisco and still be allowed to keep his job as a city parks gardener. Only the balmy climes of Marin, he said, would improve his wife's health.

Board members inspected bills which Homrig said amounted to thousands of dollars for treatments for his wife and agreed to break their rule that city employees must live in San Francisco. Homrig plans to move to Corte Madera.

4 Craft Classes Due Adult School

Four craft classes start next week at the Tamalpais Adult Evening School.

Evening school classes are held at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley, Drake High in San Anselmo and Manzanita School in Marin City.

Craft classes at Tamalpais are ceramics, 7 to 10 p.m., Mrs. Gwynne Peticolas, instructor, with a fee of $5; woodshop, Mondays, 7:30 to 9:30, Gerald F. Warren, $6; and arts, crafts and jewelry, Wednesdays, 7:30 to 9:30, Charles Ferrario, $4 fee.

A class in woodworking is set for Tuesdays, 7:30 to 9:30 at Drake with a $6 fee.

Clausen Lashes Out At Miller

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Don Clausen, Del Norte supervisor and Republican candidate for Congress, called today for a "bipartisan committee to investigate Clem Miller's connection with the Liberal Papers."

In a speech prepared for presentation at tonight's banquet winding up an afternoon-long campaign planning session at which 150 persons were expected, Clausen identified Miller as "one of the original congressional supporters" of the Liberal Project which produced "the masterpiece of appeasement known as the Liberal Papers."

Clausen noted Miller had repudiated the Liberal Papers in the Congressional Record last March.

"Why didn't he repudiate his association two years ago when (Rep. Robert W.) Kastenmeier (D-Wis.) released the names (including Miller's) of the 12 sponsoring congressmen?" Clausen asked.

He suggested that Miller had now disassociated himself because "his co-sponsoring colleagues have met defeat for re-election."

Clausen also lashed out at Miller's "philosophy of government" which would "concentrate all power in a centralized federal government," Miller's support of federal aid to education, and Miller's 100 per cent vote against cutting or limiting federal spending."

Clausen said he favors responsible state and local government to solve problems of urban growth and community development, reforming tax laws to make this possible.

He urged passage of the Utt Amendment which would require the federal government to sell federal bureaus that compete with private industry and use the proceeds to help reduce the national debt.

Jury Still Sought For Murder Trial

New attempts will be made Wednesday to seat a jury in Marin Superior Court for the San Quentin murder trial of Alfred J. Jimenez and Robert B. Dorado.

Judge Thomas F. Keating adjourned court yesterday with the original jury list of 150 exhausted by defense and prosecution lawyers. More than 100 new prospective jurors will be called Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The two San Quentin Prison convicts are accused of the murder of fellow inmate Abel A. Navarez last Dec. 12.

He's The Man Who Takes Care Of Mt. Tamalpais

And Supervisor George Holmboe Likes His Work

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

George E. Holmboe, supervisor of Mt. Tamalpais State Park, was its first ranger back in 1941-42.

He has served in several other places since then, but has been at Tamalpais the second time since July 19 six years ago—and so happy is he with his present position that he hopes to spend the rest of his career there.

In fact he enjoys his grass roots level contacts with nature and people so much that, though as a Ranger III he is qualified to take the examinations for administrative levels of ranger IV, V and VI he doesn't plan to take them.

"At one of those levels," he said, "I would be excluded from field work. You know, we may have but one life, and we must be happy in that life to be successful.

THE PANORAMIC VIEW from this point in Mt. Tamalpais State Park has never lost its charm for George E. Holmboe, supervisor of the park. He is standing at the end of Throckmorton Trail which ascends the mountain from the Mountain Home Inn—one of 25 trails covering 35 miles that are maintained within the park. Holmboe says he hopes to spend the rest of his career at Mt. Tam. (Independent-Journal photo)

"THIS PARK, as far as I am concerned," he continued, "offers the best setup because of the climate, beauty and proximity to cities. Yet it is isolated from the metropolitan areas."

Holmboe has been single-minded about his career since as a boy in Montana he was impressed with the national forests.

Born in Garnell, Mont., on March 6, 1906, he was educated there until his father, an executive with an irrigation company, tired of the cold weather, and the family moved to San Diego. There George was graduated from high school, and his progress up to park supervisor began with being a United States forestry guard at Los Pinos and Dripping Springs ranger stations.

Next he was U.S. fire suppression foreman in the Cleveland National Forest near San Diego. From 1929 to 1935 he was with the U.S. Forest Service.

After attending the University of California for three years, where he majored in forestry, he changed to the California state park service at Mt. Tamalpais in 1942. During the war, on a leave of absence, he spent 26 months in the U.S. Navy Construction Battalion No. 130 (Seabees) as chief gunner's mate in charge of demolition.

Returning to the state parks in October of 1945, he was assigned successively to Mt. Diablo, Mt. Tamalpais and Samuel P. Taylor parks, the Stockton business district and Big Basin Redwood State Park before returning to Mt. Tamalpais.

HOLMBOE AND his wife, Reata, a teacher of physically handicapped children at Marindale School, have two sets of twins. Eighteen years old are Larry, a student at the University of California, and Gayle, who is attending the College of Marin. Thirteen-year-olds Everett and Virginia will be freshmen at Tamalpais High School this fall.

Related to his vocation are Holmboe's hobbies of fishing and collecting minerals. He also enjoys reading such periodicals as Scientific American and National Geographic as well as historical and informational books. The family as a whole is interested in good music in the form of collecting good records for the hi-fi set and attending operas in San Francisco whenever possible.

All members of the family are exceptionally fond of animals and have reared four orphaned fawns. The last one died not long ago from eating hemlock.

At present their interest is centered on a mother raccoon, who will come into the house to be fed, and "Snootie," a yellow and white tomcat who is accorded the full privileges of family membership.

To become a park supervisor Holmboe qualified in a written test and under standards that required:

"(1) One year of experience as a state park ranger II in the California State park service or three years full-time paid experience in the operation, maintenance, development, protection or interpretation of a park, public recreation or historical area, (2) at least two years in supervisory capacity, and (3) education equivalent to graduating from college, or additional qualifying experience substituted on a year for year basis."

He had to have a thorough knowledge of California state parks and recreational areas and had to know how to handle all problems in protecting, maintaining and improving a park, as well as procedures in construction, repair and maintenance of park facilities and methods of fire prevention and suppression.

He was also trained in methods of record keeping and safeguarding money and in principles of supervision.

Holmboe is assisted with his duties by a staff of five: Assistant Park Superintendent Robert Hewitt, ranger II; Willard G. Hanselman, ranger I; Roy Ramberg, ranger I; and Johnnie D. Allen and Harvey C. Ellis, park attendants.

FOR THE BENEFIT of boys who may be thinking of becoming rangers, Holmboe discussed the field and qualifications. Having worked under both, he was able to point out the differences between the U.S. and the California state services.

"There is considerable difference between working in the U.S. and state services," he explained. "Rangers in the U.S. Forestry Service must be experienced in forestry and study botany, biology, entomology, plant pathology and have a certain amount of civil engineering.

"They must have four and preferably five years of formal college education in an accredited school of forestry, such as that of the University of California or the University of Oregon. They are subject to transfer anywhere in the United States.

"The California Division of Forestry is concerned with fire fighting and protection of the timber crop and may even sell timber. Educational requirements are about the same as for the national ser-

THERE WAS NEVER any doubt in the mind of George Holmboe as to the career he would follow since, as a boy in Montana, he first became interested in our national forests. He has served with both the U.S. Forestry Service and the California State Division of Beaches and Parks, and is now with the latter as supervisor of its Mt. Tamalpais State Park. vice, but transfer is limited to within the state.

"Mt. Tamalpais State Park is under the Division of Beaches and Parks of the State Department of Parks and Recreation. The Division of Beaches and Parks is concerned more with the preservation of natural areas for enjoyment of the public and not so much with fire fighting and conservation. Emphasis is on recreation and taking care of the visiting public, and preservation of natural features of an area.

"In the Division of Beaches and Parks a young man progresses from park aide, a seasonal job concerned with park maintenance, to park attendant, a permanent classification. After four years he is eligible to take the ranger I examinations, but if he has some education, this time can be shortened.

"A college graduate, preferably with major in forestry, can take a ranger I examination without previous experience. Thereafter progress is through ranger II up to VI, which is supervisor of a district of which California has six."

Mount Tamalpais State Park is in District II, which comprises approximately 20 parks and historical monuments, under the jurisdiction of Gordon T. Kishbaugh and M. M. Gregory, assistant superintendent, and a staff at Santa Rosa.

VERY PROUD of "his park," Holmboe went on to discuss it, starting with the name "Tamalpais."

"There are various theories about its origin," he said, "but I like to think of it as meaning 'land of the Tamal Indians.' Tamal Indians definitely lived in this area, and the Spanish word for country, or land, is 'pais,' so that makes a perfect translation, it seems to me.

"The park has an annual attendance of 260,000, about half that of Muir Woods. At present it is composed of 2,200 acres, or double what it was two years ago. Not all of this has been developed.

"To some people there is an apparent discrepancy between the development of state parks and the acquisition program. It is the feeling of the State Park Commission and staffs of the Division of Beaches and Parks that it is necessary for the present time and will be for some time to come to acquire potential areas and defer the development of new acquisitions until a later date. This is based on the rapidly increasing cost of and disappearance of available lands.

"Eventually no person on this earth will be able to own one square foot of this earth. It will not be economically feasible or right to do so because, as the population continues to grow, property becomes more valuable for multiple use.

"Shortly we will have expended the million dollars set up during the last four years for acquisition and practical development of acreage on Mt. Tamalpais. Certain areas are being acquired with the specific thought in mind of establishing more camping areas for the enjoyment of the public. Eventually Boot Jack Camp and Tamalpais Camp may revert to day use.

"New developments of overnight camping sites will be within new acquisitions, particularly Frank's Valley, represented by the Weigel Priest property and the de Ponte property.

"PRESENT CAMPING facilities of the park include two combination camping and picnic areas open to the public on a first-come-first-served basis. These are Bootjack and Pantoll. Camp Alice Eastwood, which is a combination camping and picnic area for organized groups, is available by reservation. And at the summit of Mt. Tamalpais there is a small, dry (no fires of any kind allowed) picnic area providing 11 tables, water and restrooms."

Questioned as to the existence of any problems with plants and animals of the park, Holmboe became philo-

MANKIND AND FIRE are the big "upsetters" of the balance of nature, and man is the worse of the two, according to Mt. Tamalpais State Park Supervisor George E. Holmboe. sophical about the role played by man.

"Man is the worst upsetter of the balance of nature," he declared. "Human beings are a factor in nature and fire is another. Plant life is in constant change through man's working with it, eradicating some plants and allowing others to take over. Man's changes are more permanent than fire's because after a fire the more dominant plants take over again.

"Right from the window of this station I have watched the plant life around it change completely.

"I can't see that the Scotch broom some people complain about is a special fire hazard. Other growth is worse.

"Man, too, is partly the cause of the deer problem. By killing off their natural enemies, like the mountain lion, he has caused overpopulation, resulting in loud wails from garden owners."

"The only defense against them," he added, "is a seven-foot cyclone fence with outriggers."

Further questioned as to the report of mountain lions roaming the area, Holmboe confirmed it.

"I've seen them myself, at Mt. Diablo, Samuel P. Taylor and here at Mt. Tamalpais. They come from Southern California up from Mexico along the coast range. There's no danger from them, and they pose no problem.

"AS FOR THE deer, they are under the control of the State Fish and Game Division, except in a state park where no hunting is allowed, though fishing is. This is a cooperative matter between the Beaches and Parks and Fish and Game divisions. Perhaps they could round up many of them and transport them into a larger area, where they would be subject to control by hunting.

"Only 25 per cent of the cost of the operation of a state park system is paid by the fees charged the visiting public. The remaining 75 per cent is defrayed by state funds coming from taxpayers' money.

"So it behooves the public to take care of their own property."

WITH PATTERN placed, Mrs. W. Stanley George, Grape Festival booth chairman for Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild, begins cutting out the design for a felt picture or wall hanging. Peter Dean, 7, looks on approvingly.

AFTER THE PIECES are cut out of felt, they are glued carefully to a larger piece, as demonstrated here by Mrs. Glen Widdows.

Pictures For The Children

Rolls of felt in various colors become charming pictures in the talented hands of members of the Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild.

The women specialize in pictures or wall hangings for children's rooms. For their "Felt Booth" at the annual Grape Festival in San Anselmo Oct. 6, they have made around 200 of these, plus other items in felt.

It's easy, to hear the guild members tell it.

"We just use the felt, paper patterns, sharp scissors, and white glue," says Mrs. Donald Dean, president of the guild. "Then we place dowels at the tops and bottoms of the finished pictures for hanghanging."

But there's more to it than that. After selecting and purchasing the felt in quantity, it takes hours of painstaking work and skill to make the designs, cut out the patterns, and then place and glue the pieces according to the patterns. One design may call for dozens of pieces in many colors, and each must be cut and placed precisely or the whole design is spoiled. (This seldom happens.)

All the guild members have learned this skill and contributed to the large stock of merchandise for their booths at the Grape Festival. Designs include a cowboy, clown, animals, and the always popular toy soldier.

"IT GOES right there," Julie Dean, 4, tells her mother, Mrs. Donald Dean, president of the Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild, as Mrs. Dean finishes a felt picture.

ANDY DEAN, 6, and his sister Julie enjoy a preview of felt pictures made by their mother and other members of the Lucas Valley Sunny Hills Guild for the Grape Festival to be held Oct. 6 in San Anselmo. (Independent-Journal photos)

THIS AERIAL VIEW shows Fort Baker as it lies at the northern terminus of the Golden Gate Bridge. The neat, frame buildings of the fort are clustered around Horseshoe Cove. The bridge, its approaches and Point Vista can be seen to the right. And San Francisco lies across the water. Fort Baker is one of a chain of three forts—Barry and Cronkhite complete the trio—which lie along the Marin coastline. All are sub-units of San Francisco's famed Presidio. And a drive through the three forts also exposes the motorists to some of Marin's most spectacular views. (U.S. Army photo)

See Marvelous Marin

Three Forts—And Views Unlimited

It is ironic that one of the most peaceful and inviting areas in all Marin is the shoreline occupied by three military installations — Forts Baker, Barry and Cronkhite.

It is also ironic that so few Marinites have availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the forts, although the gates have stood invitingly open for the past six years.

To visit the forts which lie at the northern end of the Golden Gate Bridge, the best approach is from the road that leads south from Sausalito to the bridge. You will see the gates to your left as you round a curve. And just a few feet inside the gate, an army sign welcomes you to the three forts.

ALL THREE are sub-installations of the famed Presidio of San Francisco. And all were once part of the Lime Point Military Reservation established in 1866.

In 1897 the installation was renamed Fort Baker in honor of Edward Dickinson Baker. Then in 1904 the fort was split and the western portion named Fort Barry for Brevet Maj. Gen. William Farquhar Barry. In 1937 still another division was made and this time the westernmost portion was named Fort Cronkhite for Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite.

As you drive along the road entering Fort Baker there are a number of wide turnouts where you can stop and take in the spectacular views of Sausalito, Tiburon, Angel Island, the East Bay counties, and, on a clear day, the southern end of the bay. A camera is a must for the trip. And if you have it loaded with color film, you are certain to reap some spectacular shots.

Drive to your left in Fort Baker and pull in at Horseshoe Cove for a look across the bay, and a "seal's eye" view of the Golden Gate Bridge.

It was at Fort Baker that the first coastal artillery batteries were completed in August of 1897. And some of the older buildings you will see still standing in the forts date back to 1902 and 1904.

The docking facilities you will note in the cove serve children who ferry over from their Angel Island homes to attend school in Sausalito.

You can now rejoin the main road and follow Bunker Road to the one-way tunnel controlled by traffic lights that leads on toward Barry, Cronkhite and Battery Mendell.

Be certain in your driving to observe the leisurely 25 mile per hour speed limit except where otherwise posted. And be certain, too, to observe those areas which are marked by "off limits" signs as out-of-bounds for visitors. No loitering in those areas.

FOLLOWING Bunker Road on to Cronkhite, you loop through the hills and double back on the ocean edge of Cronkhite Cantonment. Here you find a beach where you can picnic, collect minute stones for mosaics, or just enjoy watching the play of the waves.

Just beyond Rodeo Lagoon, take the road leading to your right and it will take you to the U. S. Coast Guard's Point Bonita Light Station. Visiting hours there week days are 1 to 3 p.m.; Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, 1 to 4 p.m. For this visit, be sure to wear sturdy, flat shoes for walking.

Back on Bunker Road again, take the road that leads right after you pass the rifle range and follow it around to your left for the most spectacular view of all. At the turn-around, just past Battery Wallace and almost directly under Gertie, the giant long-range radar, you'll look east at the Golden Gate Bridge and San Francisco.

It is not advisable to travel further on this road for it is steep with sharp curves. So turn around and follow the coast to rejoin Highway 101.

A secondary road leads under the bridge, but it is best not to travel it at this time since it is directly under current bridge construction work.

Fishermen will be interested in learning that angling is permitted in the lagoon, stocked annually by the state, and on the beaches. However, fishermen must first get a permit from the provost office at the Presidio.

SO QUIET are the forts that they may almost seem deserted at times.

But the plain, neat barracks and other buildings serve as headquarters for the Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command, the 561st Engineer Company, the 197th Ordnance Detachment and the Sixth Army Medical Laboratory.

Both Barry and Cronkhite boast Nike bases.

But the chief attractions for the visitor are the spectacular views which can be enjoyed along the way. The Army invites you to share it with the men who man the forts and the vital installations they house.

Ken Has A Day Life Too

Night Music Man Spends Off-Work Hours In Marin

Ken Ackerman is known throughout the Bay Area as the all-night music man on San Francisco radio station KCBS where he presides over the "Music 'Til Dawn" program.

But he has a daytime life, too. And he leads it in Marin.

Ackerman's home is in Sleepy Hollow where he, his wife Catherine and daughters Jean, 15, a sophomore at Sir Francis Drake High School, and Barbara, 11, a seventh grader at Sleepy Hollow School, live.

There was a horse to be cared for. The steed lived in a split-level barn on top of a hill. The Ackermans reside in a ranch-style house at the foot of the hill.

"THE HORSE had a beautiful view of the valley, and we had a beautiful view of the horse," Ken quips.

The Ackermans, however, recently sold the horse to one of his fellow employees at KCBS. "Rusty just got to be too much for us," he explains.

The Ackermans still, however, have a number of smaller pets including a sizeable aviary.

Ackerman has two pet hobbies— and both revolve around wood.

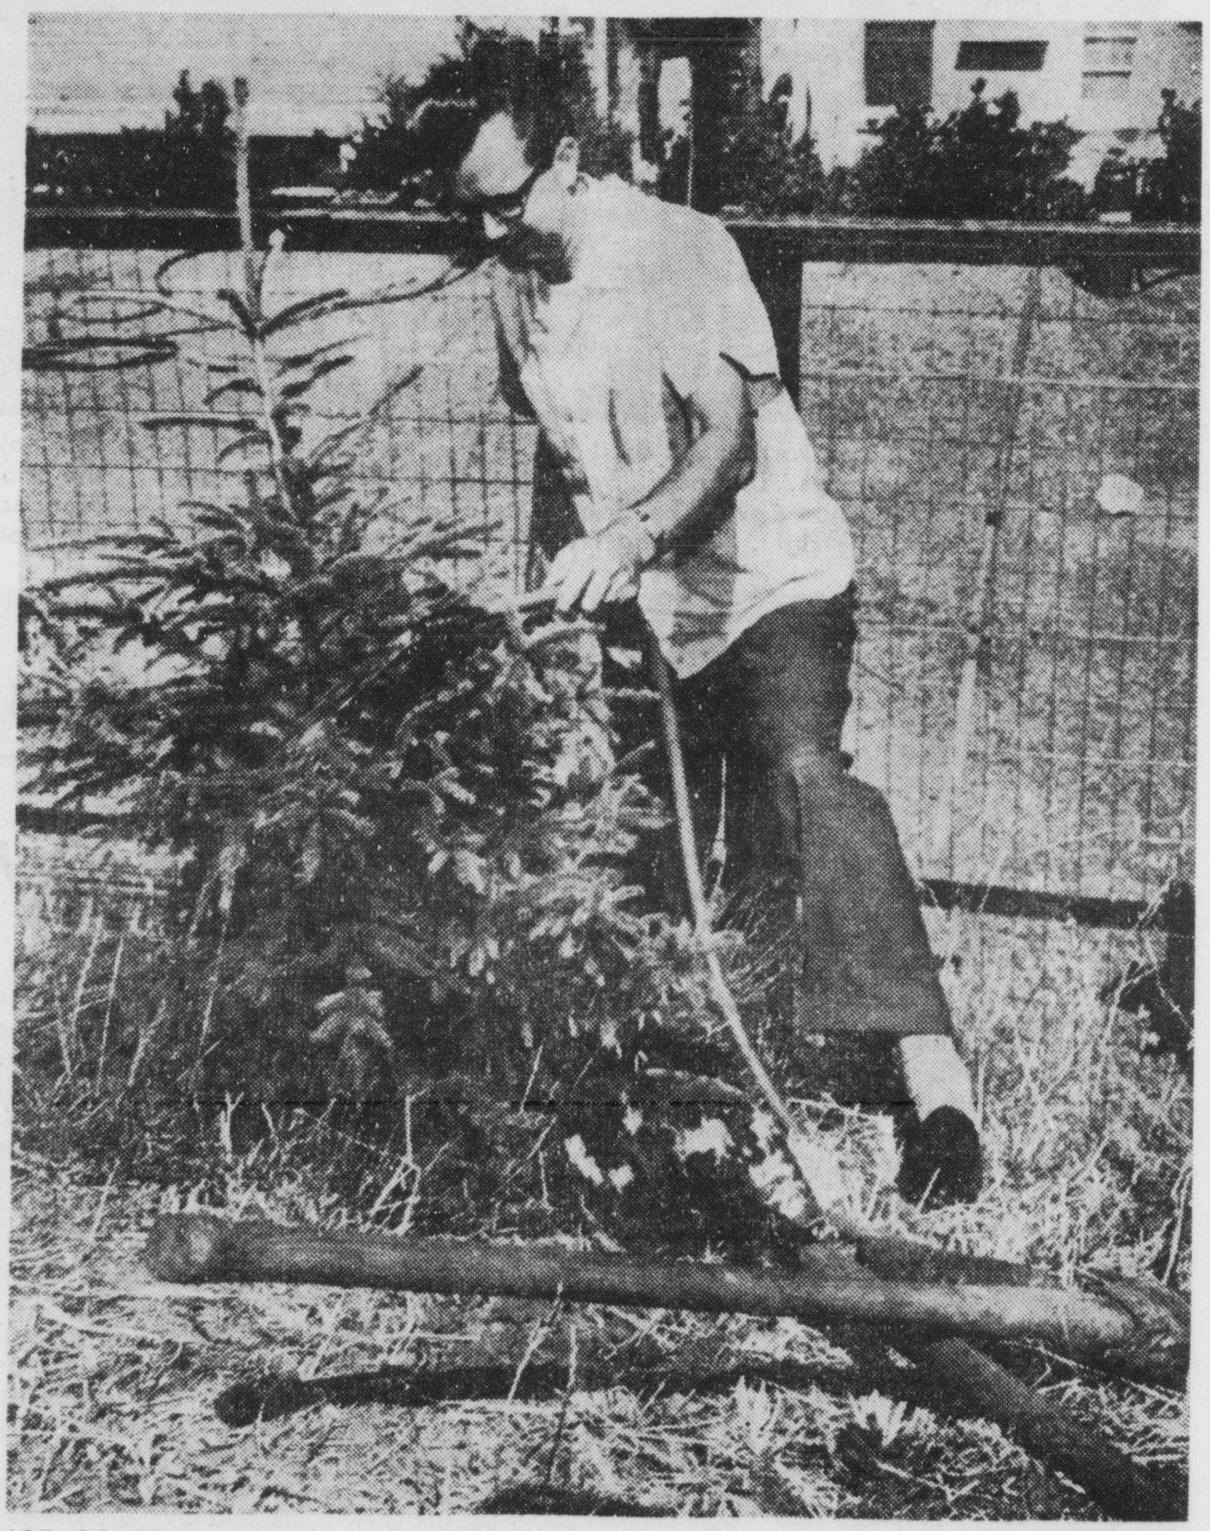
IN HIS workshop at his Sleepy Hollow home, Ken Ackerman, all-night music man and newscaster for radio station KCBS, likes to relax by doing a bit of woodwork. His projects have included a barn, a summer house and a carport.



NOT CONTENT WITH building things of wood, Ken Ackerman also grows it. Here he tends to an evergreen, just one of the 30-some trees of many different species that he has planted in his acre of land at Sleepy Hollow. Tree planting has become a hobby with him. (Independent-Journal photos)

Ken Ackerman—A Tree-Planting Man

Completed projects include the split-level barn for Rusty the horse, a summer house and a carport.

Not content just to work with wood, Ken grows it too.

On KCBS he was called upon to read so many "Plant A Tree" public service announcements two years ago that his acre of land is now dotted with trees.

Pepper, peach, almond, Modesto ash, Monterey pine, silk oak, eucalyptus, Chinese elm, poplar, mulberry, apple, cherry, walnut—those are only a few of the species represented.

"There are some that nobody can identify," he adds.

Ackerman says that in all, he has planted more than 30 trees on his land since he started his one-man reforesting campaign.

ALTHOUGH HE has little time for sports, he does enjoy golfing and boating in his 14-foot runabout.

He started his radio career in 1940 at the age of 18 and joined KCBS (then KQW) two years later. In his career he has done all kinds of announcing from hillbilly shows in Sacramento to the Mitch Miller program from the Park Sheraton in New York.

During World War II he announced programs for American and Canadian GIs is Alaska and directed Coast Guard recruiting activities in the Ninth Naval District.

He is now the senior announcer at KCBS. Since 1958 he has emceed the "Music 'Til Dawn" show. He also handles two newscasts and an early morning program for farmers.

What are his special likes besides his family, his woodworking, the classical records he spins for his radio audience, and the trees he grows?

"Spaghetti," says Ken. "I love the stuff."

WATCHING THE ACTIVITY in the playground area of Terra Linda's two and a half acre Del Ganado Park are John, Peggy, Nancy and Mary Reilly, and their mother, Mrs. Louis Reilly. The park is operated as a community recreation center by the Terra Linda Recreation District and has attracted statewide recognition because of its intensified use of limited space. A Community And Its Park

Terra Lindans Are Proud Of Their Recreation Center

By DON KEOWN

It was largely at the insistence of Mary Summers, former Marin County planning director, that even before the first home was built by developers in Terra Linda Valley, land was set aside for recreational use.

Today the 4,000 residents of the 320-acre Terra Linda Recreation District are reaping the benefits of that foresight.

Mrs. Summers had originally anticipated the development of the area in its entirety as a "planned community." Piecemeal annexations to the City of San Rafael eliminated portions of her plan. But existing facilities within the recreation district remain a lasting tribute to her efforts.

It was in 1957 that the Terra Linda Community Services District was formed to provide police, fire protection and street lighting services for the unincorporated area—and to develop parks and recreational facilities.

In 1960 a proposed $350,000 bond issue to finance swimming pools, tennis and handball courts and a community building or pavilion was defeated by 66 votes.

There followed a re-evaluation of the program which resulted in a second bond proposal—this time for $233,000.

IN THE INTERIM a movement was under way to annex Terra Linda to San Rafael. The community services district board concerned with loss of control over the area's two park sites, conceived the plan to form a recreation district which, they felt, might retain jurisdiction over the parks in the event of annexation.

Terra Linda voters approved the formation of a recreation district in October of 1960. Although subsequent developments cast serious doubt upon the ability of the recreation district to survive annexation, that point became mute when the annexation proposal was defeated at the polls.

The dual-district activity resulted in an ironic situation when the community services district, in its efforts to preserve "local control" over its holdings when annexation was still brewing, transferred title of all lands to the recreational district. Now, as a result, the community services district is leasing its firehouse site from the recreational district—paying a dollar a year rent for the use of land it once owned.

Boundaries of the two districts are continguous.

The vote on the $233,000 bond issue was held May 9, 1961, and resulted in overwhelming approval.

Already the district had obtained an option to purchase a former school building and its two-and-a-half-acre site in the heart of Terra Linda on Del Ganado Road. This site served as a rallying point for community interest during the pre-election period.

In April the first of many do-it-yourself weekend improvement programs had been launched and the abandoned school building painted, broken window panes replaced and the rooms cleaned and made available to youth and civic groups.

DIRECTORS OF the recreational district joined in the work to bring closer the community building which was to be a vital part of the new bond program.

Approval of the bonds served as a "go-ahead" signal for further work toward realization of "Marin's most complete community recreation center" — the goal of the district.

Chairman Wally Fairweather and Directors Jack Brandon, Jim Schryver, Gordon Young and Sy Yuan worked with landscape architects Royston, Hanamoto and Mayes and building architects Strangaard and Mogensen to develop the facilities. Much of 1961 was spent in endless meetings with specialists.

"It was," the directors say, "the year in which our dreams started to take shape on paper."

On Jan. 28, 1962, ground was broken and construction of the "dream" began. And given the honor of turning the first shovel of soil for Del Ganado Park was Mary Summers, the woman who had preserved the park sites for Terra Lindans.

Through the developmental stages the directors had carried the ball without salaries (they are still unpaid) and with only nominal expenditures for secretarial assistance. But last March 28 Richard (Dick) Conzelmann, previously employed in recreation at Salinas, was hired as Terra Linda's first paid, full-time employee to direct the program.

Conzelmann, working with the directors, succeeded in recruiting a staff, part paid, part volunteer, and in developing a program that was exceptionally well-rounded for an initial year of operation.

He estimates that nearly 50 per cent of the residents of Terra Linda have availed themselves of the opportunity to use the swimming pool at a charge of $25 per family per season.

ming instruction and for training sessions for competitive swimming and water ballet teams. The pool is kept open until 8 o'clock nightly and many commuters, homeward bound, stop to cool off with a brief dip in the pool before or after dinner.

This acceptance of the 6 to 8 p.m. swimming period has been one of the most pleasing aspects of the present season, Conzelmann says.

Another innovation at the pool is the clearing of the water every hour on the hour during the daytime for a 15-minute "adults only" period. This serves two purposes, Conzelmann says. It insures the adults against being crowded out by the youngsters. And many mothers welcome the enforced rest period for their children.

The pool, heated, will remain open until the end of October, a somewhat later closing date than that observed by most outdoor pools in this area.

"We think our situation is such that we will continue to enjoy good patronage for the next two months," Conzelmann believes.

But if the pool is now the source of the greatest community pride and use, the community building looms as the "backbone" for the future.

Inside the building are one large and two smaller meeting rooms. The smaller ones are used during daytime hours for art and craft club meetings, nursery school, dance classes. Evenings may find the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching Band playing a concert on the open air stage just outside the building. Or, the Terra Linda chorus rehearsing in one of the meeting rooms.

Afternoons and evenings are sure to find teen-agers having a Coke, playing a game of ping-pong, volleyball, shuffleboard, or just enjoying the pleasure of the home-away-from-home that the community building is becoming for them.

DANCES AND meetings were anticipated functions for the building. Amateur weightlifters who have also appeared on the scene were not — but nonetheless welcomed.

Future plans, according to Jack Brandon, current board chairman, call for the development of a wide range of evening activities patterned for the entire family. A committee is at work on such a program for this fall.

Contemplated are movies, debates, lectures, performing arts . . .

EXECUTING A PRETTY DIVE into the Del Ganado Park pool is Valerie Leland. The pool is exceedingly popular with all Terra Lindans and every hour on the hour, for a 15-minute period, the youngsters have to quit the pool and leave it to the adults.

HEALTHY YOUNGSTERS of Terra Linda find Del Ganado Park's playground area an excellent place to work off excess energy. And engaged in doing just that are Linda Johnson and Michael Danielson. The play area offers its patrons a variety of devices upon which to test and build young muscles.

AN ARTS AND CRAFTS unit was a popular part of the summer recreation program in the community building at Del Ganado Park, Terra Linda, this summer. Donna Perry is one of the playground leaders. Her young pupils at work on models are, left to right, Kurt Miles, Mark Blewett, Brant Morowski and Stephen Finerty. And they are intent upon their work.

THE SWIMMING POOL at Del Ganado Park will remain open into late October, thanks to the heating system. Janis Simmons is seated at the poolside while Diane Foulkes plunges into the water.

THE CONGESTION at the bicycle rack testifies to the extreme popularity of Del Ganado facilities with Terra Linda's younger set. New arrivals here are Jackie Howe and Ann Gerber.

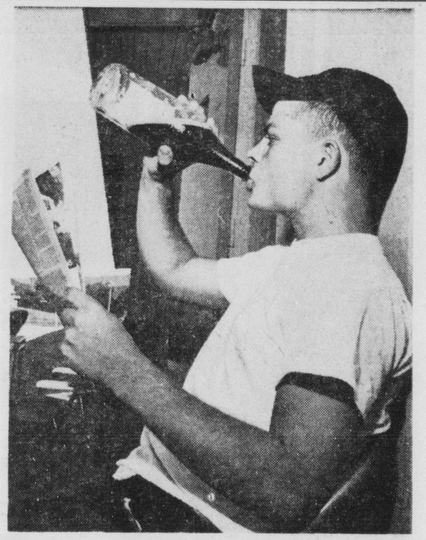
Terra Linda District Offers Recreation For Every Age Group

From Dawn Into Dark Activities Keep Del Ganado Park Humming



ONE OF THE VOLUNTEER workers who helps make the Terra Linda recreation program click is young George Gossert. Here he relaxes a bit with a cold drink and some reading material.

AN ACTIVE DAY at the park requires some nourishment to replenish the energy supply. Here young Scott Lacoste, 14 months old, is getting just that with some help from his mother, Mrs. Jean Lacoste. They were sunning themselves near the pool in Terra Linda's Del Ganado Park. (Independent-Journal photos by Robert Hax)

TERRA LINDA TEEN-AGERS have found the recreation center at Del Ganado Park to be a home-away-from-home—a fine place in which to get together with their friends. Gary Weisbarth and Cora Lucero are seen here around the firepit, for which a grill is being designed. When completed it will be ideal for barbecues for youth and other groups. A Pattern Program In Parks, Recreation

Brandon assesses the district's objective.

Conzelmann and the directors are looking toward volunteer residents of the district to play a major role in developing these additional opportunities.

In addition to the swimming pool and the community building, the two-and-a-half acre Del Ganado site contains a wading pool for the smaller children, a spray pad for the toddlers, a playground, picnicking area, game area (volleyball, shuffleboard, etc.) and parking for 75 cars.

"Our only parking problem is with the bicycles," Brandon grins.

The area is completely landscaped.

Still largely awaiting development is a second park site in the district—Oleander on Oleander Drive. Also approximately two and a half acres in size, it now contains only minimal children's play equipment.

Following maximum utilization of the two and a half acre Del Ganado Park currently being developed, the district will still have available the Oleander site, approximately the same size, with which to meet continuing needs of a growing community.

WITHIN THE district are 948 homes, two Dixie School District school sites and a neighborhood shopping center—Scotty's. Dixie District trustees have cooperated by furnishing the recreation district with additional school space in which to conduct summer programs.

And the shopping center has not only helped finance the program with its tax base, but, in the pre-recreational center days, served as a gathering point for idle Terra Linda teenagers and helped point out to the residents the need for facilities for that age group.

The 948 homes are taxed at the maximum recreation district levy of 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. This brings the district revenue of approximately $22,000 a year.

The cost per home, including the $25 additional use charge for the pool, breaks down at between $65 and $75 a year per household.

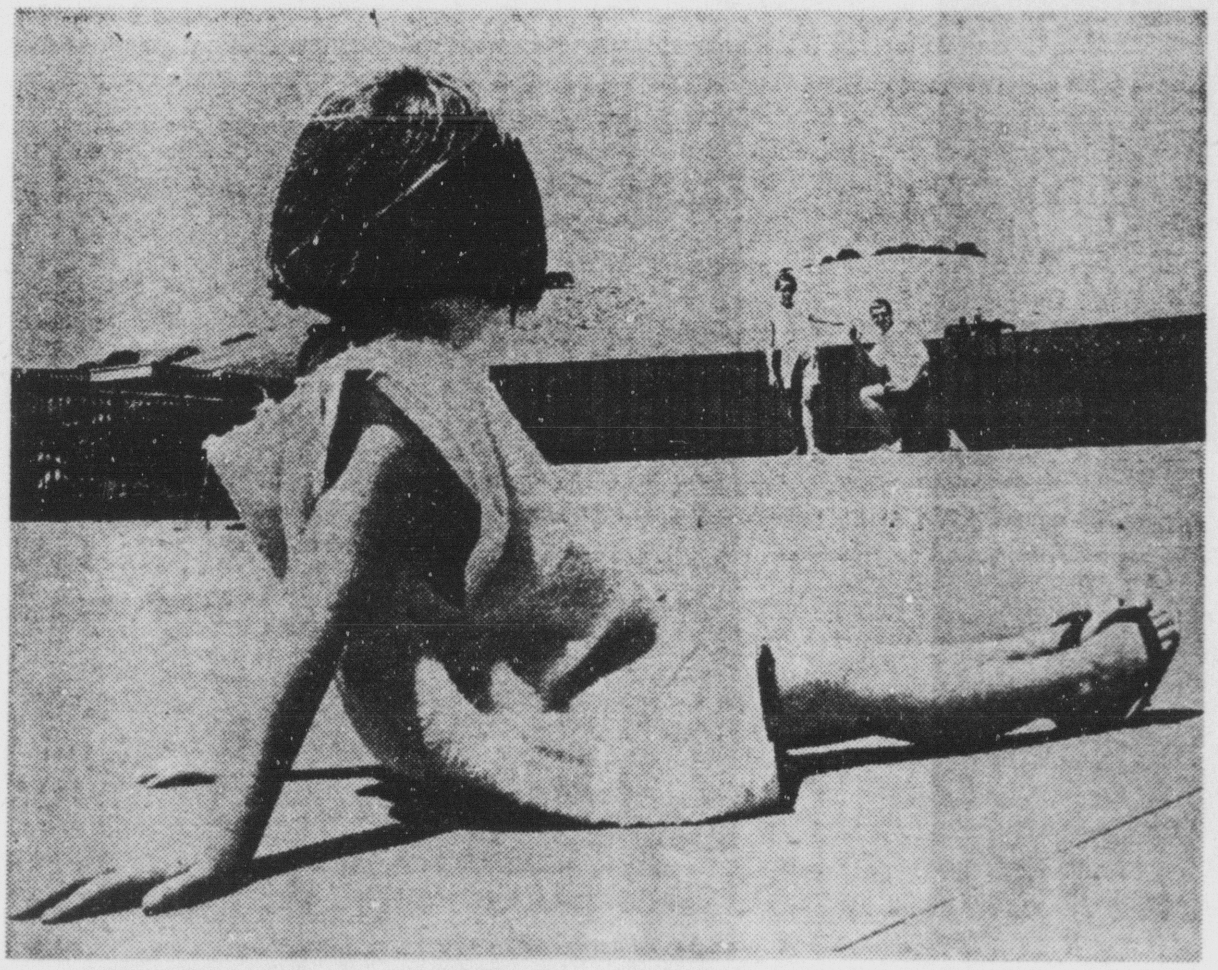
Terra Lindans are proud that their recreation center has attracted statewide interest. Gladys Snyder, state director of recreation, and Everett Gale, head of the state recreation commission, have been among the visitors who have left praising it.

Representatives of communities from great distances and from within Marin—Marinwood, Novato, etc. — have also inspected and studied the Terra Linda setup.

THE RESULT of these visits is certain to be the springing up around the state of other year-round community recreation facilities and programs cut to the Terra Linda pattern.

And that pattern, as summarized by Jack Brandon is this:

"A busy facility that literally works from dawn till dusk in attempting to satisfy the recreational needs of all age groups. And programs geared to be progressive in approach and aimed at attracting people of varied backgrounds and interests."



THE OUTDOOR STAGE in Del Ganado Park at Terra Linda is ideal for dramatics, band concerts and other programs. Donna Perry and Bill Rude make like thespians here. Their small audience is 4-year-old Cathy Glaze.

PLAYING IN THE SAND is always a popular pastime with youngsters in the park. But right now Steve Brandon, 10, has found himself a hideaway and prefers just to watch the construction workers.

CELLIST Gabor Retjo and pianist Adolph Baller will be presented in a program of sonatas by Bach, Brahms, Debussy and Beethoven at Angelico Hall on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael Tuesday at 8 p.m. It is part of the college's Concert Artist Series.

The 'Feel' Of The Theater Came First For Mill Valley Playwright

To learn to write plays, he first had to get, firsthand, the "feel" of the stage, Dennis Dunn decided.

And so the aspiring playwright joined the Sausalito Little Theater troupe, acting and designing for its productions.

To further his indoctrination in the theater, Dunn also taught dramatics for four or five years at San Rafael High School.

"THAT WAS invaluable training," he says today. "I found that you couldn't work with young people without learning a lot yourself."

Today, Dunn, 37, single, a Mill Valley resident, is a full-time playwright.

"My acting, designing and teaching days are over," he says. "I am concentrating upon my writing."

And already he has met with considerable success.

To date he has completed three plays, with more including an opera in the making. His full-length comedy, "The Virtues of Delight" is soon to go into production at The Playhouse in San Francisco. A second completed play is being considered for off-Broadway staging. And, closer to home, his one-acter, "A Pure and Remote View of Hills and Streams," is part of the Sausalito Little Theater's current Original Drama Workshop schedule.

It was one of six unpublished plays from among more than 100 submitted from all over the country selected for production by the Sausalito Little Theater in its annual competition on a "rehearsed reading" basis.

DUNN DESCRIBES "A Pure and Remote View of Hills and Streams" as "an ideal landscape . . . one you can quite literally escape into if you contemplate it long enough."

His inspiration, he says, "is what I have observed among people I know."

The title comes from the name of a Zen scroll that traveled with the Chinese National Art Treasures.

The play was written during a year spent in New York.

"A Pure and Remote View of Hills and Streams" will be given two presentations during the current Sausalito Little Theater run—this evening and again next Friday. Playing with it will be "The Crowded Bedroom" by R. L. Sassoon of Berkeley. Other winning one-act plays will be seen Friday and Saturday evenings through Sept. 22.

Curtain time is 8:30 p. m.

Abe Kalish, one of the Sausalito Little Theater directors charged with responsibility for bringing to life the unpublished plays, explains the purpose of the drama workshop this way:

"The workshop brings with it the excitement of discovery and experiment which is the life blood of the theater.

"EVERY GROUP that has grown to prominence in the long history of the theater has done so with new plays, written or sponsored especially for or by it, as did Shakespeare and Moliere for the theaters of their times."

As for Dunn, he says his plans for the future are quite simply to "keep on writing right up to the moment the bomb falls."

PLAYWRIGHT Dennis Dunn of Mill Valley is one of six writers whose one-act plays are currently being staged by the Sausalito Little Theater as part of that group's second annual Original Drama Workshop.

"WHY DO MY SUMMER COTTONS SMELL FISHY?"

More and more fabrics these days are treated to overcome shrinkage, to withstand spots and stains, to resist wrinkles and to hold creases. This treatment, when using carbamide resins of the urea or melamine type, give off an odor which may be described as "fishy" when subjected to body heat or moisture from perspiration. The heat of the drycleaning process, also, can bring out this odor.

The fault, however, is not that of drycleaning. It is due to improper "curing" of the resin used on the fabric or a breakdown of the components of the resin. As a general rule, when these odors develop they cannot be removed.

The only step to take when such offensive odors occur is to return the garment to the manufacturer. The fault is with the fabric and not the cleaning.

A Director Aims For 'Good Theater'

His Goal—An Emotional Experience For Audience

"If a play that I direct affords the audience a deep emotional experience, either good or bad, then I feel that I have been successful in my efforts to further what I like to call 'good theater'."

Speaking was handsome, urbane Stuart Rasmussen, director of the San Geronimo Valley Players, a group working under the auspices of the Woodacre Improvement Club.

The play now in rehearsal is "You Can't Take It With You," to be presented next Friday and Saturday nights at the Woodacre clubhouse.

Rasmussen, head librarian at the San Francisco News-Call Bulletin since 1937, is a native Californian, having been born in San Francisco just a few months after the earthquake of 1906.

Rasmussen has always loved the theater and has an excellent background as an actor, writer and director. His San Francisco high school yearbook has as the caption under his graduation picture—"the student most likely to go on the stage."

The Woodacre drama director has appeared with many theater groups, among them Theater Arts, Pine Street Players, Blake-Turner Stock Company, Oakland - Maxwell - Burke Company and the Green Street Theater Group.

While starring in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," his co-star was Harold Peary, later to become "The Great Gildersleeve."

Other plays in which he has appeared are "Charley's Aunt," "But Never Say Goodby," the role of Casca in "Julius Caesar," Leicester in "Queen To the End" and "Until I Die" in which his co-star was Barry Nelson. He has also appeared as an extra in several movies and is especially proud of his part in Erich von Stroheim's all-time film classic, "Greed."

He was in charge of research for background material for the movie "San Francisco."

When asked why he had switched from acting to directing, Stuart explained it this way: "As I grew older, I lost my enthusiasm for acting. I now prefer to interpret what I think the playwright had in mind. I expect the actor to transfer his own experiences into his role and I believe that I can help him accomplish this.

"One thing that I especially watch is the actor's movements. I believe that every movement must be vital to the action of the play and I actually prefer that an actor 'overact' slightly. As director I can always cut his portrayal down to what I want."

Rasmussen has written several one-act Christmas plays for children. He is presently writing a three-act play, "Two For the Party." The play involves the innate conflict between male and female.

Among the cast under his present direction in "You Can't Take It With You" are Bob Fuller, who has worked in the Hollywood studios, and Al Giddings, state fish and game warden.

A member of the cast describes the director this way:

"Stuart demands punctuality at rehearsals and he abhors 'show-offs.' He insists that we must be serious in our efforts to interpret our role and that we try to sublimate ourselves to the interest of the role. In other words, he wants us to forget ourselves and try to become the person that we are playing.

"Stu is no 'tyrant' — you know, the type as pictured in the movies. However, there is no question in anyone's mind as to just who is in charge."

SHIPS

Rain-soaked,
Immobile ships with clanking derricks,
case-enclosed cargoes—
steel monsters, full-bowelled
waiting to be water-spun across the seas.
Man of an alien breed—
toilers who know the deep intestinal throbbings
of ships homeward bound—
lounge about on deck . . .
the siren screams: sailing time.
They have left their places and idleness
and move barefooted, quickly now,
every man to his task.
Ropes slacken and are lifted from mooring blocks.
They drop twisted hemp with a splash into the sea.
Animated, snail-slow, the ship slides from its wooden berth.
With out-swung bow the space widens,
the gathering speed this water-wayfarer seeks the night.

THE PROMISE

The hills are morning-fresh again
Since the rain. Now ivory-clean,
Dried by sun and wind. Tear-stained
Brown moss splashed with emerald green,
And trees spread leaves as a girth
Of starched petticoats.
Not spring,
But winter now offers birth
Of promises awakening.

SAN ANSELMO MARY RYAN

SOMETHING of the flavor of a Charles Dickens tale has been captured by Rachel Varble in her new book for teen-agers, "Three Against London," published by Doubleday and Co. Set in 17th century England, it is the exciting story of two waterfront boys, a serving maid to Samuel Pepys, and their involvement in the Great Fire of London. The colorful background is superbly done, and enhanced by linecuts, such as the one above, by C. Walter Hodges.

New Series Makes History 'Palatable'

By DON KEOWN

The American Heritage Publishing Co. which has performed so spectacularly in its American Heritage Junior Library series has now launched a new series—its Horizon Caravel Books.

The first two Caravel offerings are "Knights of the Crusades" and "Heroes of Polar Exploration."

Aimed at readers of the junior high school level, but also of interest to older readers, the new books serve notice that the publisher plans to maintain in its new series the same high standards it has attained in its highly successful American Heritage Junior Library series.

THE BOOKS are expertly and interestingly written, profusely illustrated and handsomely bound.

Ralph K. Andrist is the author of the book on polar explorers and he details the exploits and hardships of such brave and determined men as Eric the Red, John Ross, Roald Amundsen, Robert Peary, Lt. Charles Wilkes, Ernest Shackleton, Robert Scott, Admiral Richard Byrd and right on down to today's scientific achievements including our nuclear submarines.

The book on the crusaders is authored by Jay Williams and tells of the efforts of medieval knights under such leaders as Richard the Lion Hearted and St. Louis to recapture the Holy Land from the Saracens—a sweep of almost 300 years.

Both books sell for $3.95, and offer much more for your money than do most children's books.

AND WHILE discussing American Heritage Publishing Co., the latest in its Junior Library series (which also sell for $3.95) is "The French and Indian Wars" by Lawrence Henry Gipson. It's the usual excellent job, but probably its companion—"The California Gold Rush" by the same Ralph K. Andrist mentioned earlier—will be of greater interest to Marin youngsters. It is a superb account of the 49ers and their era.

Two recent Heritage Junior Library books with guaranteed appeal for young boys are "Steamboats on the Mississippi" by Andrist and "Great Days of the Circus" by Freeman Hubbard. The youngster doesn't have to be a "bookworm" to fall in love with exciting presentations of this kind.

As a matter of fact any adult who has fond memories of the good old days when the circus came to town and kicked things off with a big parade down the main street, or who has thrilled to stories by Mark Twain and others about the Mississippi steamboats, will get a big boot out of these fine books.

How Marines Turned The Tide In Pacific Against Japanese

STRONG MEN ARMED by Robert Leckie, Random House, 522 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

The news from the war fronts was almost all bad during the eight months that followed the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in December, 1941.

Everywhere, Japanese forces were winning. For the United States, the story was one of withdrawal, surrender, disaster. Americans began to fear invasion. They hungered keenly for a victory.

Then into the headlines came a strange name: Guadalcanal. Virtually no one in America had ever heard it before. Few had even heard of the British Solomon Islands, of which it was one. It was a name without meaning.

It didn't long remain so. On Aug. 7, 1942, U.S. Marines landed on Guadalcanal to establish a beachhead in the first offensive action against Japan in World War II.

Other strange names followed into the news: Tulagi, Bougainville, Tarawa, New Britain, Kwajalein, Eniwetok, Saipan, Tinian, Pelelieu, Iwo Jima, Okinawa—each invaded in its turn by the Marines (sometimes in concert with the Army).

They became names to speed the heart and breath, shining names, written in blood.

To a later generation, most of these names are again strange. But for that new generation they are brought to life again, at once glorious and terrible, in Robert Leckie's "Strong Men Armed."

The book's subtitle is "The United States Marines Against Japan." That tells accurately its contents; for Leckie's book is a narrative history of the Marines' island - by - island struggles for three years from Guadalcanal to Japan's doorstep at Okinawa.

Leckie was there, as a Marine Corps combat correspondent. He has woven the personal experiences of individual Marine heroes into the history of the long island-hopping campaign. And he has done it with utmost skill.

"Strong Men Armed" is a gripping narrative. It will strongly stir the memories of those who served in World War II. For others, it will provide a picture at once exciting and terrifying of the horrors of modern warfare — even without the Atom.

If the Marines emerge a little more than lifesize from the story, that is to be expected: Leckie was a Marine.

Historians Speak

THE AMERICAN STORY edited by Earl Schenck Miers, Channel Press, 335 pages, paperback, $2.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"The American Story" is a collection of 60 essays by 60 members of the Society of American Historians, each on a particular phase of a particular time in American history "from Columbus to the Atom."

The collection was put together in 1956 by Broadcast Music Inc., and now is published as a paperback by Channel Press.

As must be expected in such a collection, the quality varies. Most of the writers are professors, and some of their pieces drone like dull classroom lectures. One is an attorney whose devotion to the short sentence gives his prose all the graces of movement of a 3-year-old playing hopscotch.

Most, however, are well written. Some are masterful —notably Claude G. Bowers' eloquent chapter on the Alien and Sedition Acts.

The history of what is now the United States comprises a vast mosaic. Many sections of it are illuminated in "The American Story." Unfortunately, this very worthwhile book is very poorly bound.

Miss Berckman does a superb job of picturing the conflicting emotions and motives of the girl. And she tells her story in a commendably straight-forward and readable manner.

There's No Law Against Having Fun With Music

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

Fun with music is something that people often think inappropriate. But here are three albums that contain musical satire of high quality that should appeal to a wide range of tastes:

JULIE ANDREWS & CAROL BURNETT AT CARNEGIE HALL—Columbia Stereo OS 2240—This is the "sound track" of the recent television show acclaimed by critics. Patterned after the Ethel Merman-Mary Martin TV show of some years ago, this one contained more parody and satire, particularly in three take-offs: one on the Moiseyev Ballet, one on the Trapp Family Singers of "The Sound of Music," and a third on western music. Miss Burnett also proves she has a talented voice.

THE HOFFNUNG ASTRONAUTICAL MUSIC FESTIVAL—1961 — Angel Stereo 35828—This is the third in a series of neo-Spike Jones classical concerts presented in London's Royal Festival Hall. As with the first two festivals, also on Angel Records, famous English conductors and composers contributed their skills to a gigantic farce. Cartoonist Gerard Hoffnung, whose hilarious drawings started the whole thing, died three years ago, but his memory lingers on in such creations as an excerpt from Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast," conducted by the composer with a flyswatter; and "Horrortorio," a new form of oratorio featuring Frankenstein and Dracula. Stereo adds much enjoyment to the humor.

TAMMY GRIMES (Columbia Stereo CS 8589) — This multi-talented actress, dancer, mimic has a voice which must be heard to be believed. An astonishing combination of hardness and yet great delicacy is found in her tones as she spoofs and plays with such standards as "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "Anything Goes," and "Rose of Washington Square." Tammy is a comedienne completely unlike others and sure to delight all those who want to have fun with music.

A Status Symbol That's Functional

Wine Cellar Feature Of This House

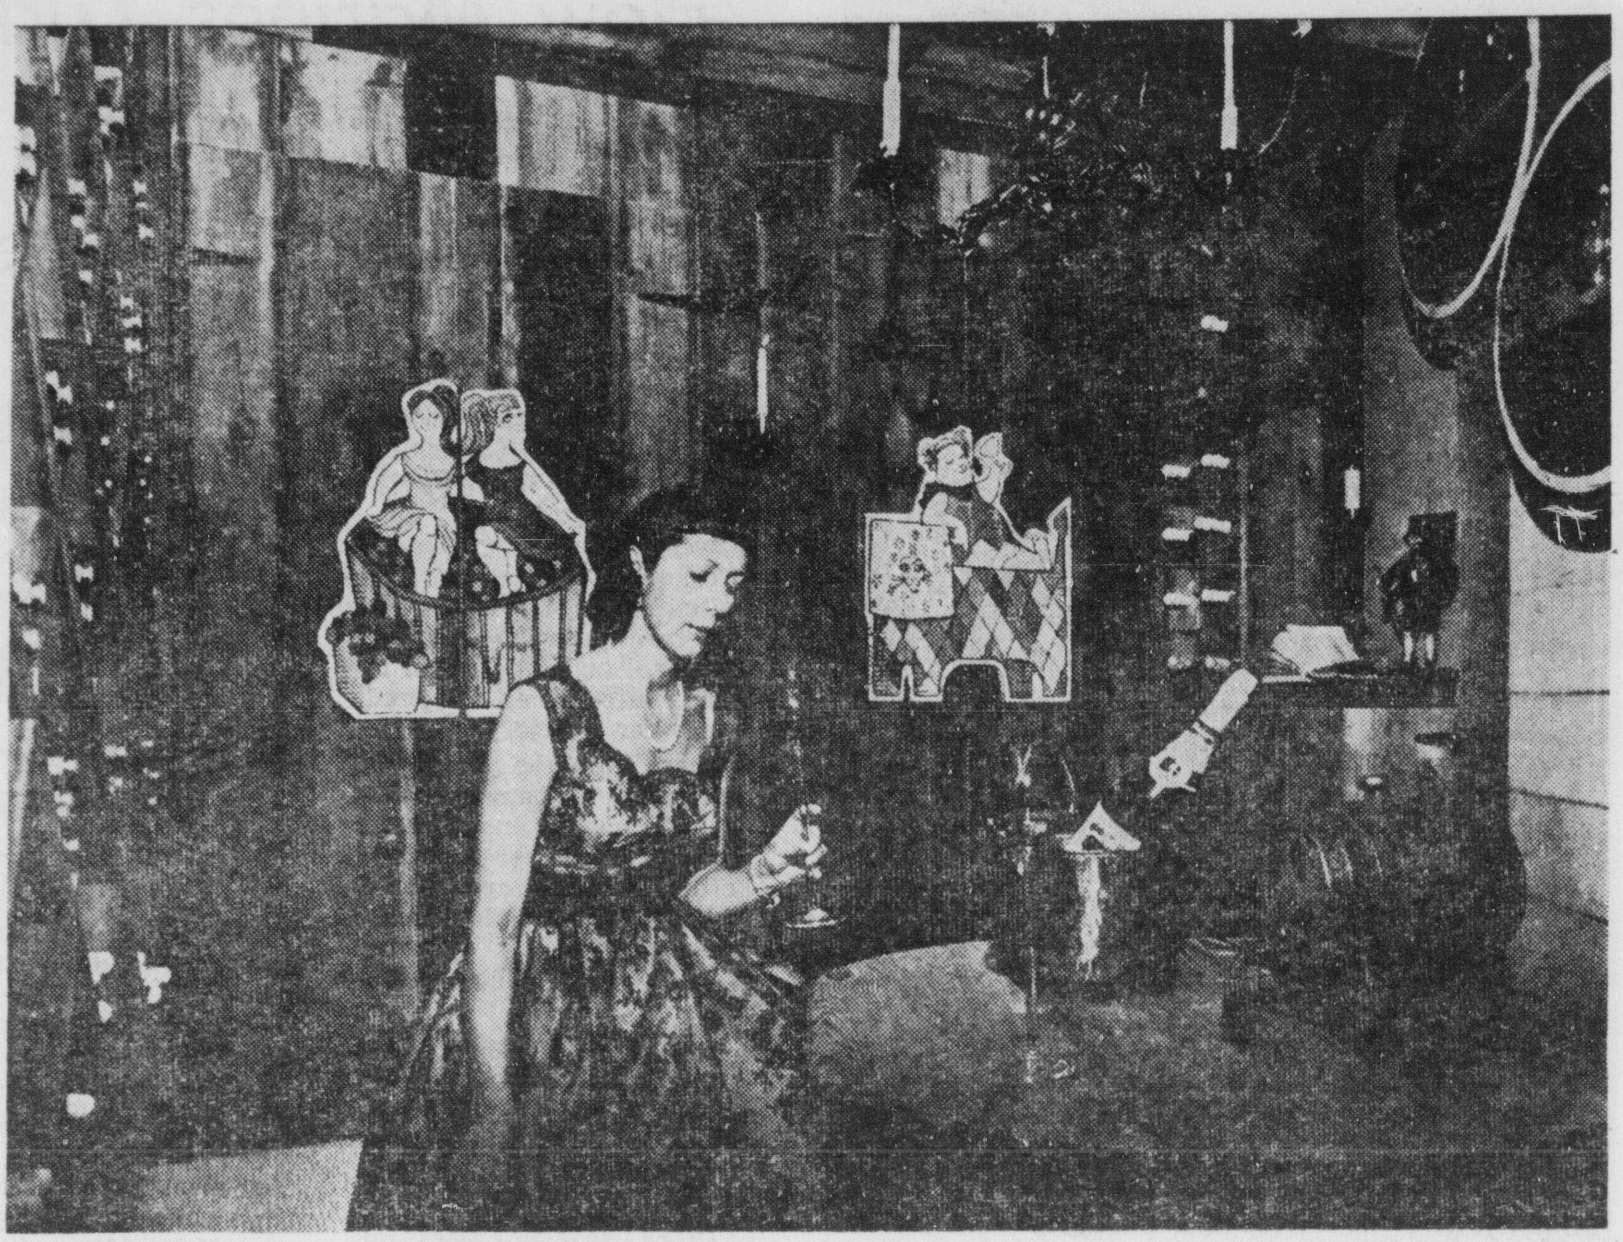
Celebrating an anniversary? Entertaining unexpected guests or looking for a new and fascinating hobby?

Then, a wine cellar could provide a pleasant and profitable solution.

A prototype for contemporary dwelling is a unique attraction of the "House of Spring" on Tara Hill, Tiburon.

Lynn W. Jaeger, property owner-builder, considered a wine cellar a practical sales feature for his 15-room luxury home overlooking the Golden Gate Bridge. And the sale is of cultural importance, since profits are earmarked for San Francisco's Spring Opera Company.

The House of Spring will be open to public inspection for an admission charge starting tomorrow through Sept. 30, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily with proceeds also going to the spring opera. A special invitational preview was held today.



MORE THAN 100 SQUARE FEET of honeycomb bins, open wall racks and concealed shelf storage are to be found in the wine cellar that is one of the special attractions of the "House of Spring" on Tiburon's Tara Hill. It and the rest of the 15-room luxury home will be open to the public tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on through Sept. 30. Admission proceeds will go to the San Francisco Spring Opera Company, as will the profits from the sale of the house, built by property owner Lynn W. Jaeger. The model in photo is Mrs. Wayland Bonbright III of Ross. (Independent-Journal photo)

CONSULTANTS for the fresh and functional wine cellar project were Rex Merino, interior designer, and Ernest Mittelberger, public relations director, Paul Masson Vineyards. Together with provision for efficient storage of 31 types of wine in five categories, stemware and accessories, their plan includes an illuminated shelf for a cellar book containing wine records, together with barrel-and-keg seating for wine tasting and testing.

While any cool, dry spot with an even temperature between 50 and 60 degrees can be converted for wine storage, the "House of Spring" cellar devotes more than 100 square feet to honeycomb bins, open wall racks and concealed shelf storage.

Weathered redwood bins, 16 inches deep to accommodate the tallest Rhine-Castle bottles, are arranged along one wall at a 45 degree angle to hold containers securely in place. Units are elevated above floor level to avoid bottle dampness while offering easy upkeep. Bottles are laid horizontally to keep corks moist and airtight; openings face frontward so leakage can be noticed in time to prevent damage.

Small holes that are drilled through hand-painted panels below the bins afford proper basement ventilation. (The grape cluster designs on redwood panels simulate hand-carved motifs found in century-old California wineries.)

A FULL CASE of 12 bottles fits each bin opening. Those nearest the floor are ordinarily reserved for sparkling wines requiring coolest temperature. However, this is unnecessary in the model cellar as off-white concrete block walls offer ideal insulation, guaranteeing low, even temperatures year-round. Numbered labels on each bin correspond to those in the cellar book listing classification, date of purchase, and preference of family or friends. The cellar book is also a practical guide for reordering as popular wines run low.

An opposite wall has built-in racks for prize-winning California champagnes that can be stored satisfactorily for several years. A cabinet below contains bar towels, napery, corkscrew, stemware for daily use, new corks and sterilized bottles for wine decanting.

Double doors of unfinished redwood, enhanced with wrought iron hardware, conceal auxiliary storage. Fanciful figures depicting grape-stomping maidens and the wine god, Bacchus, drawn by artist Dennis Redmond, serve as door-pulls.

Cases of popular red table wines rest on their sides on bottom shelves while white table wines, whose shelf life is limited, are easily accessible on racks above. Upper shelves are utilized for quart and economy gallon-size containers with screw tops, containing appetizer and dessert wines. At the same time, there is ample closet space for liquor supplies, bar glasses and utensils.

Sampling table is a giant 50-gallon wine barrel with table top of natural redwood. Host and guest seats are sanded nail kegs covered with brilliant silk cushions. Candlelight from a Spanish iron chandelier, together with wrought iron wall sconces, furnishes a soft, romantic glow, as well as early California charm to the setting. Candelabra, together with small ceiling pinspots, also illuminates sawed-off barrels set in one concrete block wall whose shelves hold prized cut-glass, handpainted and colored crystal goblets and decanters. Flooring throughout is mosaic vinyl.

AS A STATUS symbol, the wine cellar should vie favorably with the House of Spring's panoramic view, "wall-to-wall' windows and three-car-and-boat garage. At the same time, the model should offer home and apartment dwellers a wealth of professional ideas for wine storage and sampling.

As a convenience, for suburban householders far from beverage shops, a wine cellar can be a wise investment for impromptu hospitality, Merino points out. And as an economy, he adds, volume purchase and storage can amount to important dollar savings.

And, as a source of continuous pride and pleasure, a home wine cellar can be a perfect place to share, show-off or set aside a well-aged bottle from a proud possessor's private stock.

THE HELENE SCHOEN, a deep, rich red hybrid tea, is one of 10 new varieties of roses which Oregon growers Peterson and Dering are introducing for 1963. The plant is named after the 1961 president of the American Rose Society.

If Weather Confuses You, Just Think Of The Poor Rose Plants

California's climate is confusing to roses.

They are traditionally deciduous shrubs which curl up and go to sleep when cold weather arrives. But here in the Golden State, they often linger on in bloom until Christmas. And here where winters are really mild, they may never shed their leaves at all.

If this is confusing to the rose itself, it is a wonderful thing for the gardener. Far from picking the last roses of summer, he is now thinking of encouraging another flush of bloom. Only then will he be content to let his roses take a rest—and at that he may have to force them into it.

Fall is really a second spring in California and no one knows it better than the rosarian. Bloom is not the automatic thing it is in spring, however, for the rose bush lacks that stored energy in its roots, and it is up to the gardener to see that supplemental food is supplied.

Feeding thus becomes a number one item if the gardener wants to pick roses in October, November and even December. Feeding won't guarantee him roses for Christmas, but lack of feeding will definitely eliminate the possibility.

There is some doubt as to when roses should get their last summer meal. The California Assn. of Nurserymen suggests that it could be given as early in September as possible—no later than midmonth. Later feeding can stimulate too much growth at a time when we are trying to get our roses to slow down and take a rest.

Use either dry or liquid fertilizer in the amount recommended for feeding roses in the directions.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Lift bloomed-out gladiolus when tops turn brown. Cut the stalks off about an inch above the corms and store the latter in a cool place. They should also be dusted before storing.
- September and October are good months to put in that new lawn. Do it right! Ask your nurseryman and follow his instructions.
- Ranunculus and anemone tubers are available for planting in September. Soak them overnight before putting them in the ground.
- Bedding plants for winter bloom should be planted now. Stocks, violas, pansies, cinerarias, calendulas are five good choices.
- Many perennials—especially the Shasta daisies — need dividing this month.

Floribunda Roses Go Great As Flowering Hedge Plant

Floribunda roses, as a flowering hedge plant, are the greatest. From May to December they are always in bloom—and what bloom it is.

When you plant a rose hedge, however, you should be on good terms with your neighbor. For the rose is not a shrub to shut out unfriendly faces. If such is your desire, plant Privet, Eugenia or the like. Your row of floribundas should be a shared pleasure with the gardener next door.

When picking and choosing, you would do well to keep the growth habits in mind. Some floribundas such as Heat Wave and Texan are on the tall side. Others—Circus, Tom Tom, Ivory Fashion, to name but three—are of medium height. And a few—notably Sarabande among the more recent introductions — are quite compact.

Don't overlook the grandifloras, such as Queen Elizabeth and Pink Parfait, either. They are larger in bloom and bush than the floribundas and also showy in hedges.

When planting a rose hedge, stick with shrubs of one variety rather than mixing your colors. The charm that variety brings to the regular rose garden is lost in a hedge where the main purpose is to create uniformity. For the same reason, shrubs should be planted closer together than normally they would be.

If the idea of a rose hedge appeals to you but you can't convince your neighbor, try planting floribundas of a single variety along the sunny foundation wall of your house.
